LORENZ'S BOLD SURGERY.

He Straightened a Child's Deformed Feet as if the Bones Were Made of Plastic Clay.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Dr. Adolph Lorenz of Vienna, who operated on Lolita Armour, and who arrived in this city last Sunday, already has performed several successful bloodless surgical operations in the presence of a large number of California surgeons.

He treated free of charge yesterday a case of double club feet on a 5-months'-old baby, Ross Jackson of Santa Rosa. This infant's feet were so badly disarranged that they were bent inward and upward until the soles faced each other and left as the only possible walking surface the outer rear edges of the feet. Dr. Lorenz took each tiny foot in his hands and powerfully turned them round into the right position, practically wringing the soft little feet as though they were of plastic clay. The baby, soothed to sleep by ether, was not conscious of pain. A plaster cast was also placed about the rearranged joints, leaving the toes exposed, so that the blood circulation may be observed during the six or nine months that the plaster mold is to be kept on.

MEXICAN VOLCANO IN STRONG ERUPTION

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 7.—An American mining prospector who has arrived from the vicinity of the volcano of Colima, says it is in unusual activity. During the day the crater sends forth dense volumes of smoke and by night there is seen the glow of interior fires, lighting up the sky in reflection from a funnel cloud, continually ascending. At times there are sharp explosions and red hot stones are thrown to a great height.

FOUNDER'S DAY OBSERVED WITH ORATORY AND ART AT CARNEGIE INSTITUTE

Brilliant Assemblage Gathered Yesterday at the Music Hall to Hear Addresses by Three Distinguished Speakers.

WHITELAW REID DISCUSSED TRIUMPHANT DEMOCRACY

Richard Watson Gilder, Joseph Jefferson and Bishop Potter Present at Seventh Anniversary of the Founding of the Institute.

Pittsburgh's seventh annual celebration in honor of the philanthropic gifts of Andrew Carnegie was held yesterday under auspices most favorable and rich in promising auguries for the future. Three of the nation's distinguished men were among the Founder's Day guests, while Mr. Carnegie was there is spirit, and sent a message of good cheer to the thousands who share the bounty of his generous work.

The reports of the various departments of the Carnegie institute show that the profitable year just closed will be followed by still greater achievements, and that the proposed extensions to the great institution and the realization of the new Carnegie polytechnic school will come space. Mr. Carnegie, in a letter to Col. S. H. Church, says that he has been looking forward to the early selection of a site for the polytechnic school, and his hints doubtless will be followed by prompt work in that direction by the trustees and the city's representatives.

Two Able Addresses.

The addresses by the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune, and Richard Watson Gilder, editor of the Century Magazine, were the most able heard in Pittsburgh in years. Mr. Reid's speech on the doctrine of American citizenship will undoubtedly be quoted everywhere as a practical exposition of the fundamental principles of self-government. Joseph Jefferson, the Nestor of the American stage, for the third time attended the Founder's Day exercises and entertained the audience with one of his characteristic humorous talks.

Fifteen hundred of Pittsburgh's representative citizens who had been invited by the trustees to pay homage to the founder of the institute assembled in the music hall. At 2 o'clock the strains of Weber's overture, "Euryanthe," pealed from the pipes of the great organ in response to the magic touch of the city organist, Edwin H. Lemare, who arrived from Europe yesterday to fill that important engagement. From bowers of giant palms that concealed the rear of the stage, the sweet music rose and fell like a mysterious melody from an enchanted forest.

On the platform were seated the speakers, the executive board of the institute, and the directors of the various departments of its work. In the right proscenium box sat Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Gilder, Mrs. W. N. Frew, Mrs. S. H. Church and Mrs. John W. Bishop. Bishop Henry C. Potter and his bride of New York were in the audience and remained to view the loan exhibition in the art galleries. Mrs. Potter is one of the contributors to the art loan exhibit. The Potters are on their way west to visit friends, and took this occasion to stop over in Pittsburgh to view the exhibition.

How the Guests Appeared.

The three distinguished visitors were a study as they sat upon the platform with President W. N. Frew and Secretary Church. Never had a trio of men so widely separated in their life work, and withal so congenial with one another, been seen before a Pittsburgh audience. At Mr. Frew's right hand sat Whitelaw Reid, tall, dignified, immaculately attired—a politician, statesman and diplomat. His self-possession instantly marked him as a man of wonderful experience in the world's affairs.

At Mr. Frew's left sat Mr. Gilder. His manner betokened a touch of negligence in his dress. Thin, fine hair, not yet so gray as that of Mr. Reid, hung over his deep, broad brows. His voice, although not strong, possessed a delicate ring that endowed every word with a rare fascination, and when he nervously arose to read his paper on "Literature as an Art for Service," he was given the most rapt attention. There is a roguish twinkle in Mr. Gilder's eyes that is familiar to all who have seen him, and their merry sparkle emphasizes the brilliancy of his conversation.

Beside the poet sat the inimitable Joe Jefferson, sprawled out upon his chair cracking jokes alternately with Mr. Gilder and Col. Church. As he sat there with his keen eyes twinkling out upon the audience, it seemed that at any moment he might spring up and offer Rip Van Winkle's toast.

Carnegie's Annual Greeting.

At the opening of the exercises Col. Church announced that he had just received a letter which Mr. Carnegie had sent across the sea on the steamship Teutonic. The news from the founder of the institute was received with applause. The letter was written from Skibo castle October 27, and is as follows:

Dear Mr. Secretary:

Founder's Day has never failed to be honored by distinguished orators, but never before have we been able to boast of statesman and poet upon the same platform, men rare in their several excellence, wonderful in conjunction.

What words have induced their wise and gifted wives (I speak from personal knowledge here) to accompany them, beats the record. I am sure Pittsburgh will like them, and they Pittsburgh.

I had fondly hoped to receive a cable from President Frew ere this telling me that the needed land for our extension had been secured, but I shall hope soon to hear this good news.

We owe our two orators much. Mrs. Carnegie and myself have just returned here, after three weeks funchtoning throughout Scotland, ending with Saint Andrews, and know what the quartet have to undergo at Pittsburgh. Still I am confident they will agree you that the labor we delight in physics pain, also they will have the best of all rewards—the knowledge that they have labored in a good cause.

Always Pittsburgh's and yours,

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

At the conclusion of the organ prelude, the Rev. Dr. W. J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church, offered the invocation, which in part was as follows:

We thank Thee for our city with its splendid business interests, its boundless agricultural and mineral treasures, its attractive residences and magnificent public parks, and its people who are known for their inventive genius, industry and thrift. Especially do we thank Thee, O God, for the distinguished founder of this institution that bears his name. Thou hast not only marvelously endowed him with capabilities which have enabled him to accumulate an immense fortune, but Thou hast given him a heart that seeks the intellectual culture and moral development of the human race.

Warm Hand for Jefferson.

Mr. Jefferson was called upon to say "A Word at Parting," in closing the formal exercises, and his introduction by Mr. Frew was a signal for a storm of applause. Mr. Jefferson mutely bowed to the chairman, and, stepping forward, saluted the audience with "——and Ladies and Gentlemen." He had not uttered a word to the chairman and his trick called forth renewed laughter and handclapping.

"I thank you," said the comedian. "There is nothing that is so encouraging to an actor as applause." Twice before at the Founder's day celebrations Mr. Jefferson used this same expression in opening his address, and at this point the applause broke out again.

"Applause is a good thing for a two-fold reason," Mr. Jefferson went on. "It assures a man that he is welcome and gives him time to think what he is going to say next. I am always called upon last, and it's perfectly natural that the nonsense should come after the wisdom, like the farce after the play. I have just been sitting in a back room with the rest of the distinguished folks here in the front row, to have my photograph taken. I felt like a member of a band of bad minstrels, and I suppose tomorrow we'll see our pictures in the newspapers who knows how the people will feel them."

Mr. Jefferson told a number of anecdotes and kept the audience in perpetual merriment. Before the people could dry the tears of good humor over one story, he had another to tell. When he concluded he was called again and again to the front of the platform to bow his acknowledgments.

Art Treasures Inspected.

An organ postlude followed and the trustees and guests then proceeded to the art galleries and the museum to inspect the treasures of art and science which were thrown open to public view. Mr. Reid, Mr. Gilder, Bishop Potter and Mr. Jefferson soon found themselves in a corner of the art galleries surrounded by hundreds of persons who came to pay their respects. The informal reception continued for an hour, after which the distinguished visitors repaired to the Hotel Schenley. Mr. and Mrs. Reid will go to Xenia, O., today to visit the old Reid homestead.

Mr. Gilder, who is identified with the civic reform movement in the east, was much interested in the result of Tuesday's election. He said that the victory won by the Citizens party should have much to do with the purification of Pittsburgh politics, and would be a good example for Greater New York in its efforts to get rid of the evil effects of Tammany.

The Past Year's Progress.

Col. Church, secretary of the board of trustees, made an extensive report covering in detail the progress of the year's work in all departments of the institute.

There are now in the library and its branches 152,000 books, 100,000 of which are in the main library and 52,000 in the branches. During the past year 500,000 persons used the various reading rooms, while the home circulation of books amounted to 500,000. With a decrease of 3 per cent in fiction, there was an increase of 12 per cent in the total circulation. A complete classified catalogue of all the books in the library is now in preparation. The use of the reference department is growing extensively; 22 per cent of the books consulted in this department bear upon the industrial arts of this region. Good books are being taken to the people through 32 home libraries, 50 schools and six deposit stations, besides innumerable study clubs and reading circles.

Gratifying results attended the work of the field parties of the museum, and among the specimens unearthed during the last summer are some believed to belong to extinct animals hitherto unknown to science, including a complete skeleton of the enormous dinosaur diplodocus. Mr. Carnegie continues to give $10,000 a year for this work in the department of paleontology, independent of his contribution of $100,000 a year for the institute.

Guests Given Social Attentions.

Col. Church told of the wonderful patronage the art galleries had enjoyed during the last year, and of the two fine paintings which had been acquired. Abbey's "The Penance of Eleanor," which was purchased by the trustees, and the beautiful example of Paul Jean Clay's art, which was presented by James B. Laughlin.

He said the trustees hoped soon to secure a site for the Carnegie school of technology, and that the proposed extensions to the institute would go forward without unnecessary delay.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Gilder were entertained at dinner at "Oak Manor," the residence of Congressman-elect and Mrs. Kirke Porter. About 60 guests were invited to meet the distinguished visitors, with whom Mr. Jefferson was asked to share the honors.

Bishop and Mrs. Potter were entertained at an informal tea at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Porter after the exercises at the music hall, and left at 7:30 o'clock last night for Detroit.

GOOD GOVERNMENT WAS REID'S THEME

New York Editor Pointed Out Some of the Responsibilities of the Republic.

Andrew Carnegie's book, "Triumphant Democracy," furnished the theme for Whitelaw Reid's address. The speaker referred to Mr. Carnegie's essay on the growth and possibilities of the republic and kept this constantly in mind as the keynote. It was an able paper, and was read with faultless delivery. In introducing Mr. Reid, Mr. Frew said:

"It gives me great pleasure to present

THOSE WHO HAD A PART IN THE FOUNDER'S DAY PROGRAM AT THE CARNEGIE INSTITUTE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

PENROSE'S SEAT IS UP TO QUAY

Senior Senator Has Not Spoken, but Junior's Friends Confident.

FLORIDA TRIP BEGUN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 6.

The Quay-Durham "special" left for Florida on schedule time this morning. Most of the party will remain two weeks. The length of Quay's stay is indefinite. Unless the unexpected happens he will remain in the south until congress meets. Rest is what the senator needs and he purposes to get a bunch of it this time.

It appears to be the policy of Quay and Penrose to let the senatorial succession take care of itself. Two months from now it will be the star topic in political circles. With a legislature so overwhelmingly Republican as this one will be, any candidate acceptable to the leaders is certain of election. There can be no deadlock.

Col. J. M. Guffey, it is claimed, will be honored by the Democratic senatorial caucus. The colonel probably will accept the compliment, if for no other reason to emphasize, for the benefit of Wanamaker and Gordon, that he, not they, is in control of the Democratic state organization.

Speculation as to whom the Republicans will unite upon is being indulged in. It is said Commissioner Durham on election night said Penrose would have a "walkover." Durham is usually able to discount political developments. An authority, though not so strong as Durham, is Mayor Ashbridge. The mayor said today:

"I am of the opinion that Senator Penrose will be the choice of the Republican caucus for re-election. I do not believe that any 'stalwart' Republican will be a candidate against him. But Quay has not spoken. During or since the campaign just closed, the Old Man has said not a word for publication bearing upon his choice for senator. His friends are always willing to speak for Quay, and they say he is for Penrose to the limit. When he himself shall make this declaration the situation will be much clarified. If Penrose himself would make an announcement, it would be regarded as official."

A local friend of Penrose today said: "We have the written pledges of 33 state senators and 134 members of the house that they will go into the caucus and abide by its choice of a candidate for United States senator. These pledges were secured in the interest of Senator Penrose. Some other favorite sons may be presented to the caucus, but Penrose will be the nominee and will be re-elected."

Quaker City Democrats are very sore. Fusion will not appeal to them again. They assert positively that they will have no more alliances with the Wanamaker insurgents, and they purpose to go it alone in the coming mayoralty fight. The Democratic leaders say the great majority of the independent Republicans have gone back within party lines. They mention Congressman Acheson, ex-Gov. Hastings, ex-Banking Commissioner Gilkeson, ex-Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith and many others of the old leaders, who have been followed by the respectable rank and file of the old kickers.

RIOT IN A SCHOOL

Children Strike Against a Colored Substitute Teacher and Bombard the Schoolhouse.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(Special.)—A special from Chicago to the World says: Principal Hedges of the Jackson school was compelled to summon the police today to disperse 100 riotous children. Miss McKeen, the regular teacher, had been suspended and a colored woman was sent as a substitute. Disorder instantly prevailed.

The children, none of whom is above 13 years, organized a "strike" and attacked the teacher. Stones were thrown and windows were broken.

Many mothers gathered near the school. They made no attempt to restrain the children, and said they would not send them to a school which was presided over by a colored woman.

Principal Hedges said the sending of the woman to the school was a mistake.

PLANS TO HARNESS WATER OF GLACIER

Tacoma and Seattle Propose to Compel Old Pavallup to Go to Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Pavallup glacier on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes.

It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. The plan is to provide Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power.

The scheme is to construct from the glacier a flume 14 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horse power. The water in running through the flume will drop 600 feet and will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators.

A three-phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

ARTIST DRIVEN MAD BY NIAGARA FALLS

Life Devoted to Painting Them for Railroads, but Last Work Ruins Him.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WINDSOR, ONT., Nov. 6.—Driven mad by the roar of Niagara Falls and his inability to transfer to canvas the grandeur of the mighty cataract, is the fate of Maurice Joyce, a well-known Toronto artist. Though he turned out a number of masterpieces with this great natural wonder as his subject, his final effort in this direction was too much for his exhausted faculties.

Joyce is the author of most of the paintings of the falls and whirlpool rapids used in the advertising matter of the railroads passing the falls. For five years he has been engaged in this class of work almost exclusively. Some time ago he told a friend he would give us the work, as he believed it was affecting his mind. His physician told him his nervous condition was largely due to this cause and warned him to give it up.

Some time ago the Vanderbilt railroads commissioned Joyce to paint a series of six pictures from which lithographs could be made. The artist did not wish to undertake the work, fearing the consequences, but his professional zeal was more than he could stand.

He established a camp on Niagara river and spent his time where the torrent is the wildest. Joyce returned home a short time ago, but his manner was strange and there was a wild look in his eyes which spoke of insanity.

Last Saturday the crash came when the artist suddenly burst out from his room in a frenzy, declaring he could not finish his picture. When the studio was entered the canvas upon which he had been working was found daubed with paint and completely ruined.

Joyce has been taken to a sanitarium, where with quiet and watchful care he may recover his reason.

MAY RESULT IN A MURDER

Conductor John Booher of Pittsburgh Struck on Head With Brick Hurled by Brakeman.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—John Booher of Pittsburgh, a Pennsylvania railroad freight conductor, is lying at the Westmoreland hospital in a critical condition. At the local freight station here today he was struck in the right temple with a brick alleged to have been thrown by William Delmore, a brakeman of the train.

It is feared that fragments of the skull have penetrated the brain. Booher and Delmore have had trouble since the latter was put on the run a month ago.

While the crew were "laying" over today their difficulties were brought to a climax. Delmore attempted to escape, but was caught by a member of the crew. The police were notified and arrested the prisoner. He was committed to jail on a charge of felonious assault and battery by Justice Jacob Heffer to await the result of Booher's injuries.

SPEAKERSHIP PRIZE WORTH FIGHTING FOR

Harry Walton a Philadelphia Candidate, but Will Be Opposed Outside.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 6.

The speakership fight is on in earnest. Locally the candidacy of Harry Walton is being pushed, but many members-elect today received telegrams from Harrisburg asking them to support George Kunkle.

It is claimed, with force, that Philadelphia has the governor, is after the senatorship, and should not ask for the speakership. This would seem to dispose of Walton. But the house make-up as it is does not carry a superabundance of speakership material. If Allegheny has anything to offer it might be well to make an early bid.

Frank McClain of Lancaster and Ward R. Bliss of Delaware were candidates at the last several sessions. Neither is regarded as a possible winner this time. McClain's speech, bitter and personal, at the state convention, when he seconded the nomination of Elkin, was not a diplomatic gem. As for Bliss he was chairman of the last appropriation committee, on which not considered helpful in the present instance.

AMERICAN CANNON READY TO THUNDER

Marietta Reaches Venezuela Port to Compel Release of Consular Agent.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, Nov. 6.—The United States gunboat Marietta arrived yesterday at Barcelona, Venezuela, to compel the revolutionists there to release the United States consular agent, Ignacio H. Bain, who was arrested for refusing to subscribe to a forced loan. Mr. Bain is the richest man in Barcelona and a man of high position. The treatment to which he has been subjected is only an incident similar to many others which have occurred in every part of Venezuela.

The seaport town of Higuerote, Venezuela, was occupied for three hours yesterday by forces landed from the Venezuelan gunboat Crespo. The landing party is said to have caused great damage to property owned by Spanish and French residents and the French warship D'Estrees has left LaGuayra to investigate.

WILLEMSTAD, CURACOA, Nov. 6.—Gen. Matos, Venezuelan revolutionary leader, still has 6,000 men under his command opposed to the 5,000 troops commanded by President Castro. The government is making greater efforts to obtain reinforcements and to send food to President Castro's troops.

Three bridges on the German railroad near Los Teques have been blown up.

The report of a great victory over the insurgents spread by the government of Venezuela was incorrect. The priests refused to ring the bells of the churches in celebration of the alleged defeat of the Matos forces and the police were compelled to ring them.

CONTRACTS CANCELLED.

Mascagni's Affairs Still Very Much Mixed—Hopes to Go Out as His Own Manager.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Although conferences between counsel for the parties to the dispute over financial matters between Mascagni, the composer-leader and his managers, occupied a considerable part of today, no settlement has been reached and another conference will be held tomorrow.

It is said to be the wish of Mascagni to take his company on the road free from the control of the present management. One statement to the effect that Maurice Grau has offered to take the company on its tour, he said, is false.

The unexpected events of last night compelled cancellation of the engagement of the company for tonight in Portland and for tomorrow night in Providence.

Mascagni, in a statement tonight, vigorously denied the charge that he had violated his contract.

Robber Secure $2,800.

HERINGTON, KAN., Nov. 6.—Robbers blew open the safe of the Tampa State bank here and took about $3,800 in currency, escaping on a handcar.

MITCHELL'S NEW LABOR AMBITION

Friends Putting Him Up for President of the Big Federation.

FOR LARGER UNIONS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 605 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.

John Mitchell has another fight on his hands. His friends believe he should succeed President Gompers as head of the American Federation of Labor. It has not fully developed whether Mr. Mitchell is an active or passive candidate.

The convention of the Federation of Labor meets in New Orleans November 13. For some time there have been two distinct elements in the federation, one known as trades autonomists and the other as trades expansionists. President Gompers is in favor of the autonomy and freedom of each individual union. The trades expansionists desire to amalgamate under one head all unions working to produce a common product.

In the convention there will be 7,500 voting delegates. The Mitchell men, or trades expansionists, now control the following delegations: Bookbinders, 53; boot and shoemakers, 88; brewery workers, 230; carpenters, 400; team drivers, 94; mine workers, 1,000; plumbers, 87; Typographical union, 765, Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel and Tin Workers, 80, making a powerful nucleus of 3,403 votes.

President Gompers expects to align 58 different international unions for individual autonomy, with an aggregate vote of 3,727. These include barbers, 170; boiler makers, 75; cigar makers, 340; clerks, 350; electrical workers, 75; garment workers, 154; glass blowers and workers, 120; granite cutters, 70; hatters, 73; hotel and restaurant workers, 103; painters, 280; railroad telegraphers, 78; woodworkers, 151.

President Gompers has been at the head of the federation for 15 years. In his annual report he will meet the issue proposed by his opponents, and the recent sacrifice of the gumpmen and engineers who assisted the miners is expected to stiffen the courage of the smaller unions to stand by their chief.

It is not believed that Mr. Mitchell will be present at the convention, but his admirers have outlined their plans and he is fully cognizant of the program.

WANTS WHOLE COUNTRY.

Hanford Trying to Get Western Wholesale Grocers to Enter the Combine He Is Forming.

DETROIT, MICH., Nov. 6.—George B. Hanford, the New York man, who arranged a conference of wholesale grocers of eight middle and eastern states in Detroit yesterday, has gone to Chicago to endeavor to interest the Western Grocers association and the National Grocers Company in his proposed grocery combine and get them to enter the deal.

At the Detroit meeting Hanford arranged with those present to make out statements showing the liabilities, assets and earnings of their respective concerns and forward them to him within 30 days, the basis on which the concerns can enter the combine to be determined from these statements.

Hanford is expected to visit Detroit again in 30 days.

AN EX-PRESIDENT VICTIM OF VOLCANO

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 7.—(Special.)—A private dispatch received here announces the death of Gen. Manuel Lizando Barillas, former president of Guatemala and a colonel of the Guatemalan army, as the result of asphyxiation by volcanic gas in the vicinity of the Santa Maria volcano, where Gen. Barillas owned a large coffee plantation.

Canal Dover Postmaster Dead.

CANAL DOVER, O., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—W. W. Scott, postmaster of Canal Dover, died this morning of heart failure. His death was sudden. He was 65 years of age, a prominent Mason and a veteran of the civil war. Until a year ago he was the owner and publisher of the Iron Valley Reporter.

DALZELL'S PROSPECTS BRILLIANT

His Strongest Rival for Speakership Is Cannon of Illinois.

TWO ASPIRANTS SPLIT NEW YORK

Republican Victory for Congress Unprecedented for an Off Year.

ROOSEVELT IS PLEASED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 605 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.

Representative Dalzell will be speaker of the next house of representatives if it is in the power of 28 Pennsylvania Republicans in the house, backed by Senators Quay and Penrose and friends in other states, to bring it about. So far as known Mr. Dalzell has not avowed his candidacy; but Senator Quay and Representative Wanger of Norristown, who are here today, were of the opinion that Mr. Dalzell would be a candidate and that he would be elected.

The senator, who was on his way to Florida, said Mr. Dalzell would have the united support of the Pennsylvania delegation, and as Pennsylvania is entitled to the honor, he believed there would be enough Republicans in the caucus to bring about the nomination of the member from Pittsburgh. Mr. Wanger corroborated this statement and was quite sanguine that Mr. Dalzell could carry off the prize.

Mr. Dalzell has not returned here, but is understood to be in Philadelphia, where last night he had a conference with the party leaders.

Cannon His Leading Competitor.

As soon as Mr. Dalzell announces his candidacy, his friends will go to work, and from advices received here there is more than a strong chance that he can carry off the prize. Representative Cannon of Illinois will be his leading competitor, but there is a sentiment in the west unfavorable to his election, as it is asserted that he would be more arbitrary than either of his Republican predecessors.

The New York delegation of 20 members will split over the candidacies of Sherman and Payne, with the probable result that neither will permit his name to go before the caucus and the vote of the delegation will be cast for the Pennsylvanian. It is now believed that Representative Littlefield of Maine can muster more than a corporal's guard behind his banner.

Reliable advices up to a late hour this afternoon show that in the next house there will be 178 Democrats and 208 Republicans, a Republican majority of 30. Dispatches this afternoon state that Rodenberg (Republican) has ejected in the Twenty-third Illinois district and that in Colorado the Republicans get two representatives in congress and the Democrats one. In California late dispatches gave five Republicans and three Democrats. The original estimate of the Republican congressional committee as to the next house, as telegraphed to The Gazette from Washington, was a minimum majority of 22 and a maximum of 30.

Unprecedented Off-Year Victory.

Never in an "off year" has there been such a signal victory in the congressional elections for the party in control of the administration of the government. From Jackson's time down to Grant's, it was the almost invariable rule that in the election following the presidential election the party in power would be confronted with a loss in one branch of congress. President Grant had a united congress, but the southern states were under semi-military rule. On down to McKinley's time the rule held good; there was a divided congress after the presidential election.

With the prestige of a successful war upon which to go into the campaign, congress was won for the administration party in 1898 by a majority of 13. Now in this "off year," and in the face of many apparently hostile natural conditions, the Republicans have rolled up a majority of 26, which, taking into consideration possible elements of doubt in a district or two, will not fall below 28.

The defeat of Representative Connell of the Scranton district is not only greatly regretted here, but was unexpected, as it was believed he would have an increased majority. This is his first defeat since he entered politics.

The President Congratulated.

All of the president's callers today discussed the election returns with him, and congratulated him on the outcome. The president is greatly pleased. He told Postmaster McMichael of Philadelphia that next to New York, his greatest interest was in Pennsylvania. He was much pleased with the Republican majority there.

Senator Forsker of Ohio was one of the callers, and he and the president exchanged felicitations. The president was warm in his praise of the work of Ohio Republicans. When Senator Foraker went away he said:

"Tom Johnson and his red-fire accompaniments helped to swell the Republican majority in Ohio."

Representative Dalzell returned here tonight from Philadelphia and was seen at his house by The Gazette correspondent. He was not ready to announce formally that he will be a candidate for speaker, as he desired first to lay the subject before the members of the Pennsylvania delegation. He has heard favorably already from more than a majority of the delegation.

Representative Butler of Chester said tonight the Pennsylvania delegation undoubtedly would be solid for Dalzell, and that Senator Quay told him Dalzell would be elected speaker.

It is understood that Senator Quay, on his return from Florida, will give a dinner to the members of the Pennsylvania delegation in Philadelphia, at which time Dalzell's candidacy for speaker will be formally indorsed.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Official figures were received today on the vote for governor in all the counties except Allegheny, Armstrong, Chester and Washington. The counties reporting today show the following votes.

Following is the complete roster of the members of the senate and house of representatives of the general assembly, which will convene in January. It shows in the senate 41 Republicans and 9 Democrats; in the house 158 Republicans and 42 Democrats, and on joint ballot 199 Republicans and 55 Democrats. LEGAL BATTLE ON OVER WADSWORTH Warrant for Eighteenth Regiment Soldier Will Come Before Supreme Court.

IMPORTANT AS TEST CASE

Army Officers All Over Country Are Interested in Outcome. Col. Rutledge Will Refuse to Give Up.

"I will object to the release of Sergeant Arthur Wadsworth to the civil authorities until convinced that I am wrong in my belief," said Col. Frank I. Rutledge, the commanding officer of the Eighteenth regiment, at his home in Carver street, East End, last night.

Col. Rutledge said further that he would hold a conference at the Hotel Duquesne this morning with F. W. Fleitz, deputy attorney general of Pennsylvania, and at this meeting it will be definitely determined whether Wadsworth will be turned over to the civil authorities or not.

Sergeant Wadsworth was at the Eighteenth Regiment armory, Fifth avenue, Oakland, last night when he received a notice from Capt. Snyder that Col. Rutledge had ordered him to appear at the Hotel Duquesne this morning to attend the conference. Wadsworth said he would fulfill the orders and be at the Duquesne at the appointed time.

Wadsworth Is Confident.

"I do not think the affair will go any further," he said. "At our conference tomorrow morning I think Col. Rutledge will convince the attorneys that I only did my duty, and the matter will drop then and there. However, I am not worrying. I am willing to be tried before any court in the United States, and feel perfectly confident I will be acquitted of any charges."

Col. Rutledge was in communication over long distance telephone yesterday with Deputy Attorney General Fleitz. He afterward notified the supreme court here and the case of Wadsworth will be taken up this morning.

Accompanying the deputy attorney general to Pittsburgh are District Attorney M. P. McLaughlin of Schuylkill county and Attorney J. J. Bell of Shenandoah, counsel for the family of William Durham, who was shot and killed by Wadsworth. Constable William Shortall will also accompany the party with a warrant for Wadsworth, which he will serve in case the supreme court decides he has the right to do so.

Important as Test Case.

In further discussing the case last night, Col. Rutledge said:

"I will follow the exact instructions of the state law department, and if advised to surrender Wadsworth, I will do so. The case is a peculiar and interesting one from many standpoints. After the conference today we will learn whether the acts of assembly governing the national guard hold good.

"If they do not, then what is the use of having a national guard or a military organization of any kind, in either the state or the United States. This is a test case, and the first of its kind ever tried in the country.

"It seems to create a great deal of interest all over the United States, and army officers in almost every part of the world are watching its outcome. There is absolutely no precedent, and if the deputy attorney general decides we must give up Wadsworth, his interpretation of the law will be followed."

Policeman Levenson Held for Court and Other Officers Are to Have a Hearing.

Several informations charging policemen and other officers with brutality at the polls on Tuesday were brought yesterday before Alderman J. R. Conner. Only one case was heard, and Policeman N. Levinson was held for court. He gave bail of $1,000.

Levinson was charged, with aggravated assault and battery, on information made by Morris Cohen, on information received. He charged that Levinson hit a negro, John Bell, with his mace, at the polls in the second district of the Seventh ward. Witnesses testified that Levinson struck Bell while Bell was held by two other policemen.

Levinson is also charged with aggravated assault and battery by William McClintick and Walter Graham.

Sanitary Policeman Abraham Groetstein is charged with assault and battery by David Warhaft. Warhaft says Groetstein struck him with his billy the day after the election.

Policeman Thomas Ellis is charged by Thomas Kearney with aggravated assault and battery at the polls in the second district in the Eighth ward. Kearney was hit on the head with a mace, while he was trying to vote. He says Ellis did it. McClintick, Graham, Bell and Cohen are ex-policemen. Levinson, Ellis and Groetstein gave bail in $500 each.

H. G. Sauermilch of Diamond street made information before Alderman Conner, charging William Richardson, William Dunn and "Buck" Collins with aggravated assault and battery. Sauermilch says that when he tried to vote in the third district of the Third ward, the three defendants, who were electing officers, assaulted him and struck him with a billy.

Thomas Collins of No. 9 Penn street and George Harman of No. 29 West Lacock street, Allegheny, were arrested by Detective T. C. They will be arraigned for a hearing this morning before Alderman James W. Stenhause.

Pershing of No. 402 Biddle avenue, Wilkinsburg, made a report at the bureau of detectives last night about 10 o'clock that he had been held up and robbed of $5 by two men in Grant street near Second avenue. Detectives Albert H. Swinehart and Harry Merritt made an investigation of the case, but were unable to find any trace of the men.

John Dornbrowski, a Pole, was given a hearing last night before Alderman Samuel F. Kerr on a charge of larceny, brought against him by Alexander Ptonski, a fellow-countryman. The latter charged the defendant with the theft of $100 on August 23. On account of insufficient evidence the case was dismissed.

YOUNG BRIDEGROOM COMMITTED SUICIDE

Body Found Near Father-in-Law's Farm—Bride Is Missing.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MARIETTA, O., Nov. 6.—The mystery surrounding the strange disappearance of Louis Delp, the young man who wedded Miss Sylva Robinson on October 9 and left his father-in-law's house in Dunbar, O., on the morning of October 13, under peculiar circumstances, was solved today. On the hillside of a small ravine, at the edge of the woods of his father-in-law's farm, one-half mile from Napier, were found the gruesome remains this afternoon of young Delp.

The body lay face downward and a small bottle, labeled strychnine, was found by its side. There seems to be no doubt that it is a case of suicide. The domestic relations of the couple had been happy from the day of the marriage until the day of Delp's disappearance, and no possible reason can be given for the deed. Delp was of sound mind and well educated. He was 24 years old.

Efforts are being made by the parents of Mrs. Delp to locate her. It is believed she will be found at Monrat, Va. The case is shrouded in mystery and the finding of the missing bride may explain the cause of Delp's self-destruction.

DEMOCRATS IN LEAD.

Have Majority in Colorado State Legislature on Face of Returns. Will Be Some Contests.

DENVER, Nov. 6.—Returns from Tuesday's election show that the Republicans will have a majority of the lower house of the legislature, while the Democrats, with 17 holdovers, will have a majority in the senate.

From the best reports obtainable at this time, the legislature seems to stand on joint ballot, Democrats 55, Republicans 47. Of the Democratic representatives, 14 are from this (Arapahoe) county, and their seats will be contested by the Republicans on the ground of frauds in registration, and at the election.

The Republican leaders declare that the whole number will be unseated, thus making the legislature heavily Republican on joint ballot. It is declared by leading Democrats that if this course shall be adopted by the Republicans, the Democratic senate will block the election of a senator to succeed Senator Teller. Republicans, however, say this will be impossible.

GOBIN WILL RETIRE

Will Leave the National Guard at the Expiration of His Term.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Gen. J. P. S. Gobin, who is in the city attending the reunion of the Medal of Honor Legion, stated today that he will positively retire from the national guard at the expiration of his commission next summer. This, Gen. Gobin asserts, has no political end to it whatever, as he declares that there is nothing in the line of office that he would consider.

"I am going to retire to private life, and henceforth will devote my time to my family and my private business," he said. "I am out of politics for good, and perfectly satisfied to become once more a private citizen. I have had more honor, I take it, than I deserved."

WOMAN ROBBED.

Attacked by Two Masked Men at Her Home—Purse Containing

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Mrs. Charles Barr, a prominent woman of this city, was assaulted and robbed by two masked men early this morning. She had occasion to go out into her yard at that time and had no sooner stepped off her back porch until she was seized by two men and thrown to the ground.

She states that every stitch of clothing upon her body was torn from her. She was relieved of a purse containing $100, which she had concealed upon her person. Both of the men escaped, but authorities are investigating the case.

CAR MEN WIN ARBITRATION.

In Chicago They Are Awarded Wage Increase of 10 Per Cent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—As the result of a decision of the board of arbitration appointed two months ago by street car men and street railway companies 25,000 employes of the Union Traction and Consolidated lines in this city will receive an increase of 10 per cent in pay, dating back to September 15.

The decision is a victory for the street car men, as the first demands of the union, which was formed last May, were rejected by President Roach on the plea that the Union Traction Company was already losing money heavily.

MADE AN ATTACK ON THE POLLING PLACE

Election Board Alleges Returns Were Tampered With by Socialists.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., Nov. 6.—There was a sensation in court this evening when the members of the election board of the middle district of Wilkesbarre township entered and asked the judges to make a correction in the returns from their district, as they learned they had been tampered with.

The election officers alleged that on the night of the election their polling place was attacked by Socialists who claimed they were not getting a square deal. The windows and doors in the house were broken and the officers fled. When they returned they hastily placed the return sheets in an envelope and sent them to the prothonotary's office. Today they were told that while they were absent from the polling place the returns were tampered with.

An examination of the returns showed that they had been altered. The vote of James N. Holman, Democratic candidate for register, had been changed from 67 to 124 and the vote of his Republican opponent, John Mainwaring, had been changed from 21 to 10.

The contest between Holman and Mainwaring is very close, and it will take the official vote to decide who is elected. The official vote is now being counted under the direction of the judges of the court.

TWO FAMILIES CLAIM THE SAME DEAD BODY

Ferry Suicide Buried as the Corpse of a Manufacturer—Woman Says He Was Her Husband.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWBURG, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Two years ago George D. Harder, a well-to-do manufacturer of Cobleskill, N. Y., while crossing on the Fishkill ferry from this town, was supposed to have committed suicide by jumping into the Hudson river. His body was not recovered for about two months. His relatives came here and identified the remains as those of Mr. Harder.

It has just developed that a woman in New York claims that it was her husband who jumped from the ferryboat at that time. The woman's husband had disappeared and she had not seen him in some time. She married again and is trying to collect insurance from several companies, and also to secure some of her husband's property.

She told the story of how she came to Newburg and identified the body as that of her husband. She also said she identified the watch, asserting it was a silver one. Her husband was a young man, while Harder was an elderly gentleman. Harder was of medium height, while her husband was short.

Fuller agency detectives are now working on the case, but they refuse to tell the woman's name. The detectives say they have learned facts which will prove the woman a fraud, and it is hinted that the insurance companies will cause her arrest.

BIG BRUSHTON BURGLARY.

Storekeeper Loses Bonds and Papers Worth Thousands.

The store of Hayes & Co. of Brushton avenue, Brushton, was robbed on Wednesday night and several thousand dollars' worth of bonds and valuable papers stolen. The safe, where these were kept, was unlocked, and it is supposed that the burglar was acquainted with the premises.

Entrance to the store was effected by breaking through a side window. In doing so the burglar must have cut himself badly, as a pool of blood was found near the window and on the broken glass. It is thought that someone in the vicinity committed the robbery.

"Beauty and the Beast."

John J. McNally, who Americanized the English book of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," which comes to the Alvin next week, has done his work, according to the accounts of the New York and Chicago press, very effectively. In addition to supplying sparkling wit and humor, he added a few comedy scenes that set the audience wild with delight. Probably the most impressive one is in the third act, where he arranged for the king and queen to rob the National museum and they make the journey there on an automobile, which takes a violent dislike to the old couple, and explodes, hurling them into the air.

MURDERED GIRLS' WATCHES FOUND

Clara Morton's and Agnes McPhee's Recovered in Boston Pawnshop.

MAY EXONERATE MASON

The Former Put Up by a Mulatto on the Day the Young Woman Was Murdered—The Other Left by a White Man.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—By the finding of the watches of Clara Morton and Agnes McPhee in the pawnshop of Joseph Kemmer, new complications have arisen in the case against Alan G. Mason, accused of being "Jack the Slugger," whose crimes have terrorized the community.

The evidence secured today tended somewhat to support the alibi set up to prove Mason's innocence. Kemmer declares that the man who pawned Miss Morton's watch was a mulatto; but, on the other hand, he is equally positive that the man who pawned Miss McPhee's watch, the day after she was assaulted in October, was white, and the description given answers in many respects that of Mason. Kemmer will be taken to Cambridge jail tomorrow to see Mason.

Kemmer says that about 11 o'clock Saturday night, the night Miss Morton was assaulted, a mulatto entered his pownshop and offered the watch for sale. Owing to the late hour, and for personal reasons the dealer declined to trade with him. The mulatto reappeared the next day, when Kemmer bought the watch for $4. He entered the number in his report to the police, as required by law, hence the discovery.

While the Boston police now incline to the belief that this unknown mulatto killed Miss Morton, the state police are inclined to hold fast to the charge against Mason, although not entirely rejecting the theory that the negro may be the guilty man. The state police are now trying to connect this mulatto with Mason, who, according to the street car conductor, reached Boston on his car a short time before the mulatto visited Kemmer's pawnshop, late on Saturday night.

Under the direction of the state police, Meadowbrook pond at Waverly, was today drained and raked. This is where Supt. Elder of the McLean asylum says he saw Mason a few minutes after the steward was committed. The search resulted in the finding of a rusty tile about 18 inches long and a inch wide. As it was not of the grayish color of other objects found in the pond, it is thought that it was recently thrown there. The police have the tile but attach little importance to it.

In contradiction of the Mason family, who seek to show that Alan was at the Mason & Hamlin organ factory all Saturday afternoon, a barber in Harvard square says that the man now in Cambridge jail spent some time in his place waiting to be shaved.

Late tonight when the pawnbroker's memory had been jogged a little and he had had time to think over the matter, he remembered that Miss Morton's watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours he refused to receive it, and after expressing disappointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a mulatto about 21 years of age, of whom the pawnbroker bought it. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other, had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made, and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money, which the proprietor had passed over. Both men then departed.

RELEASED BY COURT.

Lyman Loucks, 16 Years Old, Accused of Murder, Is Out on Bail.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Lyman Loucks, the 16-year-old son of David S. Loucks of Scottdale, who shot and killed Benjamin Earnest at Manor on his father's farm last Wednesday, was released today on a habeas corpus proceeding heard before Judge Alexander D. McConnell. Bail was fixed by the court at $7,000 and it was promptly furnished by the boy's grandfather, Jacob Loucks.

Frank Jones, Earnest Guest and John Hill, companions of Earnest on the day of the shooting, were the principal witnesses.

They said they heard three shots fired from near the Loucks barn and found Earnest dying from a wound inflicted with a Winchester rifle. Coroner Wynn testified that he had subpoenaed Loucks for the inquest and that he admitted firing at a group of boys who had come to his father's farm to steal corn for Halloween.

NO BORROWING TO BE ALLOWED

Controller Larkin Serves Notice That He Will Not Use Such Money.

PAYROLL TO WAIT MONTH

City Treasury Will Be Empty on New Year's and No More Salaries Will Be Paid Out Until Taxes Come In.

After December the city will find itself in an embarrassing predicament. It is estimated that the funds in the municipal treasury will be exhausted by that time, and Controller Larkin declares that he will not issue or sign warrants to be paid with borrowed money.

Estimates of the condition of the city's finances are being completed in the controller's office, and they show that there will probably be enough money on hand to run the government through the months of November and December, but after that time there will be no funds on hand to meet bills for the remainder of the fiscal year.

It has been the custom of the machine to spend the city's money lavishly, and when it runs out to borrow what was needed to finish the year, paying the banks 4 per cent interest for it. Controller Larkin proposes to abolish this system, and declares he will not permit borrowing to make up the deficiency.

The prospects are that the entire government will be compelled to run along without money until February or March, when the tax revenues for the next fiscal year begin to flow into the treasury.

The average monthly payroll of the city is over $300,000, and this amount, at least, will probably have to be paid out of next year's appropriation for January bills. It is probable that every employe on the city's payroll, including the recorder and the controller, will have to wait for their January and February salaries until the March instalment of taxes is collected.

The controller holds that the treasurer has no legal authority to borrow money, and that he cannot obligate the city for any amount without the controller's sanction. This contention the treasurer disputes, but the controller has the upper hand, for he can refuse to issue warrants when the funds are exhausted and there is no money to pay the warrants. He announces his intention of stopping all payments when the money runs out, and it is clear that the only way out will be for the thousands of persons on the city payroll to wait a month before they can get their money.

A meeting of the joint committee of Pittsburgh councils on finance was called for last night, but only three members showed up, and the meeting was adjourned until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BIGELOW FAVORS WM. B. RODGERS

Would Be Pleased to See Him the Citizens Nominee for Recorder.

OTHERS ARE MENTIONED

At an Early Date Mr. Rodgers Will Probably Make a Definite Statement Concerning His Intentions—Douglas Announces.

Politicians are now turning their attention to the election of a city recorder in February. A number of men are mentioned, but it is too early to pick the standard bearers in any of the parties. It is also too soon to ascertain whether the Citizens, the old organization and the Democrats will all have candidates in the field.

Thomas S. Bigelow was asked yesterday whether he had a personal choice for recorder and promptly replied that he would like to see William B. Rodgers the nominee of the Citizens party. He says that he does not know that Mr. Rodgers will be a candidate, but is confident he would be the strongest man who could be put forward for the office.

Mr. Rodgers has been mentioned for the place quite frequently by Citizens workers, but so far he has given no intimation as to his intention. It is quite probable, however, that a definite statement will be made by him early in the campaign. There has also been talk of Dr. Cadwalader Evans as a candidate. When the subject was mentioned to him yesterday, he replied that the first thing to do was to get the organization in shape for the election and discuss candidates later.

Where Douglas Stands.

R. H. Douglas, select councilman from the Twenty-first ward, is an avowed candidate for recorder. "I will ask the Citizens to nominate me," said he, "and if a fair system of nominating is devised and I lose, I will support the nominee. If the system of selecting the candidate is not fair, I will come out as an independent."

"What is your organization going to do, now?" was asked of A. C. Robertson, chairman of the county committee of the old organization.

"We're going to do as we always have done—work for Republican principles. We will put up a candidate for recorder next February and, unless I am greatly mistaken we will elect him, too. The Republican organization has more votes than that of the Citizens party. I am certain that the official count now in progress will show that if it had not been for the Democrats, we would have beat the Citizens candidates; in other words, that more votes will be found in the Republican column than in the Citizens party column. We have reduced the fusion majority in the city away below the figures of last February, so why should we not fight again, and wipe out that majority, as I think we can? In case there should be a three-cornered fight at the next municipal election, that is, a contest for the recordership between a Democrat, a Republican and a Citizens candidate, the Republicans would win."

Many Jobs on the Hill.

The election of Tuesday changes the control of all the appointments in the court house, with the exception of those made by the courts, district attorney, prothonotary and coroner. Whether it will be the policy of the new officials to put in new forces, is a question which has not been decided. There are upwards of 500 people on the county pay roll and there will probably be 2,500 applicants for the jobs.

In the opinion of Deputy Prothonotary John Bradley, the official returns of Tuesday's election will not show the vote polled by each party. He says that most of the election boards disregarded the order of Secretary of the Commonwealth Griest to make separate returns. The vote of the fusion ticket in the Democratic column was returned in a lump with that of the Citizens.

Mr. Bradley estimates the strength of the "Muddy Water" party at about 2,000 in the county. He is of the opinion that the "referendum" was the millstone about the neck of Grimes' plaything. The average voter thought that there was a snake wrapped in the proposition and refused to touch the ballot without a pair of tongs.

The Conner letter warning voters that they would be liable to arrest if they attempted to vote was the means of reducing the Citizens majority about 400 in the Fourteenth ward. Many of the less intelligent electors received these letters, and although they held genuine tax receipts were afraid to vote.

IDENTIFICATION IS AGAIN QUESTIONED

Stephen Welsh's Body Will Be Exhumed to Settle It. Suicide at West Elizabeth.

Mrs. Marcus Burke of Shields street, Allegheny, applied to Coroner Jesse M. McGeary for a permit to raise the body of Stephen Welsh, buried in the St. Mary's cemetery on October 14, for the purpose of identifying the body. She told Coroner McGeary she had reasons to believe that Welsh was still alive and wanted to definitely determine whether the body was his. Welsh boarded with her.

There was more or less uncertainty about the identification of Welsh when he was buried. He was found in Duquesne way on October 10. He walked almost to the Exposition building and sat on a lumber pile. Later he fell dead. His body was taken to the morgue and some 60 persons viewed the remains. Some said it was Welsh and other were incredulous about these identifications. He was finally identified by Michael Burke, an uncle, and buried. Since then it is said Welsh was sent to the workhouse on October 8 for 30 days on a charge of being a suspicious person.

The police court records show that a man giving his name as Stephen Welsh was committed to the workhouse on October 8 and was released on a payment of the fine and costs. The body will be raised today.

Thomas Dailey of West Elizabeth committed suicide yesterday by hanging himself in a stable in the rear of his house. His body was found last night shortly after 6 o'clock. No cause is assigned for his act. He was about 50 years old and married.

Walter Hensler, 18 years old, who was burned by an explosion of oil in Ferguson's contracting camp on the Wabash railroad, back of Greentree, yesterday morning, died at the Homeopathic hospital of his injuries at 8 o'clock last night. He lived in Danville, Pa.

Martin Rietzel of No. 5269 Butler street, 45 years old and a teamster, died at his home yesterday afternoon of injuries received on October 31. While driving into the stable of the Atlantic Refining Company, his team became frightened and in trying to check them he did not see the top of the stable door and was struck on the head and died of concussion of the brain.

The coroner's jury in the death of Adam Sneagal of No. 236 Clay alley, Sharpsburg, who was crushed in the squeezer in Moorehead Bros." mill in Sharpsburg on October 24, yesterday rendered a verdict that Sneegal committed suicide by throwing himself into the squeezer. Comyer Green, colored, who was employed in the mill, has been under arrest on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the killing of Sneegal.

E. E. Cheesebrough, a yard switchman at the Edgar Thomson blast furnaces, Braddock, was killed by a cinder train yesterday morning in the yards. He was 32 years old and lived at Center avenue and Charles street.

TO INCREASE SALARIES.

Petition to Councils Recommending Better Pay in Allegheny Carnegie Library.

At the monthly meeting of the committee on libraries of Allegheny councils last night, applications for the increase of salaries in the Carnegie library were presented as follows: Cataloguers, $75 a month; general assistants, $60; substitutes, $1.50 a day. The petitions were sent to councils with a favorable recommendation. The payroll and bills, amounting to $1,218.72 were presented and approved. Mrs. Sophia Wilson submitted his monthly report, which showed that during the month 8,474 volumes were circulated, and that up to date, 3,635,326 books and periodicals had been circulated by the library since its opening.

Relatives Were Mistaken.

William Lawrence of North avenue, Wilkinsburg, against whom his sister-in-law of Wheeler street, Pittsburgh, made information before Justice Creelman of Wilkinsburg Wednesday night, charging malicious mischief, was arrested yesterday and released on his own recognizance. Lawrence was charged with having burned important insurance and pension papers belonging to his mother-in-law. The prosecutor, Mrs. Jennie B. Mathews, appeared before Justice Creelman later and paid the costs in the case and withdrew the suit, stating that the missing papers had been found.

Crusade Victim Hits Back.

W. H. Lawshwe, a patent medicine vender, who was arrested recently in Wilkinsburg by Officer E. L. Derth on a charge of attempting to sell goods in the public streets without a license, has brought suit against Chief of Police Ross, Officer Derth and Burgess James Morgan for $25,000 damages for false arrest. It is claimed by the Wilkinsburg borough officials that Lawshwe was trying to operate under the license of another street vender.

Rival Tried to Make Trouble.

There was a report made at the morgue last night that two colored women had been killed at one of the West Side Belt line camps back of Castle Shannon and buried without the formality of notifying the coroner's office. Deputy Coroner Charles Bender made an investigation and found that the rumor had been started by a rejected lover of a colored woman, who had died of pneumonia and was buried by his successful rival.

ORGANIZATION MEN ARE ANGRY

Say That Leaders Caused Them to Bet Money Foolishly.

ROBERTSON EXPLAINS

Says It Was Impossible to Get Correct Election Returns Because the Use of the Fire Alarm Office Was Denied Him.

Some of the adherents of the old organization who attended the reading of the returns on election night in the Sixth avenue auditorium spent some time yesterday cursing the managers of the meeting for misrepresenting the result and leading them to believe that there was a chance that the old organization's candidates would win.

Some of these men made bets after leaving the auditorium, at 3 a. m., basing their confidence on the statements of A. C. Robertson, J. O. Brown, Robert Ostermaier and Max G. Leslie, that the Republican county ticket would carry by a majority of 10,000 to 15,000; that Dr. A. J. Barchfeld would win by 4,000 majority and James F. Burke by 1,000.

Chairman Robertson was asked how the miscalculation was made and how he came to claim that the returns showed an organization gain of 20 votes for each precinct in the city. "Your calculations must have been based on J. F. Burke's vote, but you know that he ran ahead of his ticket," some one said yesterday to Robertson.

"No; the calculation was based on Arch Mackrell's vote," said Robertson, "and, according to that vote, on the returns we received, we were beating Larkin's majority in the February election by an average of 20 votes to the precinct. The trouble was we did not receive the most unfavorable returns. Many of our fellows in the different districts were so disgusted with the result that they did not take the trouble to send us any returns, whatever.

"Had we got all the returns, as we would have done had we been allowed to use the fire alarm office, we would have known that we were defeated. I would certainly have acknowledged defeat, had I thought we were beaten, for it would have been foolish to claim victory, and, besides, it would have been unfair to our fellows who came to the auditorium expecting to hear the truth. I was positive that we had beaten the fusion forces. I would have been willing to bet $5,000 on the result at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Dr. Barchfeld is the most grievously disappointed man among all the old organization's candidates. While James F. Burke had some hopes of winning when he left the auditorium at 3 a. m. Wednesday, he estimated his majority at only a few hundred and was almost prepared to admit defeat, but Dr. Barchfeld was joyous when he went home. It was Scott township that was responsible for elevating the doctor's hopes. About midnight the returns from that township were brought in by messenger and they read, Barchfeld 337 votes, James W. Brown 37, giving the doctor a majority of 300. When the figures were read Dr. Barchfeld made a lightning calculation probably multiplying the remaining district of 300, and loudly cried, "I'm elected by 4,000 majority." His friends surrounded him and looked sympathetically at J. F. Burke, who sat at the table engaged in figuring out results. "Poor Burke," they murmured. "I'm afraid he's beaten." By Wednesday night they were pitying Barchfeld, too.

Birthday Party.

A very pretty house party took place last night at the home of Charles Sheers, No. 3037 Penn avenue, a wagonman at No. 5 police station. The party was a birthday affair, in honor of his daughter Elsie's 12th birthday. There was dancing and music was given by the Hedenburg orchestra. There was quite a crowd present, among them being: Mamie Woodby, Sarah Norick, Mollie Cohen, Marcus Lucas, Sadie Browarsky, Emma Burns, Lizzie and Josephine Hogue, Leo Otto Osterman, Nettie Smith, Nellie Ohlendorf, Ida Bateman, Irene McKinley, May Wetzel, Elizabeth Fenler, Anna Watson, Kate Watson, Gussie Schlott, Blanche McCoy, Delia Kayton, Mamie Albaker, Maggie Sharnon, Elizabeth Jones and Mary Miller. The boys were: William Humphreys, Daniel McCaffery, Edward Woodby, Ralph McKinley, James Kerne, Jacob Wise, Joseph Lietzing, Elbert Doepler, Edward Schlott, Jerry Wyman, James Cahill, Joseph Lumbert, Edward Toner, Robert Cooper, Robert Lambert, John Albaker and Elmer Solman.

Mrs. McColgan alleges Rietzel sold meat to her daughter of a wrong quality and refused to take it back or refund the money. When she carried the meat to his shop, she alleges, he threw it at her, striking her in the breast.

CELEBRATED ITS SIXTEENTH YEAR

Gustavus Adophus Lutheran Congregation Observes It Jointly With Anniversary.

The 30th anniversary of the first Swedish Lutheran church in Pittsburgh and the 16th anniversary of the Gustavus Adolphus Swedish Lutheran church, were jointly celebrated last night, in the building of the latter church, Forty-sixth and Plummer streets, Lawrenceville.

The services were, with the exception of a few hymns, entirely in Swedish, and the feature of the evening was the presence and and address by the Rev. Gustafo Nelsenius, the first pastor of the church. The Rev. Nelsenius, now of the Zion church, New York, spoke of the early life of the church. He has founded more Swedish Lutheran churches than any member of the New York conference, which includes 45,000 Swedes in New England, New York and Pennsylvania.

The jubilee celebration night was opened by the singing of a psalm by the congregation, which was augmented last night by the admission of 30 new "jubilee" members, 23 being communicants and 7 under 14 years of age. The addresses were interspersed with the singing of hymns in Swedish by the male and mixed choirs.

The Liturgy was read by the Rev. O. Chilleen of the Swedish Lutheran church of Irwin and the Rev. P. J. O. Cornell of the Braddock church. An address was made by the Rev. N. P. TOWN ALMOST WIPED OUT BY THE FLAMES

Fire Destroyed a Whole Block in Dunbar—Connellsville Department Gave Aid.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DUNBAR, PA., Nov. 6.—At 3:30 o'clock this morning this little town was swept by a fire which entirely destroyed one square of frame buildings. The loss will somewhat exceed $30,000, which amount is only partly covered by insurance. The fire started in the upstairs residence of O. P. Clark, a jeweler. A local bucket brigade was organized, but a brisk wind fanned the flames and drove them westward into the heart of the square.

A telephone call was sent to Connellsville and the Connellsville fire department, 60 strong, was hurried to Dunbar on a flat car with hook and ladder. Hose was not taken, as Dunbar has no water system. When the firemen arrived the fire was under control.

Two cars of dynamite standing near the fire on the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad were moved from their dangerous position only after three hard efforts on the part of the trainmen, the heat being intense. Several cars of merchandise were burned up. O. P. Clark, after he had rescued his family, made a dash into the burning house to secure some diamonds and jewelry and was badly burned about the face and arms.

HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY.

—The bureau of health yesterday reported six new cases of typhoid fever and two new cases of diphtheria.

—Policeman Joseph Murray of the West End had his hands badly burned yesterday morning by picking up a live electric wire in Steuben street.

—The residents of Glendale and Heidelburg have started a movement looking to the consolidation of the villages into one borough. The former has about 2,000 inhabitants and the latter 4,000.

—Eugene Keenan, 17 years old, was badly burned in a gasoline explosion yesterday at his home, No. 26 Warner street, Allegheny, while filling a torch. He is at St. John's General hospital. It is thought he will die.

—W. C. Pershing of No. 402 Biddle avenue, Wilkinsburg, an employe at the Post, reported to the police last night that he had been held up and robbed of $5 at the corner of Grant street and First avenue. He claims the job was done by two young men.

—William Sloan of No. 709 Watson street, a driver for Black & Barker, was arrested on complaint of Mrs. L. C. Miller of No. 321 Ward street, Oakland, who alleges that Wednesday Sloan stole $18 from a dressing case in her house. He will have a hearing today.

—The annual inspection of Duquesne Post No. 255, G. A. R., will be held on Tuesday evening, November 11, at 8 p. m., in U. V. L. hall, No. 227 Fifth avenue. The post will be inspected by Assistant Inspecting Officer J. E. Harrington, Department Commander R. P. Scott will be present. The nomination of post officers will take place.

THE MOST WONDERFUL BODY OF WATER IN THE WORLD DISCOVERED IN THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

A Modern Pool of Siloam—It Is Known as Medical Lake, and Is the Only Known Medical Lake in the World—It Has Been Known to the Indians for Many Years Past as the "Scookum Limechin Chuck," or Water of Wonderful Healing.

An Analysis of Its Waters Shows That They Contain Twelve Ingredients Which Are Recognized by the Most Scientific Physicians of Today as the Standard Remedies of the Age, and in Their Purest Form, as They Come Direct from Nature—Amazing Cures Result from a Use of Its Waters and Salts—Blighting Blood and Skin Diseases Disappear Like Magic—The Lame and the Halt Are Made Well and the Sorely Afflicted Are Restored—A Marvel of Healing Direct from the Hand of the Great Creator.

In the state of Washington, situated about twenty (20) miles from the city of Spokane, there is a wonderful body of water that is known to the white people as Medical Lake, and to the Indians for years past as the Scookum Limechin Chuck, or Strong Medicine Water, which was said by them to come from the Sahala Tyee, or Great Spirit, a pool that he had created to cure the Indians of all the ills that human flesh is heir to. This beautiful little lake is situated in the midst of a fine grazing and agricultural country, flanked by majestic mountain ranges, and lies like a medallion nestled in the midst of groves of stately pine trees. It is about a mile and a half long by a mile in width, and a more beautiful or wildly romantic spot cannot be found in the world, its natural surroundings being grand beyond description. Its shores are gently sloping, arising to no great height above the water's edge, the lake lying like a silver sheen at one's feet. This pretty little lake was first prominently called to the notice of the white settlers of that portion of the country about 30 years ago through the yearly pilgrimage of the Indians, who came for many miles on every side to bathe in and drink of its wonderful waters. While encamped about its shores they performed strange religious rites, singing and dancing and beating on huge drums whose hollow sound could be heard for miles, reverberating through the canyons and hills, calling all Indians who might be within reach of their tones to join in the strange ceremonies, which oftimes continued for days. It has only been within recent years that it was safe for white settlers to enter that portion of the state where the lake is situated, for that famous old Indian, Chief Joseph, one of the most renowned Indian warriors the west has ever known, sent out word that he would scalp any white man who dared to invade this (to the Indians) sacred ground or to bathe in or to drink of the waters of the lake. After his subjugation the country rapidly settled up, and the lake became immediately famous among the white settlers on account of its wonderful medicinal, healing and curative properties. The lake is known to have been the rendezvous of the sick and afflicted Indians as far back as 1807, some of them being known to come from as far south as Southern California, a distance of nearly thirteen hundred (1,300) miles. One reason why such long pilgrimages were made was because of the fame the salts had achieved from the fact that the Indians had for years been taking away with them a powder or precipitate discovered in the bottoms of their cooking utensils or dishes that they boiled the waters of the lake in, and these salts were carried to those whose infirmities made a personal visit to the lake impossible. Thus yearly many pounds of these salts found their way into the hands of these simple children of nature, whose belief in their curative qualities was afterward found by the whites to be well founded. The lake has no inlet or outlet, but the subterranean springs which come up with such great force as to cause the waters to boil in their immediate vicinity. The density of the waters differs in different sections of the lake. Where the small springs boil up the specific gravity of the waters is said to be less than where the larger springs come in. There is practically no rise or fall in the lake at any season of the year, and it is said that no living creature abides in these strangely medicated waters. No drainage, sewage or filth of any description goes into the lake, whose waters are much drunk as they are most palatable and delicious. A peculiarity of the water is one not elsewhere noted. To the touch it leaves a sensation as of placing the hand in oil, the least commotion causing the water to foam as if impregnated with soap. There is only a very slight trace of alkali in the waters, the most sensitive or delicate skin not being in the least irritated, even if they are used in their most concentrated form. On the contrary, the effect on the skin is deliciously cooling and soothing.

A bath in the waters or made from the salts acts as an immediate tonic and invigorator. This feature alone is bound to make the lake some day one of the most popular and famous sanitariums the world has ever known, more especially as the natural temperature of the waters is such that for eight months in the year a bath can be indulged in without danger of taking cold. The mud from certain sections of the lake, used as a bath, is of times used in aggravated cases of rheumatism and gout, and is highly impregnated with the salts. If the reader in the observer he will remark that no medical combinations yet devised by man have ever been one-half as efficacious as those formed by nature. Witness the famous Carlsbad Springs of Germany, our own wonderful Saratoga, Yellowstone, Shasta, Arkansas Hot Springs and Medical Lake. Their curative and healing properties are of the greatest; greater by far than any scientifically prepared combination by the most skilled chemist. Our great Creator has showered upon His children a great number of natural medical gifts, sufficient to cure all their ills, and which are much more efficacious in their action than any of the creations that the most noted physicians or scientists have ever been able to produce. The allwise Ruler of the Universe Who notes the sparrow's fall created in this modern Pool of Siloam, a panacea, and a natural sanitarium for His simple redskinned children, who have in turn bequeathed it to the white brothers and sisters. The waters of the lake are heavily impregnated with this peculiar medicinal salt, which is obtained by evaporating the waters of the lake. The waters as analyzed by Professor Lassing of New York and Professor Mariner of Chicago, are shown to contain twelve ingredients which are recognized by the most noted physicians of today as being the standard remedies of the age, and in their purest form, as they come direct from nature.

Miss Frances E. Willard, who was noted and gifted as one of the greatest temperance lecturers of the world, after visiting Medical Lake several years ago, said: "The Hot Springs of Arkansas are wonderful, the Thermo Electric Turkish Baths are luxurious, the sanitariums of Dansville, Clifton and Elmira are delicious in their bathing privileges, but for a sense of completeness, healthfulness, delightsomeness, the wonderful waters of Medical Lake, Washington, excel these of any other health resort." The remarkable curative properties of Medical Lake salts are vouched for by many people of wide reputation, among whom are: Professor Lassing of the New York Analyst, Dr. M. M. Miles of Aurora, Ill.; Dr. J. R. Monroe of Indianapolis, Ind.; Dr. J. V. Schultz of Logansport, Ind.; Dr. V. S. Secord, Detroit, Mich.; Dr. H. S. Green of State street, Chicago; Dr. P. Page, late professor of the California Medical college, at Oakland; the late Dr. Leroy Sunderland, and many others.

Hundreds of other people of wide reputation have imbibed in said drink of the waters of Medical Lake, and have used its salts for almost every disease that the flesh is heir to with universal beneficial results. The salts as they are placed on the market in their different forms have in no wise been scientifically tampered by the hand of man. They are simply nature's remedy, and in instances are combined with the simplest of bases. They are not in any sense to be considered patent medicines. Medical Lake Salts, Soap, Plasters, Tablets and Ointment will be found to be in the days to come the universal remedies for the cure of afflicted humanity. They will displace all patent nostrums, because of their efficacy and known simplicity, and their marvelous healing powers. Nothing like them has ever been discovered since the world began. Sickness and suffering will be almost unknown in the days to come through their use. The people are beginning to realize the fact that in taking into their systems the vile concoctions known as cure-alls and patent medicines they ruin their health, their lives and deplete their pocketbooks. In using Medical Lake salts and its preparations they will find a relief so efficacious and simple that all patent nostrums and cure-alls will be promptly banished.

Overcoats—Men's and Boys'.

Full stock—and great Coats. All from makers who let no one surpass them. Stylish if that can be applied to a Topcoat. Dependable, for they are so good of construction, the material so thorough as to weave, that he dare say many a man will grow tired of the Coat, if he buys from us, before it is half ready to be laid aside.

As for the Boys' Topcoats the boy who gets his here will have to pass it over to his younger brother on account of the race between growth and wear.

We start our Overcoats for men at $10. To buy, speaking now in the retail sense and for the benefit of the customer, anything cheaper at the beginning of the season is simply to throw your money away on trash. Next March, when we begin to clean house, it is very likely you could buy these $10 Coats for much less money, and that applies to all grades. But $10 is a small enough price for a good Coat at present. Our $10 Coats are excellent for the money. The quality of the material is right, the style is right, the fit is right. There are blue kerseys, black beavers and oxford gray friezes.

At $12 we show complete lines of long and medium length, and medium and extra heavy weights in rough, shaggy and smooth effects. Black friezes, oxford gray kerseys and blue meltons.

$15 is the special price for our special melton Overcoat, the best wearing Topcoat made today. We make no exceptions. Many Coats sold for $20 are not nearly so good. Colors are black, gray and oxford gray mixtures. We can fit perfectly any man whose size is in the range from 34 to 48 inches chest measure. Besides the melton Topcoats at this special price there are also rough friezes and smooth llamas in oxford gray, black and dark olive green. All these Coats are lined with a fine quality of mercerized black lining.

At $20, $22 and $25, we have some handsome and dressy Overcoats of black melton, oxford gray vicunas with a shaggy nap and a very soft finish, Scotch tweeds in plaid effects and oxford gray unfinished worsteds. All the wearable styles, three-quarter lengths, the extremely long length of 50 inches, the double-breasted belt back and the paddock.

From $28 and by easy range up to $60, we show the best tailored Overcoats that artistic designers can fashion, fit and finish, in fact, everything that you would get in the made-to-measure garment, and for which you have to pay only about half of what a fine Overcoat made expressly for you would cost. Medium and extreme box styles, very loose fitting, and wide shoulders. Only the best of cloths used, such as West of England Undressed Worsteds, Black Beavers, Carr's Melton, French Montagnacs, Vicunas, Elysian Beavers and Narrow Wale Bannockburns. There is every color that men wear.

Big Boys' Overcoats—9 to 16 years.

At $5, medium lengths in the popular friezes—oxford gray and black.

At $6, excellent Coats of cheviot, oxford gray and blue. Long Coat style.

At $7.50, $8 and $10, three-quarter and long Coats, medium and heavy weight, double and single breasted. Tan and blue rough cheviot, black and oxford gray friezes.

Little Boys' Topcoats—2½ to 8 years.

At $5 to $10, short medium weight Reefers with a good wool lining.

$6 to $8.50—long-cut double-breasted Overcoats of olive, red, blue and brown cheviot. This Coat buttons close to collar, which is either of velvet or self, has plain cape or hood, which is detachable.

$8.50 to $12—Double-breasted Cassock Topcoats in blue, red and brown kersey.

$20 and $25. We have very handsome Coats of fur beaver for little boys at these prices. They are finished with Persian lamb collar and cuffs.

Special Sale of Cotton and Wool Waist Lengths.

Today we will have on special table, Fifth street aisle, about 500 Waist Lengths of different styles of cotton and wool waistings.

These are ends representing the phenomenal cutting of the past two weeks. They are the most popular waist materials. In each length there is ample material for the making of a stylish waist.

THEY WILL BE SOLD AT VERY GREATLY REDUCED PRICES — IN FACT THE MOST PRONOUNCED OF BARGAIN PRICES.

The New Fad—Gold and Copper.

Or as it is sometimes called, Royal Copper. It is novelly odd and attractive. Being so, there is little doubt but that it will figure largely among articles sought with which to make holiday gifts.

We are introducing this Golden Copper in a varied line of articles such as

SMOKERS' SETS, CIGAR LAMPS, ASH TRAYS, PEN TRAYS, LETTER CLIPS, CALENDARS, PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES, BLOTTERS.

GROCERY MERGER FALLS THROUGH

Local Dealers Did Not Encourage Philadelphia Promoter.

YET HOPEFUL, HOWEVER

Asserts That Scheme Will Be Heard from Later—Met Some Small Grocers to Talk Over New Method.

The wholesale grocers' consolidation for Pittsburgh is a fluke so far. None of the wholesalers attended the meeting yesterday at the Hotel Henry, called by C. L. Minshall of Philadelphia, ostensibly to cinch up a great consolidation, and none of them knew anything about the matter. Some of the wholesalers were at another business meeting yesterday, and after looking from one to the other in blank amazement for some time, piled each other with questions to no purpose.

Minshall took his departure last night and the wholesale grocers' combine chimera is no nearer a reality than before he came. He blandly promised the newspapers a detailed statement earlier in the day, and arranged to put it out at a certain hour last night. The hour of appointment arrived, sans Minshall and sans the statement, but when stopped before boarding his train for Philadelphia, Minshall, who has in recent years cultivated a sunny disposition as a traveling salesman, exclaimed:

Minshall Still Hopeful.

"How did you know that you would meet me here?" The reply is not germane to this record, but Minshall said: "Now, really, you have caught me in an awkward position. The meeting tied my hands and I can not discuss the matter."

Pressed for some word of explanation as to the nature of the organization that he was attempting to form, Minshall said that it was entirely unlike the steel corporation, any of the big selling agency concerns and any of the forfeiture clause gentlemen's agreements. Asked as to the capital feature and the scope of the organization, its incorporation and so on, he asserted that the concern had enough money to pay its debts and would probably be heard from later.

"Sorry I can't tell you something, but I will give you a tip: ask Bonney."

"Who is Bonny? do you mean the county recorder defeated in his candidacy for re-election? He is going east on this train with M. K. McMullin."

"No; Bonny at the hotel: Mr. Bonneville."

Mr Bonneville said: "Yes: I know Mr. Minshall. He used to drop in frequently at the Anderson, and I had not seen him for several years when he turned up here the other day, with a card as representing some kind of a grocers' association of Philadelphia.

Saw Some Dealers.

"He met some of the local grocers yesterday, and some from the near boroughs today; that's all I know about it."

Minshall's scheme is to establish here, by ownership of the small retail grocers, a jobbing house which is to control the trade in some lines of groceries, principally canned goods, but matters did not take a sufficiently definite shape yesterday to warrant an announcement. About 150 met him yesterday and about 40 the day before.

The big grocery jobbers, like Arbuckles & Co., Dilworth Bros.' Company, Gillespie-Curll Company, Thomas C. Jenkins, Johnston, Earl & Meyers and George K. Stevenson & Co., were not represented. So far as these interests are concerned there is nothing doing in the big combination of grocery jobbing houses recently reported from Detroit and on which a promoter made an unsuccessful visit to Pittsburgh a few days ago.

One of the attendants at the Hotel Henry meeting yesterday said that nothing had been done; that the retail grocers had merely attended to learn what it was about.

BOYS' MURDER PLOT MAY HAVE OLDER HEAD

Carried Out With the Nerve of Hardened Criminals. Blood Plowed Under.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, NEB., Nov. 6.—No charge has been filed against the three boys, aged 14, 10 and 8, who killed their father, Gerhard Borcher, and buried his body in a strawstack. An investigation is in progress on the theory that some person older than the 14-year-old son, Herman, may be involved in the plot, which was carried out with the nerve of a most hardened criminal, the blood stained on the ground being plowed under and every precaution taken to hide the crime.

The two older boys, Herman and John, chiefly implicated, are said to be the illegitimate children of the mother, born in Germany, their father being a very bad man, according to the statement of a brother of the murdered man.

The boys had the notion that the property would be theirs with the father out of the way, and three days after the killing, acted on this supposition to the extent of going to town and ordering a windmill and water tank, giving it out that the father had disappeared and they were going to fix up the place.

John, the boy of 8, who is the only son of the murdered man, and who first told the story of the crime to his uncle, was allowed to return to the uncle's home, the officers not considering him a real party to the conspiracy.

The district court convenes here next Monday, and it is probable that the case may be disposed of during the term.

See the advertisement in the afternoon paper, or in The Gazette tomorrow, for Cambell details. The cost of these watches is not added to the price of the clothes; but is charged up to advertising.

Burned His Father's Corpse.

VIENNA, Nov. 6.—An extraordinary instance of the superstition prevalent among the peasantry of Hungary is reported from the village of Gross-Zorlencz. The house of a widow had been repeatedly stoned and the widow's young son, becoming possessed of the idea that his father rose from his grave nightly and bombarded his former home, went to the cemetery, dug up the corpse, dragged it nearly a mile and burned it.

Counterfeit Cases

It is as foolish to buy an imitation of the Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Watch Case as to accept counterfeit money in exchange for genuine. A "guarantee" will not make either good. The trade-mark in the is as much a certificate of quality as the Mint stamp on a U. S. Coin. Boss Cases are guaranteed for 25 years' wear, but thousands of them have worn over 40 years. No other Filled Case has been before the public long enough to have proved its value. Beware of buying a "gold brick" in buying a "gold filled" watch case. The Boss is surely safe. 7,000,000 sold in 49 years. All sizes, in all styles, at all jewelers.

By this mark you know them.

ADDRESSES OF WHITELAW REID AND R. W. GILDER

FOUNDER'S DAY OBSERVED WITH ORATORY AND ART

the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, recognized for many years as a skillful molder of modern thought, distinguished in his handling of the affairs of the nation, distinguished none the less in the field of diplomacy, a writer, a statesman, a politician in the best sense of the word."

Hon. Whitelow Reid's Address.

Mr. Reid spoke as follows:

We all believe in our form of government. In fact we are intolerant believers in it. Every child learns to think that it is the best in the world, not only for us but for all men. Every demagogue learns to bellow first from the cart tail his unlimited, unquestioning certainty of that superiority and universal applicability.

I am not here to dispute the belief—only to define the facts about it. If our form of government is the best, it cannot be so because it is the cheapest. On the contrary, it is one of the most expensive in the world; more paid lawmakers than any other, higher salaries generally for subordinates, though with very unworthy scrimping in some of the most important places like the policeforce, higher pay on government contracts, more lavish appropriations for internal improvements, and the costliest army in proportion to number and work.

Our form of government cannot be the best because it is the most efficient. On the contrary, it is one of the slowest in the world; the most complicated, cumbrous and limited. Our foreign representatives have been again and again humiliated by appeals from citizens abroad whom we could not or did not protect against impressment, with our passports in their hands, into the military service of other countries. Every few years we are all humiliated before the world because of riotous outrages on Italians, or on Chinese, or on Europeans, whether some one else has not oppressed or atoned for, and the nation has no adequate control of. This very year there could be found for five months no power in the state of Pennsylvania or in the United States to stop disorder and riot in the coal mines, and finally that imperative work had to be done by voluntary effort outside the constitutional processes or authority of the civil office that successfully intervened.

What the Government Requires.

Even within the spheres in which it will work, no form of government is not the easiest to work. On the contrary it requires, to keep it running successfully, more public spirit, more study about candidates, more time for multitudinous elections, local, state and national, more watchfulness of public officials, a larger average of intelligence than any other in the world; and no one has ever shown that without this alert and devoted public spirit, this unremitting attention and high average of intelligence it could have achieved its best successes or could now maintain them.

Some of our states repudiated their public obligations, and it took vehement and long continued efforts to get the disgraceful action reversed. The whole country was convulsed for years in the struggle to prevent payment of the national debt in a depreciated medium at half price. The greatest city on the continent fell under the absolute domination of a vulgar thief. We had to have years of strenuous exertion by the city's best men of all parties, thousands of speeches and ten thousands of columns of newspaper exposure—in fact the whole community had to be laboriously worked up to a state of excitement bordering on hysteria or epilepsy to get those elections carried, and the gang turned out of office. Even then how long did the gang stay out?

Matters That Were Overlooked.

The men who formed this complicated and delicately balanced government had no notion of the conceit prevailing nowadays about its universal applicability, or even about universal participation here in its conduct. To their day the idea that it could be applied to the so-called inferior races was foreign not only to their convictions, but even to their speculations. They simply did not think of the notion, or fancy it worth a lifetime's thought. The experiment of applying our form of government to the native races of America; and as to the blacks they didn't imagine it needed to be tried even as an experiment—multiplicable was it to the majority that the blacks should be included—when they solemnly declared that all men are born free and equal, and endowed with certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They had in mind the right to work at any trade, the right to own property, the right to marry whom they would, the right to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience, the right to the fruits of their own labor; and in 1902 in your state and in mine, there were still found a great many persons, including a pitiful number of exceptionally ignorant or emotional clergymen, and some people called statesmen, who considered such a right on the part of some of their fellow men to be so dangerous that they were not ashamed to urge, for the sake of peace, and coal, that it should be submitted to arbitration.

Compliment for Mr. Carnegie.

Well, in spite of these defects and limitations, this government of ours has, after all, accomplished in its short career a very respectable work in the world. The magnitude and myriad-sided development of this work has been recited by many an eloquent voice and pen, at home and abroad, though I know nobody who has described it more effectively than by an old citizen of Pittsburgh in a book called "Triumphant Democracy." What clear eye saw and proclaimed the "Triumph" of democracy, and it comes usually only once in two, the whole world has come to recognize the young republic as the very Samson among the nations which Mr. Carnegie then depicted. But, if the Philistines are not yet bound with the withes of intelligence than any other in the world; and no one has ever shown that without this alert and devoted public spirit, this unremitting attention and high average of intelligence it could have achieved its best successes or could now maintain them.

We brought the respect for authority from the birthplace of the common law; and in proportion as harshness from its officers was resented in the old home, in like proportion is the long prepared struggle with wild lands, wild beasts and wild men—till it became the inheritance of the race—till under the stimulus men found their solitary way through trackless woods to make lonely clearings or start frontier settlements across the Alleghanies, through trackless prairies to possess the Mississippi valley, through dreadful deserts to the Rocky mountains, and at last through the Sierras to scatter up and down the enchanted shore of the Pacific.

Enemies of the Republic.

To such a continental conquest of nature and of men have those two traits of the Saxon brought us—their respect for authority and their widest freedom of individual activity. These, with the original vigor of the stock, have made Americans what they are; and by consequence have made the blessed country of ours the joy and envy and hope of the world. To harm it is criminal—whether to break down the respect of authority by unlawful combination, trickery, evasion and open defiance of orders, or to cripple the widest freedom of the individual in any lawful enterprise of labor anywhere. Whoever or whatever dares to interfere with the permanent welfare of these traits must be the foe and development in the American life, the enemy to the republic—whether known official boss, or as trust, or as trades

Kind of Organization Favored.

Indeed, instead of opposing I appeal for organization, but only for organization of the kind which a distinguished ex-president of the United States once commended in a persuasive address on this very platform—the organization which seeks co-operation instead of the one that suppresses individual judgment; that demands exclusive control; the organization which aims at the helpful union of men of like minds and interests, or the needful strength to meet competition, not as monopoly, which minds its own business, and is willing that whoever is not with it should have equal liberty, in this land of liberty, to do the same.

Such an organization does not exclude young lawyers from references unless they have made their peace with the men who nominated the judges. It does not keep all fishing grounds free from out of the public service unless pledged to support the bills the boss wants, and to protect or punish the corporations as he may direct. It does not evade with its lawyer, clergymen or national bank, and conceal its operations alike from the state that charters and the stockholders that support it, in efforts to monopolize business or to crush competition. It does not declare that nobody shall labor for sale the products of lawful labor save on its terms or under its orders. It is co-operative and beneficent. Not restrictive and monopolistic, it protects the free breathing room in business it does not dread, on the contrary, it expects and prepares for competition; it does not resist and bewail, on the contrary, it rejoices in the power of crowding capital, which is the chief spring of intelligence and thrift and the begetter of public prosperity. In the industrial world it does not degrade labor into a dull, mechanical, limited level of pinioned uniform production; on the contrary it inspires the individual workman with the certainty of rewards in proportion to his skill and his right to the free exercise of it, whether in public life or in private, in the ranks of capital or of labor, the theory of our government from the beginning—not against classes, as the demagogues tell you, but against fixed classes; it maintains, as the priceless distinction of our social state, the fluidity and easy transfusion of classes, giving constantly to the ingent and industrious in any one the hope of rising by their intelligence and industry to any other.

A Most Dangerous Delusion.

Years ago a laboring man on strike said to me: "There is no use any longer in talking to us about saving and rising out of our class; about ever becoming an employer and one's own master. That stage of the world has passed. I and my fellows must be day laborers to the end of the chapter. We must therefore demand a larger share of intelligence than any other in the world; and no one has ever shown that without this alert and devoted public spirit, this unremitting attention and high average of intelligence it could have achieved its best successes or could now maintain them.

We brought the respect for authority from the birthplace of the common law; and in proportion as harshness from its officers was resented in the old home, in like proportion is the long prepared struggle with wild lands, wild beasts and wild men—till it became the inheritance of the race—till under the stimulus men found their solitary way through trackless woods to make lonely clearings or start frontier settlements across the Alleghanies, through trackless prairies to possess the Mississippi valley, through dreadful deserts to the Rocky mountains, and at last through the Sierras to scatter up and down the enchanted shore of the Pacific.

The Rise of Day Laborers.

But after Vanderbilt came Scott and Cassatt, Huntington, Morgan, Hill and Harriman; after Morse came Cyrus Field and Edison and Westinghouse and Bell and Marconi. The development of the newspaper did not stop with Bennett and Greeley and Raymond; the development of the iron industry has not been closed by the organization of the United States Steel, and Schwab is not the last day laborer to rise from the iron mills. The chances for a young man are and must be kept as good today as they ever were—in fact they are and must be made as much better as the scale on which this World moves would involve weekly and monthly more colossal. But now as in all past times, with political managers or in spite of them, with trusts or in spite of them, with trades unions or in spite of them, the chances are to him that can see and seize them—the tools are to him that can use them. "A man's a man for a' that."

There was a startling expression in the report of proceedings here the day this institute was opened. Its founder said he heard a great deal about sympathy for the "submerged tenth;" but for his part this sympathy went out rather to the swimming tenth! An audience already used to his large sayings often startled at gleams like their intimation that besides what he had done and was doing here, he had in view still other uses in this vicinity for surplus wealth. It has since been said that these additional plans look to technical or perhaps to technological schools. If the premise is as yet undecided, it may be permissible to express the hope that this new provision will be for the swimming tenth.

In Line With the Founder.

The suggestion would not be ventured, however, were it not in line with the founder's expressed sympathy. This business of thrusting advice upon any great public benefactor is overdone, and it comes usually unasked from those whose advice is least worth having. A certain weariness grows on most people at seeing the frequent lectures delivered by rich men on what they know about how those who have something to give should give it. The longer one lives a self-respecting, industrious, frugal life, the less likely one is likely in a year to find thriftless and prodigal—especially when they set themselves up to tell the other class what they ought to do with their money. A man who is solemnly reminded from such a quarter that "wealth is a trust" may well be tempted to ask: "Why didn't you think of your extra trusteeship then, instead of burying your talent in the ground?" and may even resent these instructions from the self-indulgent and extravagant as to how the self-denying and economical should bestow their accumulations.

Nevertheless the self-denying and economical do generally recognize that great prosperity opens great opportunities and devolves great duties. It is characteristic of the race, that among us these opportunities and duties should be instinctively and almost universally sought in the service of God and the service of humanity, and the service of the two is really the same. But it is not always the service of God or of humanity to give help to people who want it. Often that does more harm than good; always it tends to breed a race of weaklings. Hercules refusing to help the carter who did not put his own shoulder to the wheel and Carnegie, turning from the submerged tenth to devise means for encouraging the swimming tenth, these are the ancient and modern expressions of the same eternal truths that in this life at least, by inflexible veracity, he that will not work neither shall he eat.

A Word on Technological Schools.

Of the technological schools, which might have been in mind, when the late promise was offered, the supply in this country now is considerable, and the scientific men trained in them already lead the chemical, engineering and electrical progress of the world. But there could be at this moment no more auspicious aid to Pittsburgh and to Pennsylvania than an abundance of schools in which any boy can learn a trade. None can withhold admiration from the magnificent work already done here by the founder of this institute—where needed over this land or over his native land has he not done it?—in bringing books within reach of those who would read. But the times are somewhat changed. When Mr. Carnegie was a poor boy on your streets it was hard to get books, and only too easy to be set to work as a trade. Now-a-days any boy can buy a history of the United States for the price of a good cigar, and a Burns or a Shakespeare for the command of a full pint of porter; while it is always a privilege and sometimes an impossibility for him to get a chance to acquire the commonest mechanical trade. What is needed to bring books within reach of those who would read it is now to bring trades within reach of those who would work. It may sometimes be better for the poor lad that he should value his Burns or his Shakespeare the more for having bought it himself; but it can never be to his advantage or that of the state that one he should be an inactive witness when it is possible to self-respecting employment for him. Close and on a get plan should his face [illegible]

Lustre Surround[illegible] Carnegie.

Great as is the well-earned fame for the princely generosity that distributes free lands with Carnegie libraries, it would be sounded or outshone by the lustre surrounding the hand that in one direction, under national auspices, is already opening to men of the highest training the door for professional and the profoundest original investigation in any advanced field of science, while it simultaneously turns to the opposite end of the ladder and puts open to the boys of today the door to learn anywhere any trade.

That in fact is the line along which the future of the republic may be safeguarded. It is the benefit of all, because the latest generations hold fast to the faith and practice of the fathers, respect for authority and the widest liberty for individual activities. Mr. Bidwell once quoted in my hearing aptly the illuminating definition of civilization, given by a philosophic Frenchman. It is, said M. Guizot, the progress of society and the progress of the individual. But the society cannot make progress without that respect of authority which is its cornerstone; and the individual cannot make progress without that freedom of initiative which is the essence of liberty itself.

Preservation of the Citizen.

If society makes progress and the individual does not, you have the condition not of the republic which we fondly trust is to endure forever, but of the despotism which we have hoped was passing away. Let us not lose our heads in the midst of our bewildering prosperity and risk shipwreck by getting out of sight of the old landmarks. We are the oldest republic in the world (save those so small as to be negligible), but our years do not yet cover the span the Psalmist assigned to two human lives, while those of the monarchies and despotism count by thousands. Other republics, long since passed away, have lasted as long as we, and borne for their time as great a sway in the world. Be not deceived. Strong as this republic is, it is not strong enough—let us hope it will never be unjust enough to let either labor shut any of its children out of learning a trade, or capital shut any of them out of going into trade. You cannot preserve the triumphant democracy and insure the American future, unless you preserve the American citizen in his habit as he was, reverting like Israel in its captivity, and beyond that still limited in his free activities by no master below God.

LITERARY PAPER WAS READ BY R. W. GILDER

Literature as an Art for Service Was the Poet's Novel Topic.

Richard Watson Gilder, editor of the Century Magazine, had a novel paper, "Literature As An Art For Service," He discussed some of the practical uses of literature and frequently stopped reading to interjex comments on his topic or to make jesting remarks to the audience. He did not overlook Bishop Potter, who sat in a front row, or neglect to answer back a pun to Joseph Jefferson, in his introduction Mr. Frew said:

"We are fortunate in having with us today another prominent figure in the world of letters, who, as poet, writer, and editor for many years of one of the great American monthlies, has carved his name deep in the history of modern literature, Mr. Richard Watson Gilder."

Address by Richard Watson Gilder.

Mr. Gilder's paper was as follows:

On this day of your annual commemoration and accounting, when you bring freshly to mind the commanding personality of your founder, and celebrate the work accomplished by an important institute—on this day I am asked by a bishop indeed to speak for the great and noble art of letters; though that art through all the ages has had such a golden-voiced and persistent and proclaimed the fact that very names must needs appall the heart of any modern spokesman.

In fulfilling my duty of the day it will be well for me to attempt the presentation of but a single phase of the fascinating and many-sided theme. I will speak of this art, as is here most fit, not as an art for art's sake, but as an art for human service.

And as an art for service, what art can compare with the art of letters? The art of the right use of words. Consider that detachment of the world where this service is most willed and obvious. What is the art made use of by the great prophets and priests, by martyrs and statesmen, by deliverers, the makers of religion and philosophies, the inspirers of the race? These are inspirers in all the arts; there are painters, sculptors, musicians whom I am unsaid and just to speak of as having the prophetic spirit. But the mightiest movers of men, what art was theirs? How did Mosaic and Hebrew seers, and David Platonic and Paul, how did He who spoke as never man spake—how did He, how did they all, cleave the heart and mind of man? By the spirit and with a trumpet, leading the multitudes of mankind, generation by generation, along the upward path?

The Art of Letters.

Human speech, the right use of words—this was their art! If you say they were often orators rather than writers, then I ask what is oratory but literature militant? The statesmanship of Lincoln—was it not his sublimest literature, his art of language, that gave that statesmanship its power? Ah, here was art!—like Shakespeare's for wonder of unfounded origin! Here was art! What clarity! What decision! What solemn music thrilled through with the stern pathos of heroism and undying hope! That art is for you today! Not the spoken address, the letter, the formal message. He did not paint, or build heaven-reaching domes. He spoke to us.

What remains of the great prophets but their still potent words carven in the consciences of men. What remains of Christ if legend, now of little importance, be the spirit, what remains of Christ but the book?

Radiant also in the literature for service are those rarer spirits who, born to other vocations, bring them, in whole or in part, into the class of the moralists, or prophets; like Dante, who left behind his epic of religious Brownings, Emersons. These are they to whom the saying of Goethe would come with no alien sense: "Art is long and time is fleeting, and the latter treated is the beginning and the end of art."

But it may be asked, shall there be excluded from the art for service those consuming users of words who have not openly and directly aimed at service—that is, at the palpable betterment of men—but who have been content to amuse, to charm, to thrill. These are they who come "unto you with a tale which holdeth children from play, and old men from the chimney-corner." Homer, Hogarth, the Shakespeares, the Keatses, the Walter Scotts! The answer is made in names that sum up a service to mankind indisputable, immeasurable, infinite.

When Disservice Is Done.

Disservice is done by the weaver of romance only when he caters to foul mind or body, when of the pit to assail and maladen the spirit; or when, reckless of effect upon the unformed character, the cravings of the lower nature are adorned with false and illusive enchantments. Seldom has the very greatest art been other than healthful, even in the persistently cynical and degrading. That truth is beauty and beauty truth, this in all ages has been the instinctive creed of the supreme masters, and in their divination wrong and spiritual ugliness are never put upon the worshipful throne of beauty.

One beautifully blossoming branch of the art just named, seems to be not only unmotived by any definite intention of use, but, in the aim at effects, either purely sensuous or meaningless impressive—loveliness of sound, magic of imagery—disports in an atmosphere of untrammeled unreality—as in some of the marvelous, dream-like effects of Poe and Coleridge. Shall it be said that such appeals to the sense of verbal melody, such haunting strains of the music of the imagination are without service in a world so beset by the fierce, impulsive selfishness endangered by the grime and din of endeavor, not always unsordid?

Literature as an Art of Service.

In speaking of literature as an art of services, I have rather placed the accent on the art, so that the literature of information and instruction does not, at the moment, necessarily come into our purview. But very often such literature does enter the classification of art, for even in science the leaders and discoverers are apt to acquire, as if from the urgency of their message, a "fine art" of expression. Why indeed should it not be so? because as for the high poets, so for the high scientists, a little has the veil been lifted behind which hides truth eternal.

So, too, it often is with those who have gone into far and unknown parts of this now narrowing earth; those who have burst into seas unvisited, who have discovered virgin forests, unimagined lands, never-dreamed-of beautiful, or barren and accurst. They, too, have a burden of which to be delivered; the telling of their strange tale has now and again, in its eagerness, risen into song. So, too, it has often been with those who have written with almost enforced eloquence that most marvelous story of all—the story of humanity, its perils, its heroes, guides, true and false, its failures, deliverances and, as we fondly believe, its inevitable progress. So is it often with the self-record of men of notable action—as with Cæsar and Napoleon—that the pressure of mighty events has tended to the artistic quality of compression of style and directness of narrative.

Two Conclusions Drawn.

Today, however, I would keep mainly to the thought of that literature which is distinctly artistic, imaginative; and I would insist upon two conclusions: The first having to do with the literary artist—and maintaining that there is no degradation to the idea of the literary, or of any other art, that it should be used for services that, on the same sincere, pure-hearted pursuit and right report of beauty, truth is necessarily discovered and portrayed, and, rounding the circle the other way, that truth must needs be beautiful, and wholesome, and desirable, and serviceable. And no man or woman should the imaginative artist of the beautiful defame his handiwork by the inartistic intrusion of didacticism; by a tone and treatment foreign to the matter in hand. Not at the peril of truth which is beauty, shall he build his art upon an anti-ethical, spiritually ugly and disservicable foundation.

The second conclusion has to do with the world that receives and writes—if there be nowadays any world that does not write. Let me correct the phrase and say the world that reads, or may read whether or not it writes; to this world of readers it may be said: Is there one among you who despises, or neglects, or misuses the art literary? Then he does so at very great risk. Something has got to be awakened in him or something has gone from him—a faculty he cannot afford to be without. In the art literary, in that treasure stored for his without too easy reach, are all the riches of the spirit of man. Think of it. The recorded emotions of the most sensitive natures that have ever trembled with the experiences of this mortal life!

He who reads rightly is the heir of the ages in a literal sense. The thoughts most most celestial, the wisdom most other; here precious, the ideals most fruitful, the dreams in books are these given freely to all who seek, as to the faithful the everlasting riches of grace.

A Crying Need of These Times.

In our day, of all the days of all the centuries, is the highest art of literature a crying need; for in this art man learns that temper of the soul which our times most deeply demand; a generous spirit (generosity) is the very atmosphere of literature), a sense of brotherhood, a knowledge of true values, the ability of self-control, of self-control, of courage, of service, of true freedom, of aspiration. There are brilliant books in which these are not the sentiments that dominate. Yet the wise reader of the higher literature has always at hand the correctives of perverse writing, and is well armed against the seductions of conscienceless talent.

The art of literature in America has always been in an especial way an art of service; there has been little in it of dilettanteism and degradation. It is an interesting fact that notwithstanding the appeal of America to the sense of wonder by means of numbers and size, our native art has been characterized by qualities of refinement, rather than by the grandoise.

In some of the other arts the American product is marked by the same subtlety and refinement. The art of the engraving process in America has a degree of delicacy and expressive subtlety that long ago attracted the attention of the best foreign critics. The subtleties of color in American stained glass have excited a delight and subtlety only rivaled by the work of the masters of the earlier ages, not indeed paralleled by that work.

Conspicuous Artists Recalled.

Whitman, indeed, was strongly affected by the ideas of vastness of area, and numerousness and variety as to human content. But his catalogues are often the least attractive parts of his descriptions, and his successful literary expression was the result not merely of those rushes of emotion without which there can be no poetry, but of anxious search for the effective phrase. His best chantings—unique, inimitable, thrilling for those who have ears for them—are very many of them of a compression of a subtlety well beyond the comprehension of more of the plain people whom he tried to interest.

We have had writers of genius, like Cooper and Clemens, who have done things on a large scale and in a broad and, let us say, strenuous manner. On the other hand the very name of Hawthorne suggests that subtle and withdrawn. The exquisite art of Poe, in that part of his verse most melodious and accomplished, has affected the lyric art of more old-world nations than one. Think, writer or no, but of all the poets and artists dead or living, and, with exceptions, there is an array of distinguished literary accomplishment marked by fineness of touch in verse, and especial penetration and felicity of expression in prose.

Sense of Responsibility.

While not everywhere has there been in American literary art a definite moral intention, yet almost everywhere has such unindenced an altruistic sense of responsibility. It was so with those groups of writers which, to our good fortune, gave the tone to the beginnings of our home literature; it is so with the youthful band of romancers whose addresses, and whose delightful personalities are met by the rewarding smiles of an innumerous public.

This is, perhaps, a time in the history of the literary art in America, when, along with the great enjoyment of its lighter products, there is a reverent looking backward and an expectant looking forward. Perhaps when the forward times have arrived there will be the final word—that we have not perceived all that might have been perceived, of both promise and performance, in the times now contemporaneous, or the immediately so. But I hope that whatever our American literature may gain in breadth and robustiousness, it may never lose from it the subtle and expressive quality which from the first has place of honor in the treasury of the literary art of the world, nor ever seem to be an art for human service.

OPENING CONCERT WAS A BRILLIANT EVENT

Pittsburgh Orchestra Begins Its Eighth Season Auspiciously. Warm Welcome for Herbert.

The culminating event of the Founder's Day celebration at the Carnegie Institute was the opening concert of the Pittsburgh orchestra season last night in the music hall. It was a brilliant inaugural of another season of symphony concerts. The music hall was crowded with one of the most fashionable and critical audiences ever gathered within its walls and an ovation was given the splendid organization of musicians as they appeared for the opening number. A perfect furore of applause swept through the hall when Victor Herbert, the popular conductor, who has just added to his laurels by winning a lawsuit in New York which was of unusual interest to the musical public, stepped on the platform. He was presented with a large bouquet of American Beauty roses as he mounted the conductor's stand. Enthusiasm and good nature seemed the prevailing sentiment, both in the audience and among the musicians, and the concert was conducted with a vim and dash that gave promise of unusually good work this season.

The audience was a very brilliant one. Familiar faces were missed here and there throughout the hall, for it is the custom for subscribers to change the location of their seats from season to season, and there is always curiosity at the opening concert to know who will be neighbors. Last evening Mr. ad Mrs. W. N. Frew occupied the upper box on the right, their guests being Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder.

Elaborate dressing was quite the rule, and the beautiful interior of the Carnegie Music hall, its exquisite gold and ivory surface, studded with innumerable electric lights, which brought into play the jewels which adorned rich gowns, formed an ensemble full of harmony and beauty. It needed but the rare charm of the soloist, an American whose successes have heretofore been in foreign countries, with her flute-like voice, to make complete the closing event of Founder's Day.

The Pittsburgh orchestra is opening its eighth season with a larger number of supporters than ever before. Seventy-six prominent men, together with the Art society, are named as its guarantors, and the announcement for the coming season is full of splendid possibilities. The orchestra throughout the summer season has worked together, so that the best results are to be looked for. The soloists secured are the best in this country. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the wonderful pianist, will play at the concert next week.

The work of the orchestra last evening was marked by excellent ensemble, with some delightful individual work. The third movement of the "Scenes Alsaciennes" was perhaps most fancied by the audience and was encored. Miss Munchoff, the soloist, has a very sweet lyric soprano. Her numbers called for difficult vocalization and great control of the voice, and in these she was eminently successful.

The program, which will be repeated tomorrow afternoon, was as follows:

Symphony, No. 5, in C Minor.....Beethoven
Aria from "The Pearl of Brazil".....David Suite, "Scenes Alsaciennes".....Massenet
(a)—Sunday morning.
(b)—At the tavern.
(c)—Under the lindens.
(d)—Sunday evening.
(First time in Pittsburgh.)
Songs with Orchestra:
(a)—Solveigs Song.....Grieg
(b)—Lasciate.....Buonvalay
(Arranged for orchestra by Victor Herbert.)
(c)—The Nightingale.....Alabieff
Overture, "1812".....Tschaikowsky

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

A CURE FOR ALL.

Not a Patent Cure-all, nor a Modern Miracle, but Simply a Rational Cure for Dyspepsia.

In these days of humbuggery and deception, the manufacturers of patent medicines, as a rule, seem to think their medicines will not sell unless they claim that it will cure every disease under the sun. And they never think of leaving out dyspepsia and stomach trouble. They are sure to claim that their nostrum is absolutely certain to cure every dyspeptic and he need look no further.

In the face of these absurd claims it is refreshing to note that the proprietors of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have carefully refrained from making any undue claims or false representations regarding the merits of this most excellent remedy for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. They make but one claim for it, and that is, that for indigestion and various stomach troubles Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a radical cure. They go no farther than this and any man or woman suffering from indigestion, chronic or nervous dyspepsia, who will give the remedy a trial, will find that nothing is claimed for it that the facts will not fully sustain.

It is a modern discovery, composed of harmless vegetable ingredients acceptable to the weakness or most delicate stomach. Its great success in curing stomach troubles is due to the fact that the medical properties are such that it will digest whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach, no matter whether the stomach is in good working order or not. It rests the overworked organ and replenishes the body, the blood, the nerves, creating a healthy appetite, gives refreshing sleep and the blessings which always accompany a good digestion and proper assimilation of food.

In using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets no dieting is required. Simply eat plenty of wholesome food and take these Tablets at each meal, thus assisting the weak stomach, which rapidly gains its proper tone, then the Tablets will be no longer required.

Nervous Dyspepsia is simply a condition in which some portion or portions of the nervous system are not properly nourished. Good digestion invigorates the nervous system and every organ in the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

FOOD CHANGES PEOPLE.

Both Adults and Babies.

Babies can eat and thrive on the same kind of food that their elders do, when that food happens to be Grape-Nuts.

"Our little baby girl had spasms," writes Mrs. George B. Noble of West Union, Ia., "caused, the physicians said, by improper food. He advised a diet of milk, but she did not gain in either health, weight or brightness, and we had to continually use physic.

"We were simply wild, hopeless and miserable over our little one. For a long time I had been reading of Grape-Nuts, and perhaps by inspiration I bought a package and began feeding them to her. After the second meal we used no more physic, and have never used any since. It was wonderful to see her improve. Her weight was 17½ pounds at two years; now it is 27 pounds at two years and four months. The doctor had fear for her brain, the spasms having come from her spine, but the continued use of Grape-Nuts has made her perfectly well, and there is not a brighter child in the state today than our little girl.

"Everybody remarks about her beautiful complexion and her bright witty speeches. We are never now without Grape-Nuts and often think of the awful period when we were in such desperate straits. If I can in any way interest others, I am more than willing to tell them all I can about Grape-Nuts."

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1902.

FOURTEEN PAGES.

From the tenor of our dispatches from the east there appears to be some misunderstanding as to the position of the congressmen and legislators from this county who were chosen on the Citizens ticket. In order to allay such misunderstanding we can say positively that Messrs. Shiras, Porter and Brown, though elected in opposition to the regular Republican nominees, are Republican party men—that they will participate in the Republican caucus, will vote for caucus nominee for speaker and other house officers, and will be earnest supporters of the administration of President Roosevelt.

We can also announce that the senators and members of the legislature who were elected on the Citizens ticket (with the exception of Messrs. Ryan and Yellig, who are Democrats,) will act with their fellow Republicans at Harrisburg, that they will participate in the Republican caucus for United States senator and will vote for the party nominee. They will seek to accomplish such reforms in legislation as they think will be necessary through co-operation with their fellow Republicans in the senate and house.

Our Washington advices yesterday reported that the opponents of tariff revision promptly interpreted the Republican victory in the congressional elections as meaning that there was no need for tariff revision. This is taking just the position the Democratic party would like to see the Republican party occupy. Nothing would suit them better than to create the impression that the only hope of tariff revision is in Democratic success. But when the western members get to Washington they will be prompt to let the Bourbon wing of the party of protection know that in the middle west the Republican party was victorious because voters were assured that it could be depended upon to give the tariff such revision as may be desirable to adjust it to present conditions.

The objections urged against attempting tariff revision because of disturbance to business interests are well founded, but if President Roosevelt's advice is followed there need be no serious disturbance. To refer the subject to an outside commission for examination and report, as was done under President Arthur's administration, would be regarded as a mere postponement of the subject, which would ultimately have to be mulled over in congress, but it would be different if the president were authorized to appoint a commission of treasury experts and such outside assistance as they might need and report a complete set of revised tariff schedules. This would constitute a specific measure of tariff revision upon which public opinion could act and parties could line up. This is the precise way in which, according to the Federalist, it was expected that such matters would be dealt with by congress, and that is the way in which they are dealt with in Switzerland today. The executive council frames the legislation and the legislature discusses it, approving or rejecting upon grounds of general policy. It is not so much tariff legislation itself which so distracts business as the protracted debate and the piece-meal way in which tariff bills are put together.

It is of public interest that in arranging the cabinet chamber of the new executive building, adjoining the White House, an extra chair was provided with a council table large enough to give room for 10 persons to gather round, where nine now have place. When the president sits at the head of the table with all his official advisers present, the company numbers but eight others. The placing of the new chair betokens confidence that before the present congress expires it will have made provision for a ninth department, the head of which shall be a cabinet officer, with commerce and our commercial relations as his field of usefulness. One branch of congress has passed the measure recommended by the president for the creation of a department of commerce, and the other branch ought to pass it at the short session which meets next month. The new officer of state ought to be a valuable addition to the president's official family. His duties will be manifold and in the collection and preparations of facts bearing on tariffs and trade there is no question but that the right man can be of inestimable service to the president and to the nation. When we think of how much use he may be and can be the wonder is that provision was not made long ago for a secretary of commerce.

The prospect that a dignitary of the Mormon church may knock at the door of the United States senate after the 4th of March next is no cause for alarm. The Mormon population of Utah is large and it is clothed with all the rights that protect citizens of the United States in every state of the union, and is subject to the same limitations. If a Mormon wants to ask the legislature of Utah, or of New Jersey, or of Maine, or of any other state to elect him to represent the commonwealth in the United States senate, he is entirely within his guaranteed privileges in doing so. And the legislature may elect him if it sees fit, or reject him if it so pleases a majority of its members. All that is asked of the choice of the legislature is conformity with the laws of the United States, and (particularly of a resident of Utah) that he have a straight record as a monogamist. The aspirant for a Utah senatorship, whose candidacy is announced through the medium of the Associated Press, is hardly as frank as could be wished on the subjects of the marriage relation and church consent to his candidacy, but there is abundant time to scan his record and decide whether he be a fit associate for the members of our upper house and hold to views that make him a proper person to help enact laws for the whole United States. What develops in examination of his past and of his beliefs will determine whether if elected he shall be permitted to sit with the senators or suffer the fate that befell the thrice married, but not once widowed, Roberts, who endeavored to have himself seated in the lower house. It is time enough, though, to cross the bridge when we come to it, and the United States senate can be trusted to do its duty in complete harmony with the enlightened sentiment of the times. It is sovereign in the premises and responsive to public opinion.

LET BYGONES BE BYGONES.

The vote polled for the Citizens county ticket in Pittsburgh exceeds by over 13,000 votes the number polled for the Democratic state ticket, although that was swollen by all the votes cast for the so-called Ballot Reform ticket. The vote for the head of the machine county ticket was less than 20,000, and when it is considered what efforts were made to secure Democratic votes for that ticket, it is probable that as many Republicans voted the Citizens ticket as there were ballots cast for the machine ticket, although that had the prestige of the Republican party name. This cannot be definitely ascertained until official returns of the vote polled for the various tickets are accessible, but be that as it may the fact is manifest that the old organization does not represent the Republican party, but is simply a discredited faction of the party whose candidates are doomed to defeat.

This forfeiture of party confidence has been the work of years and is the logical outcome of the policy of the machine managers. For years they have been fighting the state organization of the Republican party. Their legislative candidates bolted the party caucus and allied themselves with the Democratic minority in successive sessions of the legislature. They deliberately discarded in state politics the claim of party regularity which was their most valuable asset in local politics. They organized another bolting movement against the Republican state ticket in the recent campaign, and in every way have managed their affairs not as a Republican party organization, but as a local political faction pursuing its own purposes.

Has not this gone on long enough and has not the time arrived when a regular Republican party organization can be established? We do not believe that the mass of the adherents of the old organization have approved the guerrilla policy of its management. Their interests are sacrificed for the furtherance of personal intrigues and for the satisfaction of personal animosities which do not really concern them, and they have to suffer the consequences. Worthy candidates may be put up, strong in personal popularity, but, as the Times yesterday admitted, they become "a vicarious sacrifice, going down in defeat not for anything they had done themselves, but for what had been done by others and for what they were supposed to represent."

It ought to be plain to every Republican in the old organization or in the new that there should be an end of faction warfare and that Republicans should get together in one regular party organization. A common ground of party action will be established if a general agreement is reached that all faction considerations shall be laid aside in the selection of a candidate for recorder, and that the aim shall be to find a man for the place of the grade which would be required as general manager of a business corporation of like magnitude. He should be a Republican, but apart from that the qualifications sought should be simply those of character and ability. He should not be a man who lives on political employment, neither should he be one of the respectable figurehead class, but he should be a man of such known force and ability as to assure the public that his administration will be his own. It is sheer folly to talk of looking around for "a good organization man," or to attempt to keep up the old organization with nothing behind it but a record of perfidy, mismanagement and defeat. Let the dead past bury its dead, and let the living turn to the needs of the present and the opportunities of the future.

THE DANES AND THEIR ISLANDS.

Another proof has been given that the Danish people do not indorse the action of the landsthing, the upper house of the Danish parliament, in refusing to consent to ratification of the treaty providing for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States. The lower house, the folkesthing, the popular chamber, voted for the measure, and as the members were newly elected, with the treaty of sale as the leading issue in the elections, it was a necessary implication that their attitude reflected public sentiment. Opponents of sale, however, were sufficiently influential in the landsthing to defeat the treaty measure. To justify the act they promised in advance to form, in event that their view prevailed, a company to develop and exploit the resources of the islands, to which promise several banks were party. It was represented that if sufficient commerce could be developed the local revenues would be so increased that the islands would cease to be a charge on the national treasury and a tax on the people of Denmark. Subscriptions were opened for the shares of the Danish West Indian Company, and, though the king and the crown prince ostentatiously took shares, the time limit for the receipt of subscriptions expired on Wednesday with only one-fifth of the capital of $1,000,000 subscribed. It is evident from this failure that the people of Denmark have little faith in the ability of the promoters of the company to make their promises good, and that they prefer a sale to the United States with the relief it would give to the national treasury. The banks and others who backed the project will be compelled now to put their own money into it or drop it. The sensible course is to drop it and let the people have their way, and at the same avoid the risks involved in the venture. The whole flavor of the company promotion scheme is that of a mere political expedient, and it is not probable its promoters will care to risk much real money of their own in it. The effort, with royal backing, for its flotation was with the evident intent of arousing a measure of public interest and support that would justify the rejection of the treaty and discredit and dispossess the ministry that proposed it. But the people seem to have made a true estimate of the scheme and to take the wise view that if there was not an apparent profit in the resources of the islands for investors before the treaty was proposed, nothing has since occurred to better the situation. A free market in the United States is the one thing that can stimulate the full development of the islands, and this can only be secured by transfer to the United States.

DALZELL FOR SPEAKER.

Now that Pennsylvania has again spoken for Republican principles and policies by a larger majority than that given in any other state on Tuesday, now that she has again elected to congress a more numerous body of Republicans than any other state in the union and a legislature that will continue a Republican in the senate of the United States, now that she has with all this given strength and power to the president to be used for the weal of the whole people, it is proper that Pennsylvanians should claim an honor that is due them and their state, and also due to that son of Pennsylvania who is so firmly entrenched in the regard of the people of his district in Allegheny county that they have returned him to congress without opposition. The Keystone state holds her place at the head of the Republican column unrivaled by any commonwealth in the American sisterhood. Faithful and firm have been her people since the birth of the party of Lincoln and of Grant and of McKinley, seeking no reward for their work, satisfied with the consciousness of duty well done. Pennsylvania majorities have been beacon lights of safety to the nation in the so-called off-years of politics, pointing to national triumphs later, and Pennsylvania delegations in the halls of national legislation have been the rocks on which have broken in pieces opposition to policies that make this nation strong at home, respected abroad and great in everything. Foremost among Pennsylvanians in congress has been the Hon. John Dalzell. His conspicuous worth and ability have been recognized by the people of his district in nine successive elections, and he has advanced to the front rank of leadership in the house of representatives and in the councils of his party as a member of the great committee on ways and means and of the committee on rules. His personal merit has won for him the right to promotion to the speakership of the body of which he is a leader. His state has earned the right to the honor that she asks to be conferred on him. Pennsylvanians elected to the fifty-eighth congress ought to be early in the field to present the name of their colleague and the claims of their commonwealth to those who will serve in congress from the other states of the union.

FOUNDER'S DAY.

The absence once more on Founder's Day of the founder is regretted, and the thought suggests itself after perusal of his kindly message from Skibo, in which there is one note of discontent, that his face may not be seen again at one of the annual festivals until appreciation of his gifts to Pittsburgh bears fruit in realization of the greater institute for which his generosity has made provision, or until the breaking of ground for the extension. "I had fondly hoped," he says, "to receive a cable before this telling me that the property had been secured for the extension. I shall hope soon to hear this good news." The good news has been long delayed. The greater institute should ere this have been erected on the ground that has not yet been acquired by the city. And the technological school, on the prospective benefits of which Mr. Reid dwelt in speaking of the roads of opportunity opened to the feet of the young men of the United States, instead of being without a site, should be also nearing completion. We hope that before another Founder's Day there will be good news for Mr. Carnegie and for Pittsburgh, such as will insure his presence at another of those annual events from which Pittsburgh dates her year.

No audience that has assembled at any Founder's Day celebration in Carnegie institute was treated to a richer intellectual feast than was spread by Whitelaw Reid and Richard Watson Gilder before the audience that assembled yesterday in the music hall. It is not too much to call these editors molders of thought. The term is often misused in application to men who are only interpreters of contemporary moods, and too frequently it is bestowed in mere compliment on ready speakers or ready writers. But those who heard the Founder's Day addresses of this year, and those who will read them, will consent to have the orators of the occasion classed among those who shape and direct the intellectual development of the times. Mr. Reid's "Wherein Lies Its Strength?" and Mr. Gilder's "Literature as an Art for Service" will bear a second and a third reading, and then others for their subject matter and for their literary excellence. They are pleasing at a first perusal and possess the merit that they may be studied with profit.

The south constructed last year 2,254 miles of steam railroads. In one southern state, Texas, there have been planned since the beginning of this year new lines and extensions aggregating 3,797 miles, according to figures presented in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore. Of these 2,423 miles represent the plans of established companies and 1,374 are entirely of new undertakings, 19 in number. In addition other plans are reported as under consideration at various points to build an aggregate of 1,000 more mileage. The process under way in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and other parts of the southwest is an intensified form of that which has wrought so mightily in the upbuilding of older states of the south, assembling coal, iron ore and limestone, uncovering copper, phosphate rock and other minerals, building cotton mills and other industries, making diversification in agriculture both possible and profitable and attracting a wide stream of healthy immigration southward. Diversification of industry is widening the diversification of farming.

The Boston murder sensation should call fresh attention to the danger that lies in allowing persons of known maniacal tendencies to go about and enjoy the liberty that is granted to harmless people. Firm common sense exercised at the proper time with reference to insane suspects would save many a gruesome tragedy, of which this Boston case is a terrible example.

It will, of course, never be known how much Mr. Bryan contributed to the defeat of the Democratic tickets in those states where he was most active.

TAMMANY BLAMES HILL FOR DEFEAT

Odell's Plurality Growing So Fast That Coler Has Quit Crying Fraud.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

Ask any Tammany man you chance to meet tonight what he regards as the principal factor in Gov. Odell's victory, and he will reply without hesitation: "David B. Hill." That name is the key to Tammany's disgust. The feeling that Hill mismanaged Coler's campaign, and that his attacks upon Odell only aroused popular sympathy for the governor, is growing hour by hour. Hill is not in New York, and no one knows exactly what reply he would make to this charge were it hurled straight into his face by some of the disgruntled Tammanyites that are listlessly vibrating between the Wigwam and the Hoffman house. One thing is certain, and that is that there is now very little talk about a contest by Coler. Each report from up the state brings the news that Odell's plurality is growing, and it may be 15,000 before the figures are all in. Odell says that will be his plurality, and he is a conservative man, who is not likely to be unbalanced, even by the success that came to him on Tuesday. Yesterday Coler was savagely shouting "fraud" and talking about a contest that was to be made at once, with the certainty that he could prove himself to have been chosen governor, and not Odell. Coler has completely subsided in the face of later returns. He realizes that he is a worse beaten man than he believed himself at the beginning, and that his talk about having been defrauded by illegal voting is simply childish. In common with his late supporters, he seems disposed to let things alone and to resume the even tenor of his way that was his before he allowed himself to be put forward as the banner-bearer of the Democracy. Of course he cannot keep quiet about his victory in Greater New York. He made a clean sweep here, and everybody is obliged to admit it; but what is the use of getting votes through Tammany, when he is snowed under by independent Democrats up the state? That is the question, and Coler answers it only with a scowl. It was a great victory for the Republican party, and everyone here knows it, whether he admits it or not.

Grumbling at Mayor's Coal Order.

New Yorkers are getting ready to resist the rule of Mayor Low, that no soft coal shall be used in the city limits of Greater New York after the 15th inst. Some of the retail coal dealers are declaring that anthracite will be scarce in the city all winter. As one of them put it this afternoon: "There never will be a time this winter when a person can have a full coal-cellar, and the householder that desires to purchase ten tons at one time will get not more than a single ton." This kind of prediction has been heard at intervals for the last month or two, and it may be sound. The average New Yorker does not seem to be depressed by it, however. So long as he can get enough coal for use at a reasonable figure—even if something higher than it used to be—he does not care whether it is scarce or not at the yards. Manufacturers, steamboat owners and others that use large quantities of coal may not be able to look at the situation so philosophically, and it is they that will use bituminous coal after next Saturday, if anyone does.

A Sensation Spoiled.

There was a sensational story going the rounds yesterday about a girl being found in a coal yard uptown on the West Side, badly bruised and unconscious. It was supposed that she had been downtown to see the election excitement and had been assaulted by footpads on her way home. Now it comes out that the "girl" is 40 years old and was taken suddenly sick on her way home late on election night. She was not assaulted, so far as she knows, and the police do not think she was. She added to her story, parenthetically, that she "had not been drinking." While all this spoils a dramatic narrative, it is comforting to know that at least one reported outrage in the streets of New York did not happen.

The Mysterious Girl in Red.

There is a "girl in red" at the Molineux trial every day who is attracting much attention. She does not appear to be concerned in the case as a witness or in any other way, but the police always save a seat for her in the front row of the crowded court room, and treat her with marked deference. No one seems to know who she is. She wears a red tailor-made suit, a red Norfolk jacket and a red hat, the whole set off with one of those white feather boas that are the rage this season. She is a blaze of color, and as she has a remarkably pretty face, it is no wonder the staid, middle-aged gentlemen of the jury look at her almost as often as at the witness that happens to be on the stand.

Molineux Trial Sensation Falls Flat.

The defense played a spectacular hand in the Molineux case this afternoon. It put on the stand Mrs. Anna Stephenson, who was prepared to swear that Molineux did not mail the poison package. She pointed at Harry Cornish, who was in court, and said he was the man. The sensation was much less than had been expected because Cornish took it so contemptuously, and the general opinion is that Mrs. Stephenson is mistaken. We shall know more about it tomorrow, probably, when Osborne gets a chance at the witness in cross-examination.

American Coal Back From France.

When the steamship Lady Mildred arrived from France at this port today she delivered 3,055 tons of coal. Of this, 2,000 tons was a portion of 10,000 tons of Schuylkill coal shipped from Philadelphia to Rouen some weeks ago. A New York concern bought the coal at Rouen and sent it back to New York on the Lady Mildred. Now, who will pay the freight, the New York concern aforesaid or the consumer?

Explosion May Affect the Fourth.

One result of the fireworks fatality in Madison square may be the cutting off of the license to use crackers, bombs and rockets for celebrations in New York on the Fourth of July hereafter. Mayor Low, in a letter to the board of aldermen today, accompanying an ordinance adopted by the board on the 21st of October in regard to the discharge of fireworks in the city, which he returned without his approval, suggested that the ordinance be amended so as to provide that fireworks permits shall be issued by the police commissioner under regulations framed by the explosives committee. He thought that no general exception should be made in the ordinance for Fourth of July celebrations. This means that the small boy—and the big man, too, for that matter—who has delighted in scaring horses and startling human beings on the Fourth in the streets of the city, will have to go to some open space where he can be patriotic without rendering himself liable to a charge of manslaughter.

An Off-Day for the Auto.

A frightened horse with a milk wagon and a badly bruised policeman who tried to stop the runaway, is the only disaster charged to the ubiquitous automobile in Manhattan today.

Lying Caused by Sluggish Blood.

Here is a new reading of boy nature: Dr. Winthrop T. Talbot, director of a boys' camp at Holderness, N. H., said today at the congress about boys in the United Charities building, that "Every moral obliquity in a boy rests upon some physical abnormality as a cause. Lying, for instance. If the boy's circulation is sluggish, he learns slowly, and, on that account, is called stupid. This makes it easy for him to lie. Lying becomes habitual, all because of poor blood circulation." The congress thought well enough of Dr. Talbot's theory to applaud it with a heartiness that indicated acceptance.

Fighting Car-Crowding by Resolution

Now the "rainy daysies" have taken up the evil of car-crowding. They held a meeting yesterday to talk over the matter and passed a resolution condemning it. Of course, this was very good, but it is about as far as anyone ever goes in opposition to the incessant "Move up forward," "Step lively, now," and other peremptory commands of conductors when cars are packed to suffocation.

Partridge Not an Easy Mark.

Another well-known policeman was dismissed from the force today. He was Sergt. Churchill, who was charged with neglect of duty and other serious police misdemeanors while acting as captain of what has become known as the "Red Light district." While it has been declared that the discipline of the police force has not always been rigorous enough, it is a fact that more policemen have been "broke," as they call it, since Commissioner Partridge has been in office, than happened for years previously in the same space of time. There is a growing feeling among policemen that Partridge is not so "easy" as they thought at first. Churchill has been under fire for many months.

Rives Prudish About Language.

Newspaper men and other professional writers are stricken with awe by the determination of Mr. Rives, corporation counsel of New York, to have documents submitted to him couched in terms of the purest English. Mr. Rives has written to that effect to Mr. Swanstrom, borough president of Brooklyn. Mr. Swanstrom's name indicates his Swedish origin, but he has been talking, writing and thinking in English all his life, and rather prides himself on his knowledge of the language. Mr. Rives seems to think otherwise. He has instructed the borough president as to the proper use of the words "that" and "said" in contracts, and warns him to beware of vagaries of the elusive verb. As Mr. Swanstrom is often called on to submit contracts to Mr. Rives for his approval, he feels that he must obey that gentleman's instructions, even if he has to swear softly in his private office while doing so.

Election Bets Paid.

There was a great paying up in Wall street today. Coler money to the tune of $20,000 was handed over to the men who had faith enough in Odell to wager their money at 2 to 1. The betting commissioners would not settle bets until assured that there was no dispute as to the election of Odell. No one ventured to question it today, and the winners have their cash.

Partridge Down on Soft Snaps.

Another soft snap in police duty was abolished today. It was the steamboat squad, consisting of men who patrolled the water front and kept their eyes peeled for wharf rats and other human vermin in the piers. Commissioners Partridge thought the men had too easy a time for their salaries, so the steamboat squad, as such, is no longer existent, although the men composing it will do the same duty, but as members of different precincts. The commissioner seems to have a particular dislike of "soft snaps" for his boys in blue, and the steamboat squad has been one of their dearest possessions for years.

Last of Indian Summer.

It is feared that New York is at the end of its Indian summer. Today has been foggy and damp, and the indications are that it will be much colder tomorrow. Weather-wise persons say that we shall have no more of the clear, balmy days that have been such a delight for weeks. The Indian summer this year has been simply glorious, but it must end at some time, and the appearance of fog and misty rain is taken as an indication that winter is almost upon us. Still, weather prognosticators are notoriously unreliable, and it may be that the amateur prophets are no more to be depended on than the official weather bureau.

Remodeling a Medical College.

One of the old landmarks of the East Side is about to disappear. The ancient medical college building at Bellevue hospital is to go down, except that its outside walls will not be touched. To thousands of physicians in the city and up the state, however, the interior of the old college is so familiar that the outside walls are of comparatively small importance. It may be that the edifice will look about the same to those that pass it, but the operating theater, the dissecting room, the laboratories and other departments of the college, where many a grave physician of the present day learned the alphabet of his profession, all will be demolished. The work of tearing out the interior will begin about the first of next week, bids having been opened today. The two upper floors will be dormitories for employes of the hospital, the second floor will be a lecture hall, and on the first will be a dispensary, as in the past, and the hospital's offices, which are now in the main building. When the place has been reconstructed it is believed it will compare favorably with anything of the kind in the east.

Germany at the World's Fair.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There is no longer any room for doubt about the inadequate representation of Germany at the St. Louis world's fair of 1904. The appointment of a commissioner to represent that country at the fair is about to be announced, and an appropriation of $500,000 is to be made to defray its expenses here. For a time there was some uncertainty about Germany's course in connection with the fair, but that has all ended. A great interest in the exposition is being shown by the members of the German government under whose jurisdiction matters of this sort come. All the recent reports from Germany in regard to the fair have been very encouraging.

Works Both Ways.

From the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Some of the Democratic papers in North Carolina are actually intimating that their party is going too far in attempting to exclude from the franchise the small minority of negroes who are entitled to vote under the present stringent suffrage laws. The Charlotte "Observer," for instance, points out that "it is only a step from cheating negroes to cheating white men." This is emphatically true. Southern politicians who habitually use fraud against colored citizens are not likely to be very scrupulous in respecting the rights of opposing voters of their own color.

Other Things to Think About.

From the Franklin News.

And now, dearly beloved, having exercised our prerogative, let us drop politics for the present and turn our thoughts toward Thanksgiving and Christmas.

PERSONALS.

S. Freudenberg, a California wine merchant, is at the Hotel Lincoln. In speaking of the wine trade in this country he said: "The unusually large crop of grapes in California this year has been a boon to the American winemakers. Although there have been larger quantities of grapes sold in all parts of the country this year than for many years, only about one-fourth of the California crop went to the market. The remainder will be used in making wine. The American export trade has increased considerably since the Spanish war. At that time the English market began patronizing us and since then we have secured the greater part of the English trade."

THE DEATH ROLL.

William Collingwood.

William Collingwood, one of Pittsburgh's old and widely known business men, passed away yesterday afternoon at his home, McClure avenue, Wilkinsburg. Mr. Collingwood had been ill for some time and because of his advanced age death was not unexpected. He was a son of Thomas Collingwood, who immigrated to this country from Ireland in 1812. The family settled in Somerset county and later moved to Pittsburgh. William Collingwood was born in the old Sixth ward and lived in and around Pittsburgh ever since. He was in his 91st year.

For the last 50 years Mr. Collingwood had been in the insurance business, the firm being

William Collingwood.

William Collingwood & Son. For a few years he had not been actively engaged, leaving his interests in the hands of his son, David F., who on Tuesday was elected county treasurer on the Citizens ticket. He was for many years chief o this Pittsburgh fire department and served several terms as school director in the Seventh ward. He several times declined to run for council. Mr. Collingwood was one of the founders of the Sixth Presbyterian and the Central Presbyterian churches. At the time of his death he was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg.

Mr. Collingwood was married four times, first, in 1845, to Miss Sarah White; second, to Miss Sarah A. Hall; third, to Miss Harriet Wilson; fourth, to Maria L., daughter of David A. Foulk. Five of his children are living: David F., the county treasurer-elect; Lewis W. of Wilkinsburg, a traveling agent; Robert J. and George A. of the Columbia bank and Mrs. W. W. Colton of Portland, Ore.

Prof. William J. White.

Prof. William J. White, secretary of Duff's college, died after a short illness from Bright's disease yesterday afternoon at his residence, No. 5601 Howe street, East End. He was one of the well known educators of Pittsburgh, having graduated at Duff's college in 1879, and immediately thereafter accepting the position of teacher of bookkeeping and penmanship, and later becoming secretary of the college. He was born in Wilkinsburg, November 10, 1855, and when 9 years old moved to Millport, Columbiana county, O., with his father, who was a railroad contractor. He was well known among business men of this city, many of whom were students and graduated under his instructions.

Prof. White was married in October, 1882, to Jennie B. Gamble, who, with two sons, George and Robert, and one daughter, Gladys, survive. He was a member of Trinity Protestant Episcopal church, and formerly a vestryman at St. James' Protestant Episcopal church. He was a member of Pittsburgh lodge No. 484, F. & A. M.

Mrs. Lorenzo B. Snyder.

Mrs. Mary C. Snyder, 54 years old, wife of Lorenzo B. Snyder, died yesterday afternoon at the family home, No. 800 Maryland avenue, East End. After funeral services at the home tomorrow the remains will be taken to Fhilmont, N. Y., for interment Sunday.

David Timmons.

David Timmons, 40 years old, a South Side ironworker, died yesterday morning at the family home, No. 13 South Thirtieth street. He was a native of England and came to the United States 17 years ago. He settled on the South Side and since had been employed continuously in the Oliver plant. His wife and six children survive.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. Bridget Keenan, widow of John Keenan, for 36 years superintendent of the Pittsburgh Gas Company, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. J. Morris, No. 408 Flowers avenue, Hazelwood. Five children survive.

Christian Craft, aged 70, was found dead at his home in East Liverpool, O., Wednesday evening. He was formerly proprietor of a cigar factory in Pittsburgh and removed to East Liverpool recently. He was born in Germany. A wife and three children survive him.

POSED AS GROVER BEFORE CROWDS

Since Then Prempert Has Not Dared to Appear in Several Carolina Towns.

R. L. Prempert is known, a gucst of the Raleigh, says the Washington Post. Mr. Prempert is the Louisville, Ky., man who does not dare to this day, to show his face in certain towns of North and South Carolina because of a trick he played upon the inhabitants some years ago. It all came of his startling resemblance to the Hon. Grover Cleveland, and happened shortly after that gentleman acquired the presidency.

"There had been a subtropical exposition going on down in Florida and the president had honored Jacksonville with his presence," said Mr. Prempert, in narrating the affair. "He had got as far back as Charleston on his way home and I left Columbia the same morning for Washington. I was of about Grover's avoirdupois, and most people liked to jolly me by saying I was enough like him for a twin brother. On the train with me was a fellow drummer in whom the spirit of fun was dominant, and he didn't do a thing but telegraph ahead to all the towns along the line of what is now the Southern railroad that the president was due on the next express and short stops would be made, so that the people could pay their respects. He signed to these wires the name of Dan Lamont.

"It was a ridiculous thing to do, but the fake worked to perfection. Big crowds were waiting as we pulled in at the various stations, and I had to show myself on the rear platform and make a few remarks to the enthusiastic and wildly cheering natives. I am no orator, but I got along fairly well at such places as Chester, Winnsboro and Rock Hill, and our car was laden to the roof with the bouquets offered to Mr. Cleveland by sweet southern maidens.

"At only one place was I stumped, and that was at Pineville, N. C., and I think it was a put up job of the conductor in holding the train there 20 minutes, when my oratory was strictly on a five-minute basis. At the end of my limit I didn't know what else to say. My set speech only covered about two topics, and I had to close rather awkwardly. However, the local band took up the rest of the time in playing 'Hail to the Chief,' and that seemed to satisfy the crowds. This was my first and last appearance as a spellbinder."

BELATED OBSEQUIES.

The funeral sermon of a man who had been dead 50 years was preached a few days ago at Bloomington, Macon county, Mo., by the Rev. W. R. Skinner, a Methodist minister, who was an infant when the man about whom he preached died. Mrs. Ludson G. Patrick, aged 75, died last week. Fifty years ago her husband died, aged 27 years. Mrs. Patrick wished that their funerals should be held at the same time, and she refused to let that of her husband take place until her body was ready to be placed beside his, in consequence. "Mr. Patrick's bones," as the Macon Republican says, "crumbled into dust long before the usual rites were performed to his memory."

Many historical incidents happened at Bloomington between the time of Mr. Patrick's death and his obseques. When he died Bloomington was the county capital. The seat of government was transferred to Macon in the civil war, and the town of Bloomington is now only a memory.

FAME MADE TO ORDER.

The making of reputations as huntsmen for those who visit the Maine woods has become an industry, says the Boston Transcript. A couple of young men near Greenville, in that state, have built a camp supplied with three different entrances and an assortment of camp-name signs for backgrounds, and equipped in every way to make hunting scenes at short notice. Customers are dressed in worn hunting clothes, surrounded with such loungers as are at hand, dressed as guides, and photographed as seated amid the slaughter they have wrought. Game of all kinds, either embalmed or stuffed with hay, is kept ready; or, if preferred, strings of wooden fish are brought out to furnish pictured proof of skill. This method of attaining fame as a Nimrod is safe, and perhaps as good as the method which kills the wild peoples of the forest. Hunting with the camera has been a success, and a camera as a substitute for hunting is likely to become popular.

AN ABSENT-MINDED MAN.

"I would give a great deal if I was not absentminded," said R. J. Thompson of Toledo, O., to a Washington Star reporter at the Raleigh. "I have tried all the so-called cures without success and I suppose I must make the best of the situation, although it is awfully aggravating to have such a poor memory. The other day I read of a man who from his account often was placed in the same embarrassing position that I find myself in so many times through a poor memory. In his case he solved the difficulty by writing himself a postal card, thus jogging his memory.

"It struck me as being a mighty good idea and I resolved to try it myself. It happened that I had an important engagement to keep the day following, so I wrote a postal card, 'Don't forget engagement with blank.' Then I addressed it to myself. The next day passed and I failed to keep the appointment. I had forgotten to mail the postal card."

WILL REQUIRE OFFICIAL COUNT

Graham and Shiras Are Still Claiming a Seat in the Next Congress.

GIVE OUT THEIR FIGURES

L. B. Cook and Benjamin Anderson Win in the Third Legislative District and Samuel Bailey in the Eighth.

William H. Graham and George Shiras Jr. both claim election to congress from the Twenty-ninth district. The majority either way will not exceed 100 and the exact figures will not be known until the returning board has made the official count. The work of counting the returns began, but progressed very slowly, yesterday, and it is the opinion of the board that the result in the Allegheny congressional district cannot be known until next Monday or Tuesday.

Yesterday Graham claimed his election by a majority of 150. Earlier in the day he asserted that he had won, with 200 votes to spare; but when he named the reduced figures he did it, his friends say, on unimpeachable figures from original sources. On Wednesday, it is said, Mr. Graham sent men to every polling place in his district, and these men took figures from the notices posted outside the polling places.

These are the figures Graham claims are correct: Allegheny, Graham 8,901, Shiras 9,789, Shiras' majority 888; country districts, Graham 5,824, Shiras 4,707; total vote, Graham 14,725, Shiras 14,596; Graham's majority 139.

The Claim of Mr. Shiras.

Mr. Shiras' figures were obtained from the prothonotary's office. This is the result as given out yesterday from the Citizens' party headquarters and Mr. Shiras' office: Allegheny, Shiras 9,922, Graham 8,867; country districts, Shiras 4,446, Graham 5,532; total, Shiras 14,470, Graham 14,399; Shiras' majority 80.

It will be noted that Graham places the total number of votes cast in the district 435 higher than Shiras.

The Allegheny county returning board met at noon yesterday and organized. Judge McClung and Judge Rodgers are the heads of the board. The clerks are J. B. Hamilton, Alexander Lindsey, L. M. Fagan, D. L. Warden, H. P. McCullough, C. L. Maguire, H. A. Hutchinson, Frederick Schriver, William LeGoullon, John N. Radcliffe, Alfred Kerr, Ernest E. Jones and Richard Sheridan.

The count began immediately and Pittsburgh was taken up first, beginning with the first district of the First ward. On the county, senatorial and congressional tickets, it was well known, the board could secure no results for some time; but as the Third and Fourth legislative districts are contained in the first 25 wards of the city, the candidates from those districts were interested, especially in the Third, where it was expected the result might favor one Citizens candidate and one organization candidate. This was the result in the Fourth district: W. J. Ryan, Democratic-Citizens, 1,946; E. G. Schwartzwaelder, 1,552; scattering, 7; Ryan's majority, 387.

Cook and Anderson Win.

In the Third district the result was: Adolf Edis, Republican, 4,952; L. B. Cook, Republican, 5,436; John Whitney, Democrat, 1,797; S. L. Mawhinney, Citizens, 3,976; B. F. Anderson, Citizens, 5,333. This elects Cook, Republican, and Anderson, Citizens. The Democrats of the district had indorsed only one of the Citizens candidates, Anderson, and that is why he ran far ahead of Mawhinney.

The returning board finished the count of the Thirteenth ward and adjourned until today. The returns were deposited in the big safe in the prothonotary's office. They were under guard all night, as they had been the night before. George C. Mercer, the custodian of the court house, had asked Judges McClung and Rodgers whether he should continue the guard, and was told that he might as well guard the returns nightly until the count was completed. The Citizens are represented by J. F. Clinton.

Barchfeld Concedes Defeat.

Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, the organization candidate for congress in the Thirty-second congressional district, yesterday admitted that he had been defeated by James W. Brown, Citizens nominee. The majority for Brown may reach 2,000.

It appears to be settled that John P. Moore and Robert McWhinney, organization candidates for assemblymen in the Sixth district, have been elected. The Citizens say there is a possibility of U. M. Beck securing one of the two seats. In the Eighth district Samuel J. Bailey, the Citizens candidate for assemblyman, claims that he has been elected by a majority of 150. Harry M. Scott, nominee of the organization, has not kept score, but is hopeful that the official vote will produce a majority for him.

The indications are that J. Carson Mercer will be the third member of the board of county commissioners. It is figured that he will run about 200 votes ahead of W. W. Murray.

LAURA BIGGAR FREE.

Newark Lawyer Finds Two Bondsmen for Her—She Must Appear in Court November 14.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Laura Biggar was released on bail by Judge Heisley this afternoon after a stay in jail here of two days. Charles Hood, a Newark lawyer, came here this morning, accompanied by Emanuel Hayman and S. Kligus, also of Newark, whom he offered as sureties for the former actress. Prosecutor Foster, after consultation with Mr. Hood and Judge Heisley, expressed himself as satisfied with the sureties. Miss Biggar was required to reappear before the court November 24, to answer to any indictment that may be found against her. Miss Biggar appeared to be in good spirits, and chatted with her bondsmen. She still insists she was married to Mr. Bennett and thirt she will be able to purge herself of the alleged conspiracy charge against her.

Upon her release today she left for New York. In explanation of her action in surrendering herself, it was stated this afternoon that she desired to attest her loyalty to Dr. Hendricks. The trial of the conspiracy charge probably will be fixed for a day early in December.

It is believed here that the executors of the Bennett will will contest Miss Biggar's right to receive her legacy in case she should be convicted upon the alleged conspiracy charge.

Alcoholism Kills a 16-Year-Old Boy.

ERIE, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—At the coroner's inquest this evening physicians testified that the death of 16-year-old Grover Rice was due to acute alcoholism. The boy was found dead in the front hallway of his home this morning and suspicion of foul play attached to two young men who were his companions last evening. The jury's verdict clears them. The boy had been an excessive drinker and a quantity of alcohol, only slightly diluted, was found in his stomach at the autopsy.

UNLIKELY TO CONTEST ELECTION OF ODELL

At Any Rate, New York Democrats Will Wait for the Official Canvass.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

Frank Campbell, chairman of the Democratic state committee, before leaving for his home today, talked with David B. Hill over the long-distance telephone and had a consultation with Mr. Coler. Then Mr. Campbell issued a statement defining the Democratic attitude, in the course of which he says:

"After having carefully examined the returns gathered by John A. Mason, secretary of the Democratic state committee, as filed in the several county clerks' offices in the different counties, it appears on the face of the returns that Mr. Odell has a plurality of 9,122. These figures do not include in some of the counties the vote cast by the Greater New York Democratic ticket, which has on it the name of Bird S. Coler for governor. This will materially reduce this apparent plurality.

"We claim the election, by safe majority, of John Cunneen as attorney general, and the re-election of John Clinton Gray as judge of the court of appeals.

"We have reliable information of thousands of defective ballots having been cast, and in certain districts where the returns were strongly Republican the ballots were burned by the inspectors immediately after they were counted, which is in direct violation of law, as they should be kept six months by the proper officials before they were destroyed. These facts and all others will be thoroughly investigated."

John A. Mason, chairman of the Democratic state committee, said the Democrats are making no claims and that they wanted only what they believed they were entitled to under the law. Mr. Coler said tonight the Democratic state committee is in full charge of the situation and that he has no idea of contesting anything.

Revised returns today give Gov. Odell a plurality of 11,508.

JOSELYN WARRIOR NOW PEACEMAKER

New York Indians in Line With Country in Republican Column.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Tuesday was an important day on the Cattaragus and Allegheny reservations in Western New York, the Indians holding their election. They used the blanket ballot. The Alleghany Indians voted at the council house in Cold Springs, while the Cattaragus Indians voted at the council house in Versailles. A bitter contest was on between the Democratic and Republican factions of the tribes. Elijah Turkey was the Democratic candidate for president, while Frank Paterson, Republican, was a candidate for re-election.

The election resulted in a triumph for the Republican ticket. On both reservations 600 votes were cast. Paterson was a winner by 40 majority. Eli T. Jimison was elected clerk and William Hoag treasurer. Republican councilors, surrogates, peacemakers, poor masters, chief marshal and police marshals were elected, although by narrow margins.

Feeling ran high over the election, but there was no disorder of any kind. The Indians are leisurely and require at least 10 days to canvass the vote.

Among the candidates were found the names of Seneca Purse, Philo Nephew, Salon Grouse, Philip Fatty, Willie Abram, Lew Twogans, Quilter Jimerson, Solomon Maybe, Jim Crow, Jacob Halftown, Joselyn Warrior (a candidate for peacemaker), Casper Twogans, Sydney Kenjockerty, Lewis Longfinger, Frank Tallchief, Bally Parker, Delos Kettle and other names of tribal significance.

MILLWORKER SHOT HIMSELF.

Attempt to End His Life May Prove Successful.

George Baker, a mill worker, attempted suicide at the home of Mrs. Albert Heiss, No. 3221 Cobden street, last night, by shooting himself. He boarded with Mrs. Heiss. At a late hour last night Baker was in a serious condition and it was thought he could not recover. It was stated that he had been drinking heavily of late.

When he returned home last evening he went directly to his room and shortly afterward the other inmates of the house heard the report of a revolver. When they entered the room they found Baker lying on the floor with a small 22-caliber revolver in his hand and a wound near the right eye. Dr. J. F. Cochran was called, but he made no effort to extract the bullet. Baker is 43 years old and unmarried.

LIGHT WORK FOR COLLEGE TEAMS

Yale and Harvard Players Are Taking Things Easy.

PENNSY HAS HOPES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 6.—Yale's 'varsity football players were given only a light lineup this afternoon, in spite of the fact that the team had a day's layoff yesterday. The halves were about 15 minutes long, the first secret.

The scrubs made matters lively for the regulars in the open practice, Bronson catching a punt and running back 50 yards before he was downed. The scrubs rushed the ball to the 'varsity 35-yard line before they were held. The regulars then made a touchdown without losing the ball. This was the only scoring of the day.

Kinney did not line up today. His knee is still lame, and he may not play Saturday. Blasell of the Freshman team last year, is being tried in his place. Holt, Glass, Goss and Capt. Chadwick were given little work today, not lining up in the open practice. The Freshmen today elected J. W. Leavenworth of Wallingford, Conn., their permanent captain. They leave tomorrow to meet Princeton, 1906, on Saturday.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Pennsylvania's football squad is here. The squad is one of the lightest if not the lightest that a "Big Five" 'varsity ever set forth upon the gridiron. So Dr. Williams, head coach and ex-captain, stated. "A victory we think out of the question," said he; "but we do look to see our men play hard football to the end of the game. With that we shall be content, whether the score is 6 to 0, 12 to 0 or 20 to 0. This is Pennsy's spirit for her game with Harvard."

This afternoon the players put on their suits and ran through their plays and practiced punting and catching on the golf links behind the hotel. This program will be repeated tomorrow, and there will also be light work in the morning. No burning excitement marks the evening of the Pennsy game, but the crimson shows no disposition, notwithstanding Pennsy's uniformidableness—so to speak—to look haughtily down upon her old rival. The Harvard team put in a couple of hours of quiet practice without attempting anything startling. The main idea is to have the team in good general condition.

CHAMPION BYERS AGAIN MEETS DEFEAT

J. E. Porter Won by 2 Up and 1 to Play, in Competition for President's Cup.

The feature of the first round of match play on the Allegheny Country club course, yesterday, for the President's cup, was the defeat of E. M. Byers, the local amateur golf champion, by a score of 2 up and 1 to play. J. E. Porter was the victor. Byers is suffering a severe slump in his game, having experienced three defeats in his last four matches. Porter and Byers have met many times and this is Porter's first victory.

In the other matches B. S. Horne defeated J. C. Thaw, 1 up in 19 holes; Walter Thayer defeated John Moorhead, Jr., 5 up and 3 to play, and O. D. Thompson defeated J. C. Oliver by 4 up and 3 to play. Today Horne plays Thayer, and Porter meets Thompson.

In the fourth and final contest for the women's cup on the Edgewood course, Miss Flenniken reached a total of eight points, while Miss Catherine McCook won second place and has seven points to her credit. There is an uncertainty as to the rules under which the cup was played for, and the donor of the trophy will settle who owns it. The scores in the last contest were:

	Gros.	H'cap.	Net.
Miss Rose Flenniken	49	7	42
Miss Catherine McCook	50	4	46
Miss Ida Blaxter	51	4	47
Miss McCook	52	4	48

THE WASH-JEFF TEAM STARTS FOR ITHACA

The Eleven Is in Very Poor Shape and There Is Little Enthusiasm.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 6.—With only one day's practice after a rest of a week, the Washington and Jefferson football team left this afternoon for Ithaca, where they will meet the Cornell eleven Saturday afternoon. There is not much enthusiasm here over the game.

Capt. Hayes' knee was dislocated again in practice, but he is able to play, although how long he will last is another matter. The line-up will not be known until Saturday afternoon, and the coach and captain refused to say what men would go into the game. It is certain, however, that the backfield will be McDonough, quarter; Welty and Longwell, halfbacks, and Murphy fullback. The ends will likely be Sutter and McDevitt, and Hayes and Heimberger will go in at tackle. Loucks will play center and McCleary will be one of the guards, but who the other guard will be is not known.

It is rumored that Sherrard, who has been playing at halfback, may fill the place, but the fans have not much confidence in him. There will be many substitutes on hand, but none of them is of a very high order. If the team saves its reputation the fans will be satisfied.

STANDS LITTLE CHANCE.

Pittsburgh Not Likely to Break Into American League Circuit.

That there is but little chance of the American league locating a club in this city in opposition to the National League pennant winners is shown by the fact that Ban Johnson absolutely refuses to pay any attention to this city or its claims for negotiations. The people who are back of the local movement have been patiently awaiting for word one way or the other from Mike Kelley of the American league, but so far not a word has been received.

It has generally been conceded even by the local people that the only way they could get in would be by a transfer of the Detroit franchise to this city, but that plan has been knocked in the head by the owners of that franchise, who have forced a showing of hands with the result that Detroit is to remain in the American league circuit for another year at least. There was some talk of a ten club circuit for the American, but that, too, has been side tracked for the present at least.

Early in the week a conference of American powers was held in Detroit, where President Johnson hurried to see Fred Postal and F. A. Angus. Bob Hedges ran up from Cincinnati and joined the party. After adjournment it was said that Detroit was given positive assurance that the City of Straits would not be put on the dumping train, and that Pittsburgh has no chance to break into the American circuit.

WAR WILL GO ON.

Peace Committee Fails to Create Harmony in Southern League.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Nov. 6.—After a meeting tonight between the "peace committee" of the Southern League of Baseball clubs and the owners of the Memphis club, it was announced that all efforts to settle the differences between the two factions had failed. Manager Frank of the Memphis club says the new Southern league, as planned, will be formed at once. Among those mentioned for the presidency are President Buckley of the Western association and R. L. C. White of Nashville.

GILMAN FIGHT ENDS.

Business to Be Carried on as Corporation With Stock Held by His Relatives.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Notice of an agreement between the "half-blood" and "full-blood" heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died at Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be long continued, was filed today in the supreme court of Brooklyn.

Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation, to be organized in New Jersey, with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate.

They, in turn, are to divide four-fifths among the "full-blood" relatives, and one-fifth, or $250,000, among the "half-blood" relatives.

Echo of Missionary Convention.

An "echo meeting" of the recent missionary convention in Cleveland was held in the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, last night. The Rev. William Wallace Youngson, pastor of the Crafton Methodist Episcopal church and president of the Pittsburgh conference Epworth league, presided and made an address. He was a delegate to the recent convention, and told of the proceedings there. The Rev. E. L. Eaton, pastor of the North Avenue church, also made an address. As an outcome of this meeting a determined effort will be made to increase the fund of $200,000, contributed at Cleveland, to $800,000. It is expected that this money will be raised in Pittsburgh.

Canadian Official Arrested.

TORONTO, ONT., Nov. 6.—Alfred McDougall, until recently solicitor to the provincial treasury department, was arrested today on two specific charges of theft of $6,500 from the Ontario government, though it is stated that his accounts are short $35,000.

STARS START EAST TO MEET MACK'S TEAM

McCutcheon and Donohue Were Released and Mathewson Will Be Let Out.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 6.—A big crowd of admirers were at the local passenger station tonight to give a rousing send-off to the Pittsburgh football players on their departure for Philadelphia, where they meet Connie Mack's Athletics on Saturday. The squad was two men short, Donohue and McCutcheon having been released today by Manager Berry.

McCutcheon was signed early in the season upon the understanding that he was to be retained until Geiger joined the squad. Geiger held out for bigger salary than Berry was willing to pay, and it was only on Monday that he accepted the terms of the manager. McCutcheon has done excellent work for the stars, and but for his having been signed provisionally would have been retained. He has trained conscientiously and has been a tower of strength in the line, whose "ginger" was noticeable in every game played.

The signing of Ellis has given Coach Richardson two complete sets of backs, and Miller has been replaced at end to replace Donohue. It is probable that Mathewson will not return from Philadelphia with the squad. He was a high salaried man and Ellis can well fill the vacancy left in the back field. It is understood that he has offers from both the Philadelphia elevens and he may be found lined up against his old team mates before the season is over.

The practice today was fast. An hour was spent in basketball, Barney's team winning by one goal. The new system of training is having its good effects, for at the end of the hour's work it was found that excellent wind and endurance had been developed. Another hour was spent in signal practice and formations, and the day's work was brought to an end by the entire squad running up the big hill to the training quarters.

Tomorrow afternoon the eleven will practice at Franklin field. It is possible that they will line up against a scrub team of the University of Pennsylvania for a shorter practice. At night they will be guests of Nixon & Zimmerman at the Chestnut Street theater to see Louis Mann and Clara Lipman in "The Telephone Girl." A score of Greensburgers accompanied the team to the Quaker City.

New Tenni's First Game.

The newly organized Cottage-Verner team will play its first game Saturday at Friendship park with the Primrose A. C. of Allegheny. Primrose has made a good record this season, having met and defeated some of the strongest teams in this vicinity. The boys are putting in most of their evenings this week practicing, and the game promises to be an interesting one. Coach Hill, who had a tempting offer to sign with Pittsburgh has decided to finish the season with the Cottage-Verners, and requests all players to report promptly at 7:30 this evening for practice.

Jockey Was Badly Injured.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—Jockey George Pieratt got a bad fall in the third race at Latonia today. Pieratt, who was on Lady Meddlesome, the odds-on favorite, tried to get through the bunch at the clubhouse turn and was thrown over the rail. He was picked up unconscious and sent to the hospital. His injuries are not thought to be fatal.

POLITICAL AX SWINGS AGAIN

Nine Men Discharged for Maintaining Independence Tuesday.

RECORDER WAS SPOTTER

From Position in Watch Tower He Has Picked Out Many Victims for the Future—Strengthening Lines for February Fight

The result of Recorder Brown's observation in the "watch tower" on Tuesday is becoming apparent. Because they refused to do the work the machine thought necessary on election day, three firemen and six policemen were yesterday dismissed. No charge was made against their record. It was freely admitted, indeed, at the Public Safety building that they had been efficient and able employes. Their discharge was due entirely to politics. They were suspected of luke-warmness toward the ring ticket. They refused to intimidate voters, interfere with and arrest citizens and work at the polls.

Some of them even went so far as to vote the Citizens ticket. Director Leslie has said that he will stand for no "unfaithfulness," and Recorder Brown spent Tuesday at police headquarters, spotting men who did not seem to be energetic enough in behalf of the machine. These nine men are the first to suffer, but many more heads are to fall in order that the city ring may have compact lines of pay roll men for February.

The dismissed firemen are:

J. E. Haffner, driver at No. 5 engine company.

William Burch, driver at No. 8 engine company.

John McGilligan, driver at No. 2 engine company.

Policemen dismissed:

John F. Sparber, night sergeant, No. 8 station.

Michael McGinley, wagonman at No. 4 station.

Peter Gans, patrolman, No. 6 station.

Edward Woods, patrolman, No. 5 station.

Edward Carney, sub, No. 8 station.

George Ryan, sub, Central station.

Director Leslie said it had been proved that these men had not been faithful to the regular Republican machine.

Chief Humphrey's notified the firemen of their dismissal and Police Superintendent McAleese informed the policemen. He sent word to the men to meet him at the Central station in uniform. Upon their arrival, keys and badges were demanded and turned over.

WILL MAKE CHARGES AGAINST SUPT. DEMMEL

Discharged Detectives May Spring Sensation at Hearing Before Recorder J. O. Brown.

A partial victory has been won by the six city detectives who were discharged on Sunday. Recorder Brown has promised them a hearing on Saturday morning, when they may show cause why they should not have been discharged. The detectives say Supt. Demmel is unfit to serve in his present capacity, and will try to prove this to the recorder.

The discharged officers yesterday reported for duty. Supt. Demmel paid no attention to them. They will continue to do this until after the hearing, so that they will be paid for their services if Recorder Brown sustains their case.

The detectives appointed by Demmel to fill the vacancies, were on duty yesterday. They were sworn into office by Director Leslie. Supt. Demmel detailed them to partners as follows: William Elmore and Charles Aymer, George H. Wagoner and James Delehanty, John Roach and Edward Kennelly, Richard Kelly and William A. Reilly, Albert H. Steinehart and Harry Merritt, Edward Barry and Frank Milholland, James W. Eagan and George W. Cole. Roach and Kennelly are in the office during the day and Detectives Steinehart and Merritt are on night duty.

SHOT WIFE IN ANGER.

John Jackson Tells Court That He Found Her in Another Man's Arms.

John Jackson, colored, yesterday, before Judge Stowe, pleaded guilty to manslaughter after the testimony was completed in his trial for the killing of his wife, Sarah Mud Jackson, which occurred at his home in Soho street, September 6.

Jackson was a health officer and was watching a quarantined house. According to his own testimony, he returned home about 10 o'clock and found his wife and Alexander Maxwell, also colored, together. When he entered the house, Jackson said, he was overcome by passion as he saw the couple separate and Maxwell attempt to escape. He drew his revolver and fired twice at Maxwell, for he wanted to kill him. Maxwell received one of the bullets and the wife the other.

Two weeks before the shooting, the prisoner testified, he and his wife had signed papers for a separation, but after living apart for a week they were reconciled and lived together again until she was killed. Jackson will be sentenced on Saturday.

Character witnesses, called after his plea had been made, gave him an excellent reputation for peace and good behavior.

Before Judge Keller, Thomas McDonald and Jack Camp were convicted of having participated in the breaking of a large plate glass window in Hecrel Bros.' store, Penn avenue, September 10, with intent to commit a felony.

RATES UNREASONABLE

Bird Admits It, But Says They Are Unreasonably Low—Commission Investigating Freight Charges.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road, took a bold stand before the interstate commerce commission today, when that body began an investigation into rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates, he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised, and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

Ocean Steamers Collide.

HAMBURG, Nov. 6.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Graf Waldersee, outwardbound for New York, was in collision today with the Spanish steamer Bayboa, also outward bound. The Graf Waldersee was not reported damaged, but the Bayboa returned badly damaged.

Eight Men Drowned by Storm.

SEATTLE, WASH., Nov. 6.—Eight men were drowned, three vessels driven ashore and every lighter on the Nome beach wrecked, in a storm on October 1. The facts are supplied by Purser Robertson of the Ohio, which arrived today. A dozen or more people thrown into the surf were rescued by the life saving crew.

SEVEN INJURED IN TROLLEY ACCIDENTS

Two Wagons Struck by Cars Going at Full Speed—Occupants Thrown Out.

Car No. 2003, of the Mt. Oliver line, got beyond the control of Motorman William Connelly, yesterday morning, as it was descending the grade at South Eighteenth street, and collided with a truck wagon. Four persons were injured, as follows: Miss Mary Ostermaier, Castle Shannon, thrown from the wagon and injured about the head and back; Miss Mollie Ostermaier, her sister, struck and knocked down by wreckage from the wagon, receiving injuries about face and head; Miss Ethel Lehner, Knoxville, cut about head and body by glass from the car; Antonio Andrews, passenger in car, cut by flying glass.

The truck wagon, owned by George Ostermaier, was in charge of his daughters, Mary and Mollie. At a sharp curve in the road the car ran directly into the front of the wagon. One of the horses was killed and the other badly injured.

Car No. 847, of the Woods Run line, ran into a two-horse wagon at the corner of Island avenue on Wednesday night. The wagon was struck fairly and three men on it thrown off. The fog and darkness of the night caused the accident.

The skull of Harry Moss, the driver, was fractured. He was taken to his home in East End and subsequently removed to the Allegheny General hospital. George Gamble was thrown against a telegraph pole and two ribs were broken. John Magee, the other occupant of the wagon, escaped with slight injuries.

BARBERS' LICENSE BILL IS PREPARED

Provides That They Pass Examination Before Practicing—Penalty for Violation.

A bill for the betterment of barbers has been prepared and will be introduced in the next legislature. The bill was prepared by John Reusher, Edward J. Hare, Charles T. Vogell, H. J. Carey and C. F. Bertram, union barbers.

The bill provides a board of examiners to consist of five barbers, for the purpose of enforcing the act. Before July 1, 1903, the governor of the state is to appoint two master barbers and three journeymen barbers to serve for a term of years.

According to the provisions of the act anyone practicing the occupation of barber without having obtained a certificate of registration or violating any provisions of the act will be guilty of a misdemeanor and will be liable to a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100, in default of which he may be committed to jail for from 10 to 90 days.

EXCITEMENT IN ESPLEN.

Election of Chief of the Fire Department Stirred Up the Community.

The selection of a chief for the borough fire department created more excitement yesterday, in Esplen, than Tuesday's election. There were three candidates, William H. Nicholson, Edward T. Booser and W. P. Bailey. During the day at least one serious row occurred. Nicholson seemed to be in the lead, and it is alleged that Joseph Scott circulated a petition to try and defeat him. The men met on the street and Nicholson slapped Scott in the face after some rather warm talk. Friends separated them before any more blows were struck.

At the meeting of the borough council last night the petition was not presented and Nicholson was elected, having four votes, while Booser received two and Bailey one. The new chief has been a member of the department since its organization.

ONE BATTLE DURING THE YEAR.

Gen. Miles Tells of the Fight With the Moros and of Army Athletics.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—"During the year there have been no serious engagements, except that of the troops under Gen. Frank D. Baldwin, in Mindanao, P. I., with the Moros," says Gen. Miles in his annual report. "For the number of men engaged this was a very spirited and desperate engagement. Our forces were commanded by one of the most experienced and efficient officers of the army, and his achievement, together with that of the troops, in this engagement, made another chapter of fortitude, tenacity and heroic sacrifice in the history of American arms.

"The attention given to calisthenics and gymnastic and military exercises made our small army a corps of athletes, while the elementary schools established for enlisted men, the post libraries, the post lyceums and officers' schools, the various schools of instruction and practice for officers, as well as the military academy, produced an army of such excellence that I was able in my annual report for 1898 to state: 'The personnel of the army was never in better condition.'"

CLEVELAND OIL MERGER.

Plans Informally Discussed at a Meeting of Company Representatives.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The first meeting looking toward the consolidation of the independent oil companies of Cleveland was held last evening, when representatives of the 15 local companies talked over in an informal manner the proposed merger.

The sentiment at the meeting was favorable to the plan, and the secretary of the meeting was instructed to invite the presidents and secretaries of the local companies to investigate the proposed combination and formulate a definite plan of action.

Caught Under Falling Iron.

James Ferguson of Pitcairn, employed by the McClintic-Marshall Construction Company, at the erection of the new Westinghouse foundry at Trafford City, was perhaps fatally injured yesterday afternoon by a bundle of heavy sheet iron falling on him from the roof of the new building. His right leg was broken and he sustained many cuts and bruises about the head and body. He was taken to Mercy hospital.

Threatened to Boil Children.

Mrs. Anna A. Hayden, colored, of Kirkpatrick street, is held at Central police station until an examination can be made into her sanity. It is alleged she threatened to boil her children.

MUST OPERATE ON HEAD AGAIN

Victim of Dr. Duncan's Bullet Eats and Talks Only With Pain.

WILL BE TAKEN EAST

As Operation Is One of the Most Delicate in Surgery, Patient Will Go to Noted Hospital. Trying to Forget the Shooting.

Bruce Head, the victim of Dr. Ellis Duncan's bullet, will have to undergo an operation. The bullet in Head's neck was extracted over a week ago, and now the attending physicians find that Head must be operated on in order that he may eat and talk.

The operation to be performed is one of the most delicate in surgery, and it is stated that Head will, in all probability, be taken to a New York or Philadelphia hospital. His tongue, which was almost cut in twain by Duncan's bullet, is healing rapidly, but the patient is able to take but little food. It is with difficulty that he is able to get even liquid food past the wound on his tongue. He is still very weak and will probably be allowed to get up for the first time, next Sunday. Head talks but little and complains of pain in speaking.

It may not be possible to perform this second operation for some time. Dr. Walker hopes to be able to have his patient up the latter part of next week, and he may be in a position to be removed from camp the week following.

Seldom does Head refer to the shooting. He often talks now with Mr. Carter and Dr. Walker, but seems to be trying to forget the night he was shot.

SAYS CORNISH MAILED PACKAGE TO HIMSELF

Policeman's Wife Identifies Him as Man She Saw in General Postoffice.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The greatest sensation in the second trial of Molineux came late today, when Mrs. Hannah Stephenson, wife of a Brooklyn policeman, testified positively that Molineux was not the man who mailed the poison package at the general postoffice on the evening of December 28, 1898.

The witness partially identified Harry Cornish, who was asked to stand up in court, as the man whom she saw standing in front of her in the line at the postoffice, holding in his hand a package addressed to "Mr. Harry Cornish, Knickerbocker." That was all she saw.

Her identification of Cornish was not positive. She said he looked very much like the man.

The prosecution, on cross-examination, brought out the fact that Mrs. Stephenson had suffered from attacks of nervous prostration within two years and had carefully read the details of the former trial.

Other witnesses were handwriting experts who all testified that Molineux did not write the address on the poison package. A clerk in a drug store testified that he had sold bromo seltzer to Cornish, also to Mrs. Rogers. Miss Miller testified that she sold the bottle holder late in the evening. The prosecution has held that the holder was purchased early in the afternoon. Miss Miller positively swore that the man who bought the holder was not Molineux.

GAS TURNED ON.

Fate of Charles O. Zeigenfuss, Newspaper Man Known All Over United States.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Charles O. Zeigenfuss, a well-known newspaper man, was found dead today in his room in a downtown hotel. An open gas jet, which it is believed was left open intentionally, disclosed the manner of his death.

Zeigenfuss had worked on the principal newspapers of this country, from New York to San Francisco, and his field of labor carried him also to Manila, where he edited a paper.

A few years ago he managed the editorial department of a Honolulu daily.

MONUMENT TO "MAD ANTHONY."

Memorial in Honor of Revolutionary Hero Unveiled at Erie.

ERIE, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—A memorial monument to Gen. Anthony Wayne, erected at Central park by the Presque Isle Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was unveiled today. Mrs. M. B. Morrison, regent of the local chapter, made a short address, presenting the monument to the city, and it was accepted by Mayor William Hardwick.

An historic address was delivered by J. F. Downing and a chorus of high school students assisted in the ceremonies. The monument is a large granite boulder, surmounted by two large brass cannons. Gen. Wayne died in Erie, December 15, 1796.

DISTRICT ELECTS UNIONIST.

Liverpool Division Sends a Government Candidate to Parliament.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The election in the East Toxteth division of Liverpool, for a member of parliament in succession to Augustus F. Warr, Conservative, who has resigned the parliamentary representation of the division, resulted in the election of Austin Taylor, Unionist, with a majority of 367 over Herbert R. Rathbone, the Liberal candidate.

The East Toxteth division of Liverpool has given Conservative majorities, or elected Conservative candidates without opposition since 1885.

FINANCED TRIP TO GET RICH WIFE

Syndicate Aided Baron Muenchausen in Unsuccessful Matrimonial Venture.

EX-CONVICT IN SCHEME

Scion of Famous German Family Signed Paper for Several Hundred Thousand Dollars and Afterward Prosecuted Creditors.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The relations of Baron Burchard Von Muenchhausen with the so-called "marriage syndicate," which financed his journey to the United States in 1898 to obtain a rich wife, have been made public through a prosecution for blackmail brought by the baron against Herman Pincus, Moritz Mendelsohn and Adolf Mendelsohn, three tradesmen who were members of the syndicate. The trial has just come to its close.

Baron Von Muenchhausen is a member of a famous German family, which dates from 1587. The testimony showed that an ex-convict named Fissler, living in Stuttgart, telegraphed to Frau Von Quitzow, a noblewoman, residing in Berlin, who undertakes to obtain wealthy wives for army officers, saying that if she had a titled officer on active service for an American fortune of $7,500,000 to let him know.

Fortune for a Title.

Frau Von Quitzow put Fissler in communication with Baron Von Muenchhausen, who is a lieutenant in the Prussian artillery. The baron, according to statements made in court, agreed to give Fissler 5 per cent of the money of the heiress he was to wed in the event of the marriage taking place and he signed conditional bills for $375,000.

On these bills Fissler raised money in Berlin from numerous group of persons which included Pincus and the two Mendelsohns, and Baron Von Muenchhausen was provided with the cash with which he paid the expenses of his journey to the United States.

Fissler's partner in this adventure was a lady's maid who had been formerly in the service of the rich American woman referred to by Fissler. She preceded the baron to the United States to negotiate the marriage, but her efforts were not successful. The name of the heiress was not disclosed in court.

Baron Finally Married.

Baron Von Muenchhausen did make the acquaintance while in the United States of Martha Washington Beckel, a widow of moderate wealth, whom, according to the German peerage, he married December 23, 1898. Since his marriage the baron has been living with his wife on his estate near Schwobler, Hanover.

On his return to Germany Baron Von Muenchhausen had to reckon with the holders of his bills. A compromise was negotiated with Pincus and the Mendelsohns, who surrendered his paper on the payment of comparatively small sums. Baron Von Muenchhausen afterward accused these men of blackmail and the matter was thus brought into court. Pincus and the Mendelsohns were acquitted of the charge.

DECLINES TO DENY FAITH IN POLYGAMY

Smoot Never Practiced It, but Says Belief Is His Own Affair.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, Nov. 6.—The Telegram prints an interview with Apostle Reed Smoot of the Mormon church, a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Rawlins, as follows:

"Is it true," was asked Mr. Smoot, "that you have secured permission of the church to make the race for the senatorship?"

"I have secured the individual permission of my associates. The church has nothing to do with it."

"What are your views on polygamy?"

"The church is living strictly in accordance with the manifesto, and I voted for and approved the same."

"Have you ever practiced or countenanced polygamy?"

"I never practiced polygamy."

"Did you believe in polygamy before the manifesto was issued?"

"As an American citizen I claim the right to believe as I please, so long as it does not interfere with the rights of any other citizen."

"Are not some of the apostles still practicing polygamy?"

"That is a matter of which I know nothing."

"What are your views on the action of congress in refusing to seat B. H. Roberts?"

"I think Mr. Roberts should have been seated first and tried later."

LAYING NEW WATER MAIN.

Work Started on Improving Allegheny's Down-Town Supply.

Work has been started on the big 36-inch main to be laid through the Allegheny parks, to connect the lower part of Allegheny with the Howard street pumping station. The new main is intended to give lower Allegheny a better supply of water and to add pressure to the fire plug streams. It is the intention of the department of public safety to have the line finished before the Pennsylvania railroad commences work on its new tracks through the park. The roadbed there is to be lowered considerably, and for this reason the main will have to be unusually deep.

The new main is to be the biggest in Allegheny. The expense of laying it was provided for in the bond issue of $300,000 made several months ago.

SOCIETY

MRS. MAXWELL K. MOOREHEAD gave a large luncheon yesterday afternoon at her home in Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside. Her sister, Mrs. Craig, of Philadelphia, who is visiting her, was the guest of honor, and the other guests included only the circle of old friends of Mrs. Craig. Luncheon was served at small tables placed throughout the dining room and the library and adjoining apartments upon the first floor of the house, one of the largest and handsomest in Shadyside. Mrs. Moorhead and her sister received in the long drawing room, which was simply decorated with tropical plants and flowers. There was little attempt at decoration, but the interior furnishings, the massive wood carvings and rich tapestries, together with the generous hospitality of the hostess, made the luncheon one of the most enjoyable social affairs of the day. It was a delightful reunion of old friends and social acquaintances.

A Debutante Reception.

Mrs. William Jones Sheraden of Sheraden, gave a large reception yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Schenley to introduce her daughter, Miss Wilbur Edith Duncan, to society. The private suite of parlors on the second floor was reserved for the entertainment. The decorations were exceedingly handsome, consisting largely of yellow and white chrysanthemums, against a deep background of palms and ferns. The debutante wore a pretty gown of white chiffon and lace while Mrs. Sheraden's gown was of black crepe de chine over white silk and chiffon.

Assisting the hostess and her daughter were Mrs. Fred King of Newark, O.; Mrs. James E. Duncan, Washington, Pa.; Mrs. Franklin P. Sims of Sheraden, Mrs. A. H. Helsey of Newark, Mrs. John Montgomery of Sewickley, Mrs. Wallace Martin, Mrs. H. J. Lindsay, Mrs. J. W. Williams, Mrs. Charles Reisfar, jr., Mrs. George H. Stengel, Mrs. Marshall Brown and Mrs. A. E. Best of the East End; Miss Emma Helsey of Newark, the Misses Agnes Duncan and Amy Duncan of Washington, Pa.; Miss Blanche Baird of Wheeling, Miss Belinda Kirby of Carnegie, Miss Margaret Knoder, Miss Katherine Reisfar, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Grace Martin and Miss Ida Abel of the East End.

Osborne Card Party.

Mrs. Henry W. Bishop was hostess at a very pretty card party last evening at her home in Osborne. The affair was the first of a series planned in honor of Miss Myra Murdoch, whose engagement to Percy Bishop has been announced. About 45 guests were present from the valley and city, and the house was elaborately decorated with chrysanthemums. The game was six-hand euchre and prizes were awarded the winners. About 60 invitations are out for a similar affair this afternoon by Mrs. Bishop, with the same honor guest.

Annual Meeting and Supper.

The annual meeting of the Fourth Avenue Baptist church will be held next Tuesday evening in the chapel of the church. Supper will be followed by the reception and presentation of reports. The hours will be from 6 o'clock until 10. The church has a membership of 750. The Rev. William Henry Swallow is the assistant and acting pastor, in the interval between the departure of the Rev. Dr. Barnes, and the call to a new pastor.

Event in Shields.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Alden gave a very pretty card party yesterday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock, at their home in Shields, in honor of their young daughter, Constance Alden. The guests numbered 30, and included the younger society set of the valley. The game was hearts and three dainty little prizes were awarded. The house was very prettily decorated.

Mrs. Westinghouse Entertains.

Mrs. George Westinghouse gave a large and elaborate reception on Monday afternoon at her summer home, Erskine Park, Lenox, Mass. Miss Rachel Aiken is a house guest at Erskine Park. She went east a week ago and will go to New York next week with Mr. and Mrs. Westinghouse for the wedding of her nephew, David Aiken Reed, and Miss Adele Wilcox.

Entertained Card Party.

Mrs. Homer Goff gave a prettily arranged card party of eight tables at her home in Belvedere street, Crafton, yesterday afternoon. Yellow chrysanthemums and ferns were the decorations in two of the apartments and red carnations were used in the other rooms. Progressive six-hand euchre was played. Mrs. Barton L. Little took first prize and Mrs. E. M. Young took second.

Luncheon at "As You Like It."

Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., gave a small and informal luncheon yesterday at her country home "As You Like It," in Sewickley Heights. It was in honor of Mrs. Francis King Wainwright, and the guests included one or two girls, besides Miss Elizabeth Ford Thaw and Miss Marion H. McLean, whom Mrs. Wainwright is visiting.

Dinner in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, and Miss Madelaine Laughlin went east to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Darlington. Mr. and Mrs. Darlington gave a very small dinner last evening at the Holland house, where they are spending November, the occasion being the 25th anniversary of their wedding.

Theater Party at the Alvin.

Miss Martha Dalzell gave a small theater party last evening at the Alvin in honor of Miss Spaulding of Buffalo, who is visiting the Misses Chambers at their home in Ridge avenue, Allegheny. The guests included a few out-of-town girls and men, and several of the younger Allegheny set. Supper followed the play.

Closing Their Summer Home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell, who have been spending the summer at Stockbridge, Mass., closed their cottage a few days ago and have returned to Pittsburgh. Mr. and Mrs. Brown Caldwell also spent the summer and autumn at Stockbridge.

Notes of Society.

Mrs. Joseph Langfitt of Linden avenue was hostess at an afternoon reception yesterday.

The Misses Pitcairn of Forbes street entertained at cards yesterday in honor of Miss Hulings of Oil City, who is visiting Mrs. Harry Fisher.

A musical and literary entertainment was given last evening in the First Presbyterian church of Crafton, under the direction of Miss Lola Cratty. The proceeds will go to the new church fund.

The Briar club of Sewickley will give a holiday dance at the Edgeworth club house on Friday evening, December 26, for the girls and boys home from school. Prominent society women of Sewickley will be the patronesses.

Dr. Amelia Dranga will deliver an address on "How to Keep Healthy," before the Business Women's club in its rooms, Arch street, Allegheny, this evening at 8 o'clock. All members of the club and their friends are invited.

Miss Sara H. Killikelly has cards out for an afternoon reception next Monday from 2 o'clock until 5, in honor of Mrs. Anthony W. Smith, jr. Mrs. John W. Sherrer and Mrs. Ruth Shaffner Ethier, at her home in South Highland avenue.

Mrs. Nathan P. Bindman gave a large and handsome afternoon reception yesterday in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Alexander William Steadman of Mauch Chunk, Pa. The hours were from 3 o'clock until 6, and the hostess was assisted in receiving by a number of friends. Mrs. Steadman has been spending a couple of weeks with her mother in Hays street, East End, and expects to prolong her visit for another fortnight. She is accompanied by her little daughter.

Prophet Becomes Prosecutor.

Hezekiah Archer, the blind colored singer of plantation melodies, who created a furore at Atlantic City last summer, when he predicted the famous resort would be devastated by a tidal wave, was before Magistrate McKenna at Central police station as a prosecutor yesterday. He alleged Frank Grimes and Mary Taylor, both colored, robbed his trunk of $135. The defendants were held for court.

Mother and Child

A Pretty Gown of Crepe de Chene Ornamented With Narrow Vertical Tucks and Bands of Blue Taffeta, Joined With Faggot Stitching.

Gowns for the Growing Girl.

For girls from 8 to 11 years of age plaids of every combination and material will be worn, those in subdued coloring and rough finish being given the preference in woolens when used for suits or coats and in the more pronounced tones for dresses. Silks show the gayest of colors and combinations and will be much used as yokes, undervests, undersleeves, blouses, etc., to relieve plain tones.

The most popular colors for this autumn and winter will be brown in a rich golden shade, dark blue, green in dark and medium tones and a rich, warm shade of red.

Rough, shaggy effects in camel's hair, homespun weaves, hopsacking and serges are shown in the shops as suitable for school frocks.

Simplicity should be the key-note in dress for school; elegant material or overelaboration in trimming on such frocks is always in poor taste. Sailor and Russian blouses with either kilted or box-plaited skirts attached to rounded or pointed yokes are very stylish. The sailor blouses are fashioned with deep vests heavily braided, collar, wristbands or cuffs and belt designed to match or are made of contrasting color and material; the large sailor collar with rounded corners attached to the vest; a leather belt is worn with this style.

A Common Mistake

What a pity that any mother should set forth the disobedience or cleverness of her children when conversing with friends in the presence of the little folks. To exploit children's faults as a means of "cultivating a proper shame" is a fatal error since this method of reform produces the reverse result. It touches their resentment and gradually becomes the source of defiant obstinacy in a repetition of "wicked ways."

No child was ever made better by an exposure of its faults. The figurative lash maddens the object of its infliction into a reckless pace of exceeding all former violations of becoming and good conduct.

The fault of a child is a very delicate matter for the mother to consider and treat. It's a germ of a possible later fruition of evil. It may be the beginning of a criminal record. It may be the inception of a penalty.

The mother with strong yet delicate perception treats the child's fault as gently as she does its sweet sentiment. Not in the same way, but as carefully and to its obliteration or correction. This fault is sacred to her—it is her very own, and she is responsible for its effects. She shields it from the criticism of those who feel no sense of mitigation—and would much prefer to be spared from a diagnosis of the faults of any mother's children.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

A Convenient Device.

Another domestic device which certainly fills a long-felt want, and for which we are indebted to a woman, is called the baby-jumper. Judging by the drawings of this device, the Mrs. Wilson who patented it has conferred an enormous boon on mothers who cannot afford nurses. The invention is a sort of frame in which the child can be comfortably placed, either sitting or standing, and fixed beyond reach of harm with straps. It is suspended to the ceiling by a rope and spiral wire spring, which, when weight is thrown upon it, dances the baby automatically.

The Teacher's Manners.

"I prefer that Miss L. should teach my children," said a mother to her friends. "Why do you prefer her?" queried the friend; "Miss B. is better accomplished, and has more experience." "Yes, that may be, but Miss L. has more engaging manners. She uses such gentle courtesy in intercourse with her pupils. You can always tell them from the others, because they are so polite, though unconsciously imitating their teacher. To my mind, the acquirement of courteous and charming manners is the best part of education."

For the Favorite Doll.

No one knows for what strange countries her dollship may set out, but when she does there is a little traveling case all ready for her in toyland, fitted with the tiniest brushes, combs, mirrors and all the toilet articles the doll of this enlightened age requires, and really and truly lockable, with the miniature key attached.

Feeding the Nursing Child.

Marianna Wheeler, who is superintendent of the Babies' hospital in New York, says that no patent food or careful home preparation can equal in wholesomeness mother's milk for babies. But she adds that too often the mother nourishes herself poorly or unwisely and the baby suffers in consequence. Late experiments and careful study have proved that the beer, porter, and malt liquors once recommended for the nursing mother are really injurious. The less she has of any drink contaiuing alcohol the better. Simple diet is best. Red meat should be eaten only once a day; meat of any kind is necessary only twice a day. Well cooked cereals, fresh vegetables, eggs and fruit should constitute the staple of her diet. A glass of milk should be drunk at least three times a day. If milk disagrees with her, let her put in it a pinch of carbonate of soda and if hot milk a very little salt and drink it slowly. Cocoa is better for a hot drink than tea or coffee, and the old-fashioned "rumbric tea" is a good drink, flavored with a little nutmeg. It is found that corn meal gruel, well salted, eaten generously between meals is particularly excellent for a nursing mother. Plenty of open air exercise, freedom from worry and an abundant supply of pure water are things necessary to the well-being of every mother of a baby.

The School Luncheon.

In many public schools there is a refreshment table connected with the building where hot milk and light foods may be obtained at a nominal cost. Nevertheless, many children for various reasons carry their luncheons from home. The great objection to the ordinary school luncheon is that it is put together too hastily, and as a consequence does not contain variety enough. Of sandwiches there are many kinds, and sandwiches should be the principal feature of a school luncheon. Any meat sliced or ground to a paste and seasoned may be used as a filling. Peanuts, hickory nuts and English walnuts ground and salted are good for the same purpose, and are nourishing and generally acceptable to children.

Sandwiches may be prepared the day before if they are wrapped in waxed paper to exclude the air. The crusts should always be trimmed off. This is no extravagance, if the crusts are dried, rolled into bread crumbs, sifted and stored away in a box for future use. It should be remembered that rolled sandwiches are more acceptable to juvenile appetites than ordinary ones, and do not get dry so quickly.

Sweet cakes and sandwiches of jam or preserves may properly form part of a child's luncheon, especially in cold weather. It is now known that the craving which children have for sweet things is a natural one, and should be gratified. Fancy sweet cakes filled with jelly and iced, cream puffs, or charlotte russe may always be advantageously added to a luncheon. Fancy cookies with nuts are both wholesome and attractive. Thin, saline wafers, spread first with a thin layer of cream cheese and then a layer of currant jelly are delicious.

Baby's Clothes Rack.

What a systematic day is this when even the infant is expected to hang up its little garments on a stick provided for that purpose! It is a decorated stick about a yard long and furnished with a row of fancy hooks. A motto winds among its pictures, setting it apart for "our little darling's clothes."

Child's Sleeping Bag.

Sometimes quite serious results follow the common habit of young children of throwing off their bedclothes at night. This is especially dangerous in cold weather, or when a child has a tendency to croup or sore throat. One of the best means of preventing the throwing off of the covering is to make a large bag, as large as a meal bag, shaping armholes and narrowing it somewhat at the neck, and putting the child into the bag at night and fastening it securely around his neck. Make the bag out of an old blanket or some warm flannel. It will be large enough to allow sufficient freedom of movement and at the same time will prevent him kicking off the coverings.

Careless Parents.

Of all the millions of little ones, busy at this very hour with their trivial occupations, silly to adult eyes, but covering, if we could but see beneath the surface, a mighty ebb and flow of human passion, how many are being hurt and baffled every second in their efforts for happiness by some rude act of their elders! Yet these elders are not often moved by the deliberate desire to do children an injury. The evil they do comes from their absorption in what they please to term the practical, important concerns of life. Grown people are mostly in haste to get about their business, and they believe themselves justified in knocking over or scattering whatever lies in their path. Fathers must earn the living, and in their headlong rush after the nimble dollar they do not pause long enough to comprehend the meaning of the dramas they catch glimpses of from time to time in their homes. The unfolding of delicate buds of child-character is a mystery they do not undertake to fathom. And the habit of indifference begets a certain callousness or cynicism that is the last blow to confidential relations.

Thirteen Fireworks Victims

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The 13th victim of the fireworks explosion in Madison square, on the evening of election day, died today. He was the only unidentified man among the injured who was taken to Bellevue hospital, and his death was caused by a broken skull. He was identified shortly after his death as William D. Drake, a bookkeeper.

Odell Contributed $10,000.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Gov. Odell filed his statement of election expenses today. It consists of one item, $10,000, contributed to the Republican state committee, for campaign expenses.

HOW TO HAVE A GOOD WIND.

Hunters invariably withhold meat from their dogs, feeding them upon dry bread, cornmeal and similar foods. When asked the reason for confining hunting dogs to such a diet, an experienced huntsman replied: "Meat spoils their wind and blunts their keen scent." Dr. Baeltz, a German physician, practicing in Japan, observed the same thing with reference to Japanese runners. The coolies who carried him lived on rice and beans. He gave them beefsteak. After three days they refused it, declaring it made them tired. The best of all muscle feeding foods is Toasted Wheat Flakes, sweetened with Malt Honey, made by Battle Creek Sanitarium Food Company. Each crisp delicately browned flake represents a flattened wheat grain thoroughly dextrinized through cooking and toasting. It contains all the muscle building qualities, is appetizing and immediately digestible.

WATER GETS LOW IN RESERVOIR

Drop of Six Feet Attributed to Many Leaks in New Basin.

RUNNING OUT RAPIDLY

Representative of Controller Larkin Finds Three Big Streams Issuing from Banks of Recently Completed Basin.

The water in the new Highland reservoir No. 2 is getting lower and lower, and many million gallons have escaped through cracks and crevices believed to exist in the big basin. It was a week ago today that the condition of affairs was discovered, and the pumping stopped by order of Director McCandless. In that time the depth of water in the reservoir has been reduced from 16 to 10 feet or less.

To all appearances the contractors are powerless to stop the outflow, although they claim it will cease in time by the deposit of sediment in the places where the water is escaping.

A Gazette representative yesterday found water still issuing from all sides of the embankment, in as large, if not larger quantities, than last week. The principal outlets are three spots, one on the north side toward the zoo, another on the west side, about opposite to the gateway, and the third on the south side toward Negley avenue.

At these places the water is coming out in streams almost as large as a man's arm. It is stated on good authority that the contractors have not let out any water, and that the falling in the reservoir is due solely to crevices. Only a few men were at work on the reservoir yesterday, finishing the foot-path around the top of the embankment. Workmen in Highland park, who are near the reservoir all day, say that the water is getting lower every day.

A representative of Controller Larkin inspected the reservoir a couple of days ago. He said he had found three large streams on the outside of the embankment about four inches in diameter.

He examined the walls and reported that they appeared to be poorly constructed.

A mason who was engaged in the construction of the inclosure states that the stone used in the basin was not dressed and pointed until after it had been laid in position and that the crevices were filled with cement. It is also alleged that the quality of the cement is largely responsible for the recent discoveries.

PROPOSES A CANAL IN OHIO RIVER FOR BOATS

Veteran Riverman Suggests Novel Substitute for Lock and Dam System.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 6.—Capt. Milton S. Marquis, a veteran river and canal boatman, has a plan for the Ohio river improvement which he believes would be cheaper and much better than the system of locks and dams now in general use. Capt. Marquis is a delegate from this city to the convention next Tuesday at Parkersburg, W. Va., to consider improvements needed along the Ohio.

If the advocates a system of canals built in the river, but kept separate from the river by masonry walls. As an example of the practicability of his scheme he cites the dam and lock construction about to be undertaken at Raccoon, four miles south of Beaver. Instead of the dam with projecting abutments, extending far into the channel and making a narrow and dangerous path for river craft, he suggests erecting a wall of masonry from the lock northward to Beaver.

The average height of such construction would be but six feet to provide for a five-foot stage of water in the canal. The cost of the canal masonry, the captain believes would be less than for the dam and abutments, while the latter, he claims, would not reduce the width of the channel.

PITTSBURGHER'S SANITY CALLED IN QUESTION

Tries to Check Out Masonic Funds from Bank, Claiming Right to Do So.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 6.

Robert Heim of Pittsburgh was arraigned today in the Jefferson Market police court on complaint of Cashier Snow of the Garfield National bank. Snow told Magistrate Barlow that Heim tried to obtain $6,000 from the bank on a check that was made out payable to himself.

Heim, in court, insisted that there were funds in the bank to meet the check belonging to the grand lodge of Free Masons.

Snow said Heim had no authority to draw such a check, and he had confiscated the paper and caused Heim's arrest. The assistant cashier sent to the offices of the Free Masons for Mr. Milligan, the secretary, and asked about the check and the man. Milligan said he did not know Heim as a member, and that Heim had no authority to collect $6,000.

Heim was locked up. An affidavit charging the prisoner with being insane was made out. Heim laughed at it and said he was entitled to the money. He could have drawn the check for more than that amount, but $6,000 was all he needed just now, he declared.

Before he left Pittsburgh three days ago, he said, he was informed by the grand lodge of Free Masons that he could draw checks on them and that their checks would be good anywhere. Heim said he was a machinist. He wore an Odd Fellows badge.

Magistrate Barlow committed him to Bellevue hospital for examination as to his sanity.

QUAY CASE TALKED OVER

Only One of Several Discussed by President Roosevelt and Civil Service Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The three members of the civil service commission had a long conference with the president today. The fact that Attorney General Knox was admitted to the president's office at about the same time gave rise to a belief that the case of Senator Quay, for alleged violation of the laws because his printed name headed a campaign circular sent out by the Pennsylvania Republican state committee to federal employes, asking for contributions, was under consideration.

Col. Clayton McMichael, postmaster at Philadelphia, happened along about the same time and was admitted to the president's room. This lent additional color to the belief. It was said that the Pennsylvania case was not the main one being talked over, but occupied only a small part of the discussion. The attorney general and Mr. McMichael did not take part in the conference.

M'KEESPORTERS SLOW.

Have Not Yet Forwarded Promised Petition on Postoffice Site.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—As yet the citizens' committee of McKeesport has not complied with the request of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Taylor concerning the site for the public building that they prefer. Mr. Taylor insisted that they should produce evidence showing that a majority of the people prefer the site named, and this they were to do by forwarding a petition signed by at least a majority of the committee of McKeesport. If this is done the site will be selected at the price named, $35,000.

It is probable that the site for the new postoffice building in New Castle will be accepted and announced in a day or two.

The report of the commission appointed to select a site for the marine hospital in Pittsburgh has not been presented to the secretary of the treasury, but is due in a few days. Nothing can be ascertained regarding the site selected by the commission.

F. M. Martindale has been appointed postmaster at Ansted, Fayette county, W. Va., vice G. M. Koontz, resigned.

PROBED BOUNDARY STORY.

Report of Lieut. Emmons, Who Visited Alaska, Given to Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Lieut. George T. Emmons, U. S. N., retired, has made to the secretary of state his report upon his investigation along the Alaskan boundary of what monuments have been discovered marking the real boundary line between Alaska and the British northwest territory at a point many leagues further from the sea than the British have been willing to admit.

The report has been referred to ex-Secretary John W. Foster and Senator Fairbanks for their information. They are members of the high joint commission which was charged with the settlement of the Alaskan boundary question, among many other important matters.

VEST'S SON DIES SUDDENLY.

Victim of Gastritis and Convulsion, His Body Found in Morning.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—George Vest, Jr., son and private secretary of Senator Vest of Missouri, died at the Columbia hotel in this city this morning. He went to the hotel at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was seen last by the night clerk at 3 o'clock this morning, when he asked for ice water. He complained of feeling ill.

When the clerk next called at the room, soon after 6 o'clock, he found Mr. Vest dead. The immediate cause of death was convulsions due to acute gastritis.

Cuba Still Holding Up the Treaty.

FORCING BLAST FURNACES OUT

Thousands of Operatives Are Thrown Idle Through Coke Embargo.

NO CARS IN COKE REGION

Shenango Furnace Co. Will Erect Two New Stacks to Produce 1,200 Tons a Day—Other Concerns Plan New Furnaces.

The embargo on coke, so far as the independent furnacemen are concerned, is growing worse daily and by the end of the week nearly all of the merchant furnace stacks of the Shenango and Mahoning valleys will be down, throwing many thousands of men out of employment. Yesterday the merchant furnacemen received no coke and about 16 stacks are banked in the districts named.

The day was the most harassing to the furnace operators of the three months during which their coke deliveries have been wretchedly inadequate. In the coke regions, the railroads delivered only 400 of the 2,200 cars necessary for the day's business and these, being loaded for the H. C. Frick Coke Company, either at its own ovens or at those of producers whose output was for the Frick company markets, were consigned to furnaces of the United States Steel Corporation.

This condition will be partially checked at the opening of next year, when the coke clearing house will be abolished at the same time that the Frick company will withdraw from much of the outside market, and eliminate its trade with foundry consumers. Then several important coke producers will market their own product. Several of the independent iron and steel concerns are taking steps to meet the policy of the steel corporation, whereby the big concern is arranging to hold to its own supply of raw materials.

The Shenango Furnace Company of Pittsburgh, which recently made tremendous purchases of ore property in the northwest, to be developed at a rate which will more than meet its own requirements, has about decided to add two large blast furnaces to its group at Sharpsville. These furnaces will cost about $1,250,000, and each will have a maximum production of 800 tons.

The three stacks owned by the Shenango Furnace Company have a combined daily capacity of 750 tons. For the new stacks the company will have four gigantic blowing engines. Another blowing engine is soon to be added to the battery of nine or 10 connected with the existing three stacks.

Other independent iron and steel concerns are planning an increase in blast furnace facilities. The Jones & Laughlin Steel Company will shortly add two or three stacks to the five already operated for a production of about 2,500 tons daily. The Union Steel Company is erecting two big stacks and will not conclude its extensions in this line till it has four. The Clinton Steel Company is erecting three big furnaces and the Pittsburgh Steel Company, through a subsidiary corporation, plans to erect two or three big furnaces.

WORK BEGUN ON CAPITOL.

Contractors Tearing Down Old Buildings to Make Room for the New Structure.

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The character of the granite to be used in the new capitol was considered at a meeting today of the state capitol commission. The commission decided to examine buildings constructed of the different stones.

Payne & Co., contractors for the capitol, have begun tearing out the interior of the main building and preparing the senate and house chambers for the meeting of the legislature. As soon as the old executive building and the internal affairs building are vacated, which will be some time this month, they will be torn down to make room for the wings of the capitol.

Charges Not Substantiated.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—A sensation was caused here yesterday afternoon by the charge of Frank Mayberry, former subcontractor on the municipal underground conduit system, that the work was being fraudulently done. Councilmen J. J. Dean, Thomas Carlisle and James George, and Conduit Inspector Price, tore up the paving at places designated by Mayberry as having been slightly in the work. The conduit was found to be above specifications.

Without a Postmaster.

KENT, O., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Feeder Dam postoffice, four miles north of Kent, is without a postmaster because Cupid made a victim today of Mrs. Lottie Jewett, who has held the office for three years. Yesterday she became the bride of John H. Bickell of Akron. The salary is so small that no one desires the office and it may have to be abandoned.

RENEWED LIQUIDATION IN THE MARKET

After a Period of Weakness, Eastern Stocks Closed Firmer on Short Covering---Local List All Lower.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The higher quotations for American securities which London sent over yesterday morning were thought to have been manipulated from this side for the purpose of making a firm opening in New York. The desired result was accomplished, but the higher initial prices soon gave way to the pressure of liquidating sales. One firm was credited with executing selling orders amounting to 35,000 shares, distributed among such stocks as United States Steel, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Reading. The selling was variously credited to a prominent banking house which may have been liquidating margined stock, and to western operators, some guesses locating the latter not farther west than Pittsburgh. The movement attracted short selling, and possibly liquidation from other sources, and for a time shortly before noon the tone of the market was decidedly heavy. In the afternoon the railway list improved slightly, and toward the close Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Missouri Pacific and Reading recovered all the early loss and closed fairly firm. The strength, however, was due almost entirely to shorts covering, there being no news to stimulate buying and no easing of the call money rate. Sugar and United States Steel were the weakest of the industrials and closed at the lowest point of the day. The decline in the former was based upon the cut made in the price of beet sugar, which was below the revised prices made by the refiners the day previous, indicating that a fight was being waged by the rival producers. The selling of Steel was apparently based upon reports of the closing down of furnaces, which was due more to inability to obtain an adequate supply of coke than to any falling off in the demand for metal. American Cotton Oil distinguished itself by a quick rise from 51⅜ to 54¼ on the unexpected declaration of a dividend of 4 per cent on the common stock, being double the rate paid last year.

Call money rates were, if anything, a little firmer, ruling at 5 to 6 per cent. It is estimated that fully $5,000,000 loaned yesterday at 6 per cent for periods ranging from 60 days to 6 months, indicating that large interests are providing themselves with the means for tiding over the end of the year settlements. If this preparation is general, and if speculation is confined to its present limits, the anticipated flurry in rates toward the end of the year will not occur. There was less heard during the day about gold exports, although sterling remained firm. London dispatches referred to a rumor there to the effect that some of the loans falling due had been renewed by American borrowers. Forces are at work, however, which will in a natural way tend to turn exchange in favor of this country. One of these was the decline in cotton to the lowest price on the present downward movement, the weakness being based upon a revision of crop estimates raising the total to 12,000,000 bales. Another was the heavy movement of wheat at western primary points. The receipts yesterday were about 500,000 bushels larger than for the corresponding day last year, and while the market was not materially affected, the accumulation of stocks will have a tendency to keep the price down to an export basis. Yesterday's clearances of wheat and flour were of fair volume, exceeding the equivalent of 340,000 bushels. There was no change in the English bank rate, which remains at 4 per cent, but bar silver made a new low record by selling in London at 23 1-16 pence per ounce. The only significant change in the weekly statement of the Bank of England was the decrease of $4,270,000, or nearly 1 per cent in reserve. Loans decreased only $405,000. The weekly statement of the Bank of France showed a decrease in gold of $465,000 and a decrease in bills discounted of $9,705,000.

Declines largely predominated in the local stock market yesterday, 16 securities showing a loss at the close, compared with the last previous sales. Local traders seemed to have imbibed some of the bearish sentiment prevailing in the east. In addition to this the buying power was restricted by the continued firmness of the money market. The state banks and trust companies will be called upon within the next few days for the usual semi-annual statement of condition, and in view of the attention now directed to the condition of the money market, as well as the increased local interest manifested in this class of stock, it is only natural that officials should desire to make the best possible showing. Recent calling of loans and the more marked indisposition to increase accommodation to borrowers are no doubt due to the preparations now being made for the reports to the state banking department. The only stock in which the transactions reached 1,000 shares was Crucible Steel, and the marketing of this block caused a decline of ⅜, but the stock closed steady at 21 bid. The preferred stock closed a shade lower at 85⅜. United States Steel declined to 39, a loss of 1 per cent, and the preferred to 87, a loss of ¼. Window Glass declined 1¾, selling down to 52¾ and closing at the low point. Westinghouse Electric second preferred declined to 105⅝, closing at that price bid. The coal stocks were ½ to ⅝ lower. Pittsburgh common leading the decline by selling down to 25¾. Brewing, Fire Proofing and Philadelphia Company all followed the general tendency, and on light transactions closed fractionally lower.

American Trust led the dealings by its group, and at the close sold off 1¾, a net loss for the day of 2 per cent. Real Estate Trust was the weakest of the list, declining to 90½, a net loss of 6½ for the day, but closing steady at the decline. Colonial Trust declined to 600. Commonwealth Trust sold at 242, an advance of 2 per cent, and German-American Savings and Trust was 10 points higher, selling at 175. An initial transaction was made in the new stock of the Diamond Savings bank, which sold at 220, or 20 points above the subscription price. Safe Deposit and Western Savings and Deposit were firm and higher.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The continued decline in the price of cotton and the increasing receipts of wheat should have the effect of increasing exports of these commodities and removing the necessity for any large exports of specie.

A sustaining factor in Atchison was a report that the October earnings would be more favorable than the most sanguine expectations.

The American Cotton Oil directors declared a dividend of 4 per cent on the common stock, 2 per cent payable December 1 and 2 per cent payable June 1, 1903. In 1901 the stock received 2 per cent and in 1900 2½ per cent.

Bar silver sold in London yesterday at 23 1-16, the lowest price ever quoted.

Pennsylvania oil was marked up 3 cents a barrel yesterday to $1.36.

The regular 1 per cent quarterly dividend on San Francisco second preferred was declared yesterday.

Diamond Match has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent, payable December 12 to stock of record November 28.

The gross earnings of Big Four for October increased $14,000.

On the local exchange 50 shares Ohio Fuel Supply sold at 38. The company has recently advanced the price of gas to domestic consumers, and there is some talk that the dividend rate will be raised.

German-American Savings & Trust sold yesterday at 175, a new high record. The board has decided that no transfers of stock will be made unless the same is full paid.

Initial sales of new Diamond Savings bank stock were made yesterday at 220, and the price subsequently at 221 bid, 225 asked. Payment of subscriptions on the stock, which were at the rate of $200 a share, was made Wednesday, the bank starting with a full-paid capital of $250,000 and a surplus equal to $250,000. In the present state of the money market it will find no difficulty in loaning its capital at 6 per cent, and inasmuch as it has no savings deposits to tie its capital, dividends are expected during the first year.

Robinson Bros. were sellers of 200 shares Crucible Steel, 200 shares Graphite & Sutton and 400 shares to Darr, Luke & Moore.

North American Savings closed at 128½, asked. Commonwealth National bank was quoted at 107@109½; South Side Trust closed at 102 bid.

Pittsburgh & Charleroi 5s were quoted at 104¼ bid.

There were no transactions in bonds on the local board yesterday. Investors appear to prefer bank and trust company shares.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fidelity Title & Trust Company will be held November 15, and that of the Pittsburgh Trust November 18.

If Wall street's step-up of the situation is correct, Pittsburgh had a hand on the selling side of the market yesterday.

Said a broker after the close of the local market: "There was a big deal on in Steel involving American Trust, it is safe to assume that the promoters have already secured enough stock to carry out their plans. The action of the stock today indicated that traders who imagined that there is a deal on, and who bought at lower prices, were trying to take profits."

The heaviness in the local market is due partly to sympathy with Wall street, which is extremely bearish just now, and partly to the condition of the local money market. After the call has been made for semi-annual statements of the state banks and trust companies, the money market should rule easier.

The gross earnings of Great Northern for October were $715,900. So far the manner in which the business of the roads in the combination is keeping up justifies the estimate of the promoters of the Northern Securities Company.

A Wall street dispatch stated that the Pressed Steel Car Company and the Morton Trust Company have brought suit against the Standard Steel Car Company for infringement of patents.

So far the Wall street bears are without a leader and run very quickly. If Mr. Keene or Mr. Gates sooner or later takes the other side, however, there is no telling what might occur. The market seems to be seeking a lower level, but at no time that alarms nobody.

A large commission house wired its Pittsburgh correspondent after the close of the market as follows: "The general feeling has shown itself today as being less pessimistic and there was some investment buying of Pennsylvania and St. Paul, and while it is generally believed that the top prices to sell stocks have been removed, there is no cause for any great anxiety about general conditions. Nevertheless the disposition continues to withhold support and await the adjustment of the demands of labor for additional recognition and settlement of our foreign obligations. There has been an entire absence of outside buying of that character, and even the speculative element quits some developments before venturing to commit itself to either side of the market."

A grain buyer representing large Chicago elevator interests was in the city yesterday. Speaking of the movement of wheat, he said: "I find that throughout the west the farmers are holding for higher prices, and especially that they are not disposed to sell their wheat at present prices. The wheat now coming to market represents sales of farmers' stocks chiefly. I expect this movement will continue for several weeks yet, after which I expect to see primary receipts fall off, and only a higher market will start the movement again. The west is prosperous and able to hold its grain."

Regarding the weakness in United States Steel, the Wall Street Journal says: "Despite the denials and explanations that have been made in connection with the cut in prices of some of the companies' products, the impression has become quite general that the iron trade generally is full of evil and is warring on its prosperity and that in some directions there has been a definite turn towards a reaction. However this may be, the fact remains that selling of steel on a giant's scale has evidently been noted in quite a long time has lately and early next week the boat will be ready to float down the river.

Rivermen say that if the government would send dredgeboats to two or three local shoals on the upper Ohio river and do a little dredging it would materially benefit navigation.

Sweeney Bros. of Jeffersonville, Ind., are building a large dredgeboat for the United States engineers, which arrived from the Ohio, and the men are putting on the planking.

The United States lighthouse boat Golden Rod on her last trip down the Ohio river established a beacon light at Straight Ripple, which will be an improvement to the light service.

Capt. Charles Gound was yesterday assigned to command the towboat Clifton. Capt. Frank Wilkins, who had been on this boat for several months, resigned. He is a lower river boatman.

Capt. Peter Sprague expects to leave for New Orleans in a few days to introduce some improvements on the boat he made to successfully strengthen the hull of the big towboat Sprague, which has broken her hogchains three or four times.

Howard has launched the big barge for the Capital City Oil Company of Baton Rouge, the slide of 200 feet having been successful in a pretty and successful. Tomorrow the big Irish boat Carrig will go to water, painted black as far all over.

The big dam in Little Wheeling creek above Rosbys Rock, Va., is said to be in a very bad condition, and the people in the Ohio river lowlands near there are much alarmed lest it should give way. There is 12 feet of water back of the dam.

It is said that the hospital commission will recommend three sites and the rivermen are quite anxious to know where they are. It is believed that they are within easy access of the Monongahela wharf, for one of the sites is said to be in the built-up section of the city.

Capt. Edward McLaughlin, secretary of Harbor No. 25, Masters and Pilots, has his license framed in a very unique manner. It is encased in a silver cylinder-shaped case, and the case being round, makes it very convenient to carry in a grip. Pilots going from one boat to another must take their license with them, and being in a frame, it sometimes makes a burdensome package.

DOWNTOWN SALE OF $60,000 EAST END PLOT BRINGS $50,000

Business Block in Allegheny Sold for $28,000. Farm Sales Last Year Eclipsed the Record.

Another sale of Liberty avenue property has been made through the agency of the Real Estate Trust Company, the amount involved being $60,000. The property sold is No. 616 and belonged to George Alexander. The lot measures 20.1x75.6 feet on the south side of the avenue and extends through to Virgin alley. A three-story brick building now occupied by Wormald & Co., hardware dealers, stands on it. The price is at the rate of about $3,000 a front foot, and the buyer's name is withheld until the final papers are delivered.

It was learned yesterday that the Bindley Hardware Company bought for its proposed warehouse in the Shadyside district through Black & Baird. The exact consideration was $50,000, instead of $75,000, as reported. The plot purchased is known as the Childs property, and measures 300x360x200 feet. It includes about 15 acres, and located a short distance west of the Shadyside station at the intersection of the Pennsylvania railroad and Amberson avenue, and just below the Childs residence. The warehouse, for which Architect Charles Bickel is now preparing plans, will be a four-story brick and steel structure of extra heavy construction, and will cost $250,000.

Allegheny Sale of $28,000.

The F. W. Symmes property at the northwest corner of Federal and Lacock streets, Allegheny, has been sold for about $28,000. The deal was made through the agency of Edward G. Lang, but he declined to give the buyer's name or the details in the transaction until the deeds were delivered. The reputed purchaser is an Allegheny business man, who bought the property purely as an investment. The lot faces 22 feet in Federal street and 120 feet in Lacock street. The three-story brick block known as No. 701 Federal street, is occupied by the Kaercher Drug Company. At the price paid, about $1,273 a front foot, the buy is considered a good one, as the property is bound to enhance greatly when the new Union station is completed, a fact which is already evident to many investors, who are seeking investments on the north side of the river in preference to high priced properties in Pittsburgh.

Through the Gordon Smith Company James Treasy has bought from Robert M. Reynolds the property at No. 436 third avenue for $25,000. The lot measures 21x86 feet and is improved with a three-story brick building. It is known as the Vogel property, and was bought by Mr. Reynolds about a month ago for $22,000. By this purchase Mr. Treasy and others become owners of a plot 80x100 feet at the southwest corner of Grant street and Third avenue, on which they propose to build in the spring a 10-story hotel to cost not less than $100,000.

Considered a Wise Choice.

At a meeting of the directors of the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company Wednesday afternoon D. T. Watson was elected counsel for the company and Attorneys R. B. Petty and William A. Way were chosen solicitors. The Commercial National bank is now fully established as a constituent part of the Commonwealth in the old offices of W. A. Herron & Sons in Fourth avenue, which have been lately remodeled and refitted to add to their convenience.

The Consolidated Real Estate Company has received its charter and will be ready to open for business about December 1 in its leased office at No. 308 Fourth avenue. A meeting of the firms composing it will be held today, when the capitalization will be decided upon and the locations selected for the East End, Allegheny and South Side offices.

Record Breaker for Farm Sales.

The annual report of Binger Herrmann, commissioner of the general land office, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, is most gratifying from a real estate standpoint. It shows that the government has sold more land and received more cash in return than for many years previous. The total receipts for the year were $6,261,927.18, an increase over the previous year of $1,289,766.39. A total of 19,488,535 acres of land was disposed of, or 3,955,289 acres more than in the year ending June 30, 1901. The number of original entries was also larger than ever before, being 98,829, which embraced 14,033,245 acres. This remarkable activity, which is reported chiefly from the west, speaks volumes for the prosperity of the country and together with the fact that more mortgages have been paid off than in any previous year and more cash deals have been made between private individuals, shows that farming and grazing are likely to attract even larger numbers of land buyers to the west next year.

The activity in farm land has been very noticeable in the territory within a radius of 10 miles of Pittsburgh. According to brokers more land has been sold in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky the past year than in any of the 15 years preceding.

More Flats for East End.

Architect Will A. Ulom is preparing plans for a three-story pressed brick apartment house, to be erected by Frank P. Ulom, the contractor, on the north side of Ivy street, near Ellsworth avenue. The building will measure 28x70 feet, and will contain three flats of six rooms and bath each. The cost is estimated at $20,000. The same architect has plans for a $6,000 brick house to be built for William McHendry in College avenue, East End.

Albert J. Mansmann has bought from Mary Jane Jenkins property, 25x145 feet, on the north side of Penn avenue, near Highland avenue, Nineteenth ward, for $16,000. The lot extends through to Kirkwood street and has erected on it a two-story brick building. It adjoins the property of C. B. Seeley and James Reed.

The Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company sold for the Security Investment Company the third of the new houses, which it has just completed in Winchiddie avenue, Nineteenth ward, for $8,000.

Alder street: The Real Estate Trust Company sold for Frank J. Lanahan to Marguerite J. Houston an improved lot, 41x115 feet, on the south side of Alder street, near College avenue, Twentieth ward, for $8,250.

Idlewild street: The Pittsburgh Trust Company sold to John Finley an improved lot, 20x93 feet, on the north side of Idlewild street, Twenty-first ward, for $9,000.

Enoch street: Samuel Sheffler sold to the Standard Chain Company a lot, 40x495 feet, on the south side of Enoch street, near Devilliers street, Eleventh ward, for $7,500.

Carnegie avenue: Bridget Burke sold to Thomas H. Burke an improved lot, 20x100 feet, on the south side of Carnegie avenue, Eighteenth ward, for $2,000.

Pine street: J. A. Bleichner sold for Henry Dammo to John Wiwatowski an improved lot, 40x117 feet, on the north side of Pine street, Twenty-seventh ward, for $1,150.

Colonial Lot Sales.

The Union Realty Company sold the following lots for the Allaire Land Company in its plan near the Colonial steel works: To John Wyland No. 381, for $150; to Wesley Greer No. 235 for $625; to Charles T. COMMISSION SCATTERS.

Mine Strike Arbitrators Leave Anthracite Region, Except Mr. Watkins and Bishop Spalding.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Chairman Gray, Recorder Wright, Brig. Gen. Wilson and Mr. Parker of the anthracite strike commission, and Assistant Recorders Moseley and Neill arrived late this afternoon from the coal regions. Judge Gray went to his home in Wilmington. Commissioner Parker departed for New York, while Recorder Wright, Gen. Wilson and the other members of the party left for Washington. Commissioner Clark left the party at Reading and started for Chicago.

Bishop Spalding and Commissioner Watkins returned to Scranton, where they will remain for some time. Scranton is Mr. Watkins' home. The Bishop will be the guest of Bishop Hogan.

The commissioners will meet again at Scranton on November 14, when the hearing of the miners' side of the case will begin.

HIGHER QUOTATIONS FOR STRAW AND OATS

Uncertain Transportation Annoys Merchants—Cereal Foods Are in Demand.

Long continued scarcity of straw has at last become apparent in price conditions, and quotations for all kinds have gone forward $50 a ton with the demand unsatisfied for all rye straw. Sales of oat straw were made yesterday at $9.00, while rye easily commands $9.50@10.00. There is little doubt that straw will be higher before it is permanently lower, and, if dependence for supplies is to be placed upon the far western sections, there will be material advances. Users of straw will insist upon having their wants supplied from somewhere, and as nearby stocks seem to be exhausted, the west must necessarily be looked to for help. Oats and timothy hay scarce, and prices are higher, what little is arriving being quickly snapped up without much regard to price. Some new oat is coming to market, and the price of the same ranged 50@52c. Oats were firm, with quotations a trifle higher than at the opening of the week, owing to the fact that, while prices are lower in the west, the impossibility of getting stock here fast enough to take care of requirements has forced up the market. Railroads are unable to give proper transportation facilities, or quotations would be going lower in place of advancing.

Delayed Shipments Announced.

The grocery market is steady, with business active, but no price changes of importance to record. Flour is unchanged, but the trouble and uncertainty attendant upon transportation, with the numerous railroad blockades, are causing jobbers to purchase sparingly. Cereal foods are much in demand, but are growing so constantly in variety as to have almost got the retail dealer distracted. New brands are constantly being put on the market, with liberal and lurid advertising, occasioning varied demand, which requires the retailer to carry a greatly assorted stock, which many dealers who have not unlimited capital, do not care to undertake. Canned goods are also on the market, and coming into request. Beans have been slightly easier all this week, the influence of the fancy imported stock being felt, but no full decline has occurred, nor does it seem as though any break in the market was probable.

Canned goods are now receiving much attention, and prices are firm. There is growing demand for fruits now preserved, each year the canning season is extended, and the good name of serving and many upon the stocks of large canning establishments. Currants and other dried fruits are in excellent demand, at unchanged prices.

Fruits and Produce Quiet.

Quiet prevailed in the fruit and produce trade yesterday, demand being rather limited, but quotations were firm, and no declines were reported. Stocks of potatoes were very firm. Jerseys going forward in price. The large supply of apples in the produce yard is being diminished by liberal storage buying, and quotations were steady, no reduction in prices occurring, though a steady decline set in Wednesday. Potatoes are easy, but are selling freely, and have gone no lower. Sweets are steady at prices ruling all week. Concord grapes are holding their own, with prices steady and demand moderately good. Jobbers are getting ready for Christmas greens, and will commence to quote stock of this kind in a few days.

There was nothing out of the ordinary in the poultry market yesterday, prices being the same as on Wednesday, the only change occurring so far being the lowering of quotations for live turkeys. Chickens are in plentiful supply, but demand is sufficient to keep the market from going lower.

Butter is still very firm, but without change in price. Cheese is steady at former quotations. Fresh eggs are scarce and strong, 25 cents being easily secured for choice stock, with some few sales made at a trifle higher figures. The present time is between seasons, and receipts are very limited.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts built up but a trifle yesterday, 20 cars hay, 3 cars feed, 3 cars oats, 1 car corn, 1 car straw, 1 car corn; Baltimore & Ohio railroad 2 cars hay, 2 cars straw, 1 car oats; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 8 cars hay; Pittsburgh & Western railroad, 1 car hay, 1 car oats, 1 car corn. Total receipts, 45 cars.

The DryGoods Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The drygoods market today has not changed in any important feature. The demand has been quiet throughout for cotton goods, with previous prices upheld. The decline in raw cotton keeps buyers shy, but has not weakened sellers. Silks are in fair demand and firm. Silk ribbons firm, with moderate business.

DULLNESS PREVAILS IN GRAIN MARKETS

Corn and Wheat Close at Lower Prices, With Oats Unchanged.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Dullness prevailed on the board of trade today and wheat was lower, December closing ¼c down. December corn closed ½@⅝c lower and oats remain unchanged.

Wheat ruled dull, with operations largely of a scalping nature. There was a fairly good buying of May, while the selling pressure, which has been much in evidence the past few days, was almost entirely absent. A fair general demand, together with the early strength in corn, caused a strong tone during the greater part of the day. Realizing by longs late in the session caused a decline and the close was steady. Primary receipts were 1,432,000 bushels, against 963,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 871 cars, which, with local receipts of 92 cars, only two of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 963 cars, against 1,001 cars last week, and 642 cars a year ago.

Corn was quiet and irregular, with local sentiment inclined to the bull side. There was some selling pressure on December early, while elevator interests were credited with selling November. Shorts were the best buyers. Selling was chiefly by longs, in the way of liquidation. Local receipts were 111 cars, with 28 of contract grade.

Oats were featureless and the volume of business was light. The close was steady. Local receipts were 112 cars.

Provisions were under the leadership of lard, and with small stocks of that commodity, and a material decrease in the receipts of hogs, the opening was strong. Realizing by longs brought a reaction. The close was slightly easier, except on lard.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 220 cars; corn, 285 cars; oats, 240 cars; hogs, 18,000 head.

FORFEITURE CLAUSE IN WILLS DECLARED ODIOUS

Judge Hawkins Hands Down Important Opinion in Friend Case, Bearing on Questions in Laura Biggar Contest.

Judge Hawkins, in orphans' court, handed down an important opinion in the matter of the estate of the late Rebecca J. Friend, upon the question whether or not a clause of forfeiture contained in the will effects the claim of a contesting legatee. The decision of the court means that Charles Porter Friend will not lose his share of his mother's estate. The same same question is involved in the Laura Baggar case.

Under the will of Rebecca J. Friend $70,000 was left in trust. Of this Charles Porter Friend receives the benefit of $20,000 for life, with the remainder to J. W. and H. F. Friend; $12,500 for Agnes, wife of Charles, with the remainder to their sons; $37,500 for the daughter of a Mrs. Maxwell, while the bulk of the estate, which is worth about $200,000, was given to J. W. and H. T. Friend absolutely.

The will contains a clause that, should any legatee enter a contest, he shall forfeit his bequest. Charles Porter Friend contested the will on the ground of undue influence.

Judge Hawkins says cases like this are to be construed with great strictness, as they go to divest estates already divested and breach on the liberty of the law. Regarded as clauses of forfeiture, the court says they are not favorites of the law and have no place in the administration of equity. No provision can be found to oust the supervisory power of courts of justice to control them within the legitimate sphere, which is generally to prevent vexatious litigation.

Judge Hawkins then says:

Cloture is obviously a ready instrument of fraud, and has, in all probability, been as often used for that as for legitimate purposes. Experience has shown that the strongest and much more easily, weaker men, may be made the victims of fraudulent practices and the clause be used as a shield to prevent investigation.

The very denial of the right to contest is an assumption of infallibility which is itself evidence of weakness. Common practice demands that in ordinary business dealings precaution should be taken against imposition; and with much more reason shall the final act of testamentary disposition to circumstances of imposition, undue influence or actual fraud may appear, which will make it the duties of parties in the interests of justice, aside from any pecuniary interest, to evoke the aid of courts. And the detection and punishment of fraud or imposition are always in the interest of good government; and it matters much to the state whether or not the helpless dependent shall be thrown on the poor laws by disinheritance.

If legatees resort to courts of equity to ascertain doubtful rights under the will, or how far their interests are affected, causes of forfeiture are not considered as meant to determine the tator's bounty, but simply to guard against vexatious litigation.

As to probable cause for contest, the court says that was a matter for the decision of counsel, whose office it is to advise, and the circumstances were not only such as would warrant any ordinary prudent man in believing in the exercise of undue influence in the making of the will, but such as induced able counsel to advise contest.

In conclusion Judge Hawkins declares: "Even assuming they have a legal right to exact forfeiture, it does not necessarily follow that they have any status here. This is a court of equity and in courts of equity, equitable principles must prevail and forfeitures are odious."

SHOUP CASE ARGUED.

Supreme Court Hears Four Allegheny County Appeals.

The case of Mrs. L. E. Shoup against her husband, L. E. Shoup, appellant, was argued in the supreme court yesterday. Mrs. Shoup claimed that her husband, by false representation, obtained her satisfaction to a judgment of $18,000. Common pleas court No. 2 opened judgment and Shoup took an appeal.

Another case argued was that of the city of Pittsburgh, appellant, against the Sterrett sub-district school. The question involved is whether the city has the right of lien against the defendant for damage as the result of the improvement of Linden avenue.

Another case of importance was that of the city of Pittsburgh against the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western Railroad Company, an appeal by the plaintiff from the decision of common pleas court No. 3, in the matter of occupying a part of the Monongahela wharf. Other Allegheny county cases argued were:

Miles Bryan against the First National bank of McKees Rocks, appellant, an action growing out of the purchase of the assets of the firm of Cochran & Fleming, executrix, appellant, against Cochran Fleming, an action growing out of a partnership.

COL. N. M. SMITH'S WILL.

Leaves Implements of War to Grandson and Estate to Daughter.

The will of the late Col. Norman D. Smith was filed. He directs that his daughter, Gertrude B., shall receive his life insurance policy, 100 shares of Pennsylvania railroad stock and the income of 145 more shares. His daughter, Fanny S. Schoen, is given 50 shares of Pennsylvania railroad stock, and his grandson, W. H. Schoen, Jr., is given all the decedent's implements of war, which he carried through the civil war, and other military insignia, as well as the testator's membership in the military order of the Loyal Legion.

WITNESS WAS ABSENT.

Case Put at Foot of List Because F. M. Osburn Could Not Appear.

The case of William Orr against Hughes Oliphant and others was put at the foot of the list in common pleas court No. 3 yesterday, on account of the absence of a witness, F. M. Osburn, a well-known business man in this city.

J. H. Johnston presented an affidavit that Mr. Osburn is a material witness for the defense, and that on Wednesday after the close of court he said he would not and could not appear on Friday to testify, on account of the pressure of business, as he intended going to Cleveland.

Guilty of Negligence

Judge Kennedy yesterday refused to take off a non-suit in the case of Mary Longsdon against the United Traction Company, for damages for the death of her husband, John Longsdon. He attempted to board a car but was on the wrong corner and was motioned to by the conductor, to that effect. In trying to run ahead of the car to get to the opposite corner he was struck. Judge Kennedy says that as Longsdon ran across the track in front of the car and was caught and killed, he was guilty of contributory negligence.

EQUITY DID NOT APPLY.

Judge Buffington Refused to Compel Women to Buy a Home.

Suits Over Patents.

Judge Buffington yesterday dismissed the bill in the suit in equity of Augustus Wright against Mary A. Dunn and Rose L. Dunn to enforce a contract by the defendants to buy a Virginia homestead.

The women contemplated making a winter home in Virginia and entered into an agreement, valid under Virginia laws. They paid $100, but subsequently wrote from Baden, Pa., that they did not want the farm.

Judge Buffington says that the complainant had agreed to deliver a deed for the property before a certain date, but there was no evidence to show he had tendered it as required. The opinion continues: "The enforcement of this bill compelling these women to take this property, which they intended using as a home, would compel them to accept a place, which in all probabilities they would never use. No stranger would care to enter a community and seek to make it a home when his coming was not the result of a choice, but by the imperative decree of a chancellor. Every equity case depends upon its own specific facts, and we think that this is one where not the arbitrary will, but the broad discretion of the chancellor should be exercised."

In the same court two bills in equity were filed for alleged infringement on patents. One case was entered by the Liberty Manufacturing Company against the American Brewing Company, for using and manufacturing a tube cleaner, which, in part, is an alleged infringment on a patent of William S. Elliott, which the plaintiff company owns.

The other case was entered by Edward J. Morris against the Connenut Lake Amusement Company of Pittsburgh for making and using "tobboggan slides" and "tracks or way for amusements," alleged to infringe on patents held by the plaintiff.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

A foreign attachment was issued by Cyrus Roth against Charles F. Richmond, naming the Lincoln National bank as garnishee.

Isaac S. Bryan yesterday entered suit against the borough of Homestead for $1,000 damages, alleged to have been done to his property by street improvement.

The commissioner in the divorce suit of George D. H. Lawton against Sadie Lawton filed his report. The libelant alleges his wife left him on March 15, 1900, refusing to divulge to him where she was going. Subsequently he learned she was fond of another man.

Industrial Home Meeting.

A meeting of those interested in extending and promoting the work of the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale, will meet at the residence of L. T. Goders, Watkins and Murray Hill avenues, East End, tonight. The juvenile court is sending boys to that institution, there being no other place under Protestant auspices.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE DIVIDED ON REVISION

To Submit Report to Pittsburgh Presbytery Next Tuesday.

The report on creed revision, which will be presented to the Pittsburgh presbytery next Tuesday, is a divided one. Unless the committee on bills and overtures can agree before that time, there will be a majority and a minority report.

Those who oppose tampering with the confession know that this will be their last opportunity for expressing themselves, as already the overures looking to revision have passed the necessary two-thirds of the presbyteries.

Members of the committee, of which the Rev. Grier M. Kerr of Raccoon is chairman, take the ground that the presbytery should vote for revision, because the assembly was unanimous on the subject and because the 90 presbyteries that have voted are all in favor of the overtures. They think the adoption of the revision report will stop all agitation. The opponents to revision say that the general assembly was not unanimous, but simply passed the overture down to the presbyteries for action.

The presbyterial committee on missions of the Pittsburgh presbytery have appointed the Sunday before Thanksgiving as the day to take collections for the $50,000 fund for church extension within the bounds of the presytery. It is proposed to erect churches at Apple avenue, Twenty-first ward; Arlington Heights, Twenty-seventh ward; West Liberty, Thirty-eighth ward; Morningside, Eighteenth ward; Blackadore avenue; Italian mission, East End; Clairton, Dohora, Heidelburg and Greenfield avenue.

Wabash President Says Work Here Is Progressing Well.

President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash, remained in Pittsburgh until last night. Before leaving Mr. Ramsey said that he had found the detail of the plans of the Wabash in this district working out in the most satisfactory manner, except the bridge work. "The steel for the bridges should be here now," said Mr. Ramsey. "There have been delays for some reason or other in the delivery. It is now said that the material will be delivered early in the year."

This delay in receiving bridge material has been met by the Pennsylvania in all its recent work about this city. The rush of orders on the structural mills has been unprecedented.

In regard to the conference held by Mr. Ramsey and Chief Engineer J. W. Patterson of the Wabash extension, with Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager, and J. A. Atwood, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, Mr. Ramsey said: "There was no change in the relations of the two companies over the proposed Wabash line up the Monongahela river. The subject was discussed somewhat. The visit was largely a personal one."

The plans of the Wabash for the extensions into the coal and coke fields of Washington, Fayette and Greene counties are progressing well. The plans have not yet reached the stage of construction, but the preliminaries are now far advanced. The heartiest welcome is being given the new line by the people of the counties it will enter.

The bid for the extensions of the Little Kanawha, which were opened on this visit of the Wabash president, will require a week more for consideration.

It was announced yesterday that Mr. Ramsey will speak before the Y. M. C. A. of the Pennsylvania railroad employes at Pitcairn, November 16.

E. A. WESTCOTT RESIGNS.

Office of Master Car Builder Supplanted by That of Car Inspector.

The title of master car-builder has been abolished by the Baltimore & Ohio, and E. A. Westcott, who held that position with headquarters in Pittsburgh, has resigned. The duties of the office will be placed in charge of a "car inspector." S. A. Cromwell of Baltimore has been named to fill the new Pittsburgh position. The jurisdiction of the Pittsburgh officer covers the Connellsville, Pittsburgh, New Castle, Cleveland, Newark and Chicago divisions.

This change in office is due to the consolidation of the car and motive power departments of the company, which took place some time ago. The title of master car-builder was judged a misnomer, because the official reported to the motive power department.

Warm Contest for the Honor.

The fight for the position of member of the advisory committee of the Pennsylvania voluntary relief department on the Pennsylvania railroad division has become one of the hottest in the history of the department. The ballots will be cast during the week of November 15-22. W. E. Shaffer, baggagemaster on the Pittsburgh division, is making a fine showing in his campaign. His principal opponent is the incumbent, Engineer J. V. Collins, of the middle division.

Absorbed $500,000,000 of Capital.

Reports of the interstate commerce commission covering the financial operations of railroads from 1890 to 1900, show that in that period $500,000,000 of the capital stock of railroads in this country was absorbed by the few large systems which have been gathering in the smaller lines. In the last year covered by the report no less than $250,000,000 of this stock was absorbed, and there has been quite as much of the same work going forward in the years 1901 and 1902 for which figures are not yet obtainable. Few important railroads in this country today are not controlled by one of less than a dozen large railroad interests, while small lines have been gathered in by the score.

Following the record of 2,000 excursionists over the new grade division of the Allegheny Valley on November 2, it is expected that another record-breaking excursion will be run Sunday next on the river division of the road. On the same day the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh will have a similar excursion. The coal-consumption exhibit at Schenley park and the art exhibits at Carnegie Institute are the attraction.

BUTCHERS' STRIKE TO BE ADJUSTED SOON

Four Firms Are Ready to Sign Wage Scale—May Involve Other Trades.

There is every prospect of an early settlement of the strike of the butchers, in spite of the fact that the employes of Dichtrich & Co. of Woods Run went out yesterday morning. This swells the force of strikers to 600. Four of the 18 firms against whom the strike was undertaken sent word yesterday morning that they were ready to sign the scale. These were Seller Bros. & Co., Klugan & Co., Seda Bros. and McCutcheon Bros.

The Pittsburgh Provision Company, against which the fight is being waged the hardest, offers to pay the wages demanded, but will not sign the scale. Henry Lohrey of Allegheny, who employs a great many men, refused to pay the wages or sign the scale, and says that he will hold out until the strikers are ready to return to work on the old basis.

Other trades will be involved if a settlement is not soon reached. The Building Trades council has agreed to co-operate with the butchers in stopping the extensive repairs at Herrs Island; and the hundreds of coopers employed there and elsewhere by packing companies will quit work if necessary.

Allegheny Bride Made Trouble.

Mrs. Rebecca Croker, 35 years old, a bride of six months, was fined $10 yesterday morning by Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen of Allegheny, on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was arrested Wednesday night at her home in Royal street, Allegheny. Her husband appeared against her at the hearing and testified that his wife was addicted to drink and was frequently under its influence.
